Stalin's Daughter Seeks U.S. Refuge

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Svetlana Stalin, daughter of late Soviet dictator Joseph Stalin, defected to the West apparently after flying to New Delhi with the ashes of an Indian who may have been her husband, Russian sources said here today.

They said she went to India soon after Brijesh Singh, an Indian Communist, died at Moscow in December or January.

The sources said Miss Stalina was believed to have married Singh about two years ago but that there was no way of confirming the story.

The Soviet foreign ministry and American and Indian embassy spokesman declined comment on reports that Miss Stalina defected to the U.S. embassy in New Delhi and now was in Rome.

The sources said Miss Stalina, 42, had a long love affair with 59-year-old Singh, who worked as a translator with a Soviet publishing organization.

In New Delhi, informed sources said that Miss Stalina flew to Rome Wednesday after staying a month with Singh's family in the Indian capital.

SEEKING ASYLUM

They said Miss Stalina left New Delhi after telling the American embassy that she was seeking political asylum.

The Russian sources in Moscow said Singh, 59, originally came to Russia for medical treatment.

They said Singh died and was cremated in Moscow shortly before Miss Stalina obtained permission to visit his family in India.

They said it was unlikely she would have been given a travel passport unless she and Singh were legally married.

LEFT CHILDREN

Other Moscow informants said Miss Stalina left behind two children by a former marriage, a son about 21 and a daughter about 15.

They were believed to be the children of Grigory Marozov, a student she married when she was 17 and was later forced by Stalin to divorce.

Miss Stalina was said to speak English fluently. She was also a good pianist and often played for her father.

Her mother died in 1932. Some reports said she committed suicide; others said she was killed in reprisal by a political opponent of Stalin.

A police official at Rome airport reported that Miss Stalina arrived in Rome a few days ago, and that she probably was still in the Italian capital.

SOME LOVERS JAILED

She has lived in obscurity since her father's death but was the subject of lively gossip while he lived. Reports had circulated in Moscow on numerous romances, and several of her lovers were reported jailed for incurring Stalin's displeasure.

One report said she had had

PHAT MORE ACCEPTABLE

Cong Shuffle Aids Viet Peace Hopes

SAIGON (AP) — A change of leadership in the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front to smooth the way for direct peace talks with the United States was reported today by anti-Communist allied intelligence sources.

Huynh Tan Phat, deputy chairman of the Viet Cong's political arm, has replaced Nguyen Huu Tho as chairman, these sources said.

Reports of a change in the NLF's high command have circulated in Saigon government circles for more than a month, the sources said. Interrogation of Viet Cong prisoners and defectors and captured Communist documents appear to confirm the reports.

Replacement of Tho by Phat was "for the purpose of dealing directly with the United States" in peace negotiations, the sources said. They added that the NLF plans no place at the table for Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's Saigon government.

KNOWN FIGURE

They said Phat might appear more acceptable to the Americans at the bargaining table. Tho is a widely-known Communist figure in South Vietnam with strong ties to Hanoi. Phat is known mostly to party intellectuals and is relatively unknown outside Communist circles.

Another possible reason, the sources said, is that Hanoi wants Phat to negotiate so he can be discarded as a scapegoat if talks break down. Tho would retain real power.

Phat now is believed to be at NLF headquarters in Viet Cong-controlled areas of South Vietnam or—more likely—in Cambodia.

Phat, 41, was born in My Tho in the Mekong Delta and was trained as an architect by the French in Hanoi. He was arrested in March, 1946, as a propagandist for the Communist Viet Minh.

U.S. Bombs Steel Plant

SAIGON (CP)—U.S. planes from bases in Thailand today struck at North Vietnam's industrial potential, bombing a steel plant, and shot down at least one North Vietnamese MiG fighter in an air battle, an American military spokesman said.

DON'T NEED WHITE WAYS

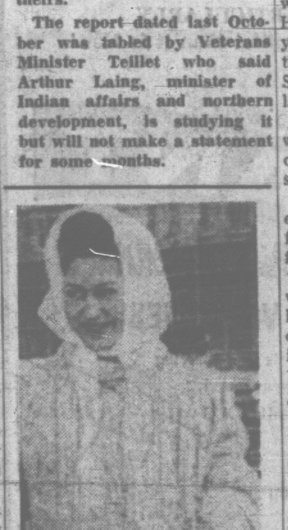
OTTAWA (CP)—A two-year study of the economic, political and educational needs of Canadian Indians was tabled in the Commons today recommending that Indians should not be assimilated into the white man's way of life.

The study, undertaken by the University of British Columbia in conjunction with scholars of other universities, was headed by H. B. Hawthorn and M. A. Tremblay.

"The research group do not think that the Indian should be required to assimilate, neither in order to receive what he now needs nor at any future time," the report said.

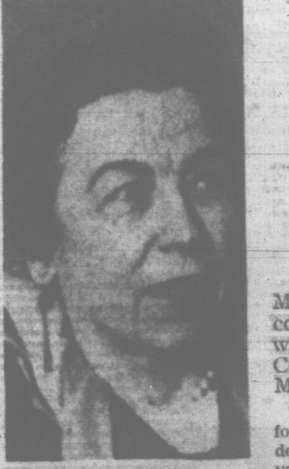
"Almost certainly some Indians will choose not to accept what we regard as the benefits of our society and will choose instead what they regard as the benefits of theirs."

The report dated last October was tabled by Veterans Minister Teillet who said Arthur Laing, minister of Indian affairs and northern development, is studying it but will not make a statement for some months.



WALKING to plane in London today for trip to New York, where she will be reunited with her husband, Lord Snowdon, is Princess Margaret. They will fly for 10-day holiday in the Bahamas.

Woman Convicted In Stock Dealings



MacMILLAN
. . . supplied match

Price Hike Phoney

TORONTO (CP)—Viola MacMillan, 63, today was convicted on charges of wash trading in shares of Consolidated Golden Arrow Mines, Ltd., in 1964.

The veteran mining promoter, for more than 20 years president of the Prospectors and Developers Association, was remanded by County Court Judge Garth Moore to March 17 for sentence.

She was freed on her own recognizance.

Maximum sentence upon conviction is five years.

Wash trading is a term used to describe stock transactions in which ownership does not actually change hands but which creates an impression of activity.

Judge Moore said the issue in the charges was Mrs. MacMillan's intentions in ordering transactions on the Toronto Stock Exchange in Consolidated Golden Arrow July 10, 1964.

WASN'T IN DOUBT

He said he had no doubt the shares were "artificially stimulated" by Mrs. MacMillan. Transactions involving more than 250,000 shares of the stock were carried out on Mrs. MacMillan's instructions that day, evidence during her four-day trial showed.

Judge Moore compared the situation that day with an open can of gasoline and a lighted match.

Mrs. MacMillan supplied the match, he said.

Mrs. MacMillan, wearing a blue suit and white hat, sat staring straight ahead as the conviction was read.

Her husband, George, also a well-known mining executive and promoter, sat quietly near the back of the courtroom. As the conviction was registered, he rested his head on his hand.

The MacMillans also are charged with fraud in connection with the stock market activity in July, 1964, of Windfall Oil and Mines Ltd. No date has been set for that hearing.

CONSUMER ACT

'COOLING OFF' PERIOD SET IN NEW BILL

By JOHN MIKA
Legislative Reporter

Sharp teeth are included in legislation to protect consumers introduced Thursday in the Legislature by Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

The bill would require full disclosure of interest rates in dollars and percentage terms for all credit transactions, whether instalment purchases, mortgages or standard loans.

It also would clamp down on high-pressure tactics in door-to-door selling by providing a three-day "cooling off" period during which the purchaser could cancel the deal without giving any reason.

Penalties for violation of the requirements would go as high as one year in jail or a $2,000 fine for an individual and up to $25,000 for a corporation.

SECURITIES ACT

Mr. Bonner was expected to follow up with introduction of a new Securities Act bill today for tighter control of stock transactions and more disclosure of information to shareholders.

The consumer protection legislation would be implemented at the discretion of the cabinet by a proclamation and this can be expected about September, Mr. Bonner explained to reporters.

He said the delay is needed to give national companies time to make the necessary changes in their operating practices.

REPEALS OLD ACT

The bill also repeals the present Contracts Relief Act and reconstitutes broader provisions so that anyone can sue in court for re-opening of a signed contract to change or cancel harsh or unconscionable clauses including excessive borrowing charges.

"The whole bill is very much in line with other provinces, particularly Ontario and Nova Scotia," Mr. Bonner said.

He added it is not quite as tough as the legislation in other provinces because of the inclusion of the contracts relief provisions so persons can go to court.

"If people feel themselves hard done by and they don't act under that section, I don't know what can be done for them other than setting up a big-brother administration," said Mr. Bonner.

The attorney-general said the credit cost disclosure is intended to eliminate gimmickry in merchandising.

NEW MEANING

"It gives new meaning to the phrase 'let the buyer beware' by making credit as a commodity readily comparable anywhere in the province," he said.

Private persons lending sums for interest would have to abide by the requirement as well as companies.

But federally-chartered banks and finance companies will not have to comply with this provision although Mr. Bonner said he expected them to do so — as they have in Nova Scotia — for public relations reasons.

The bill would require all

Party Expels Von Thadden, Seven Officials

BREMEN (Reuters) — A power struggle in West Germany's extreme right-wing National Democratic party burst into the open today when eight leaders, including deputy party chairman Adolph von Thadden, were expelled only a few weeks before crucial state elections.

Party Chairman Fritz Thielen also expelled executive member Otto Hess, a former Nazi storm trooper, and six other prominent party members all closely associated with von Thadden.

The conflict was seen by political observers in Bonn as between moderate elements headed by Thielen and extremists.

Von Thadden, 44, son of an aristocratic Prussian family, was active in West German right-wing groups since the Second World War and was generally regarded as the party's intellectual driving force.

WAS NAZI COLONEL

Hess, 57, was a lieutenant-colonel in the Nazi storm troopers. He joined the Nazi party in 1930 and he was active as a district orator. He was still a powerful speaker on the hustings.

The National Democrats, who won seats in the Bavarian and Hesse State Parliaments last year, counted on improving their performance in polls in Schleswig - Holstein and Rhineland Palatinate April 23.

Thielen's decision to expel the eight politicians must be confirmed within 60 days by the federal executive.

The split in the leadership was triggered by a court ruling here this week that an election of von Thadden as party chief in Lower Saxony was invalid.

'There's Lots Of Seals'

OTTAWA (CP) — Fisheries Minister Robichaud maintained in the Commons today that there are no signs that the harp seal herds are being depleted by annual harvests.

He was replying to Opposition Leader Diefenbaker who urged him to get in touch with Russia, Sweden, Norway and other countries to bring about eventual cessation of seal killing.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Canada is getting a black eye throughout the world for the seal slaughter without deriving much material benefit from it. Other countries were taking 90 per cent of the seal hides.

Education Needed

BURNABY (CP) — A major education program is needed to fight against the misuse of drugs, the president of Simon Fraser University says. "We must educate like mad, moving a tremendous amount of information into the hands of people who use drugs or who might use drugs," said Dr. Patrick McTaggart-Cowan.

CONFUSION, ACRIMONY AND 'DOUBLECROSS'

Forces Hearing Near Farce

OTTAWA (CP) — Cries of "lousy doublecross" and "closure" ended another acrimonious meeting of the Commons defence committee Thursday night.

The Liberals tried vainly for the second time to limit the number of witnesses appearing before the committee which began hearings Feb. 7 on the armed forces unification bill, and to fix a date—March 17—for reporting the bill back to the Commons.

Last Friday Joe Macaluso (L —Hamilton West) presented a motion that no further witnesses be heard except for Defence Minister Hellyer. It never came to a vote.

Mr. Macaluso withdrew his motion Thursday night and Robert Andras (L — Port Arthur) substituted another to hear Mr. Hellyer and three retired military officers and report the bill back to the Commons no later than March 17. The bill must still receive third and final reading by the Commons.

WINCH
. . . 'doublecross'

Douglas Harkness, former Conservative defence minister, and Jack McIntosh (PC—Swift Current-Maple Creek) described Mr. Andras' motion as closure.

Mr. McIntosh and Donald MacInnis (PC — Cape Breton South) said the motion is a denial of Prime Minister Pearson's promise that all witnesses who wished to appear before the committee would be heard.

Harold Winch (NDP — Vancouver East) accused Mr. Andras of pulling a "lousy doublecross" on him. Both MPs are members of the committee's seven-man steering committee, which meets privately.

Mr. Winch said Mr. Andras had agreed at Thursday's steering committee meetings that Mr. Hellyer would testify Thurs-

Caveat emptor is a lawyer's phrase meaning "let the buyer beware." There is no recourse in law if you get taken if you don't shop around.

For instance, this friend of ours dinged his car and he took it to the repair shop operated by the dealer for that model and the estimate was $86. Then he took it to two other car body shops. The first estimated the job at $60 and the second at $41. The difference in the highest and lowest figures is $45—more than 100 per cent.

Librarian Mary E. Edwards took us to task for erring last week in our mention of library closing hours, which is fair enough. But it makes our typewriter bristle when she says we were library-baiting. The library is an institution we use gratefully and depend upon. And as we pointed out we don't believe its hours should be extended beyond the 78 hours a week it is now open. Rather, patrons should schedule their visits within those periods to avoid tax increases.

Now will somebody please explain the new ruling governing use of the public washroom at the library. (We use the word "public" because that's who maintains it). A woman phoned us to say she was refused admittance because of a new rule that no adult may use it without being accompanied by a child.

It suggests that our friend Joe plans to weigh us in the balance, decide whether we are worth his time or whether he will be "out." Or perhaps his secretary, who doesn't know us, is going to make the decision.

Naturally we are going to identify ourselves to Joe if we ever get to talk to him. And the rudeness of the preliminary screening won't make us more cordial. Someday we'll refuse just to see what happens.

Last week we mentioned the dangers involved in having several streets in the capital district with the same names. Mrs. C. H. Vincent writes that Greater Winnipeg had the same problem. Pure, Rich 22-Carat Entertainment

By AUDREY JOHNSON

How does an evening with the poetry and prose of Dylan Thomas sound to you?

Like, esoteric? Like something on an upper level, tailored strictly for an in-crowd?

Or would you believe, pure, rich 22-carat entertainment?

Then you'd be right. The brawling, witty, pungently perceptive Welshman comes to us as the ace entertainer of our age in the University of Victoria English Department program, Return Journey.

First of three performances kept a capacity audience in the Education-Arts Building auditorium in an uninterrupted condition of charmed ears and tickled ribs.

DON'T BE LATE

The program will be repeated tonight and Saturday. It starts at 8 and don't be late. The kind of enthusiasm generated Thursday spreads like a contagion and shut-out crowds can be expected.

Unquestionably this must rank as one of the finest intimate programs the university or anyone else around here as dreamed up in a long while.

The dreamer who compiled the program is Reg Terry, and to him and to newcomer on the English faculty, Sean Virgo, must go a lion's share of credit for the fine selection and superb presentation.

These readings, chosen and arranged as a return by Thomas to the memories and impressions of his childhood and an exploration of his personality, have been directed by Mr. Virgo with simplicity, vitality and insight.

LUSTY HUMOR

The spare dramatic idiom he has used illuminates but never intrudes upon the material—the rich vocabulary, the marvellous observations, the lusty humor.

With never a word lost, with a broad range of vocal variety and vivid projections of character, Anthony Jenkins, Reg Terry, Sally McCahill and Trefor Williams read from Portrait of the Artist as a Young Dog, Quite Early One Morning, the Collected Poems, Adventures in the Skin Trade and other works.

Gifted actors all, they handle the shining prose and the singing vowels and cadences of the poems and prose as good actors do, with a savoring appreciation of their sensual quality but giving full value to their prime function of projecting sensations, experience, personality.

day night and that after that the committee would try to arrange its next move.

Mr. Andras said Mr. Winch's impression of what occurred in the steering committee was "quite erroneous."

The committee broke up in confusion without any vote taken on Mr. Andras' motion.

Grant Deachman (L—Vancouver Quadra), committee chairman who made a vain, last-minute appeal for a secret meeting today to work out an agreed order of procedure, told reporters the next sitting is not scheduled until 3:30 p.m. Monday.

The three retired officers proposed as witnesses by Mr. Andras are Vice-Admiral Herbert Rayner, former chief of naval staff, Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, former chief of army staff, and Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, former chief of air staff.

Mr. Winch said Mr. Andras had agreed in the steering committee that Air Chief Marshal Frank Miller, chief of defence staff until last July, be called as witness. But his motion made no mention of this, Mr. Winch added.

Mr. Harkness agreed with Mr. Winch that it was "essential" that Air Chief Marshal Miller be called, as well as Vice-Admiral Kenneth Dyer, retired chief of personnel.

CD ROLE CHANGING: MINISTER

The provincial civil defence organization is just paying lip service, Herb Capozzi (SC—Vancouver Centre) told the legislature Thursday.

He said the organization is "something we do not believe in at this time."

Fred Vulliamy (NDP—Burnaby Willingdon) said there is no point in spending the $750,000 provided for in estimates for the program "because if there is a war there is no defence."

"Is it an employment agency for Social Credit members or what is it?" he asked Provincial Secretary Black.

Mr. Capozzi said the money should be spent more for search and rescue and training of personnel to carry out these duties.

"That's exactly what we are doing," retorted Mr. Black.

credit transactions to disclose to the borrower or buyer "a clear statement in writing showing":

The dollar amount of the loan or price of the goods and the value of a trade-in;

"The cost of borrowing expressed as one sum in dollars and cents and also itemized;

"The percentage that the cost of borrowings bears to the sum . . . expressed as an annual rate applied to the unpaid balance of the obligation . . .

"The basis upon which additional charges are to be made in the event of default."

The bill also sets out disclosure requirements for "variable credit" conditions, return of a "proportionate allowance" of borrowing charges to both parties in event of a debt being paid up before schedule.

And advertisements of loans must disclose the full borrowing costs.

The cooling-off period on off-premises purchases applies to "executory contracts" described in the bill as sales over $50 for products not delivered or paid for in full when the contracts are signed.

Buyers will be able to rescind such contracts within three days by mail or otherwise without giving a reason.

Contracts can also be rescinded up to a year later if all goods in the contract are not supplied within 30 days of a specified delivery date or up to 120 days if a delivery date is not specified.

RETURN GOODS

When a buyer rescinds a contract he must return the goods and the seller has 15 days within which to refund any money paid.

The courts, under the contract relief section, also will be able to "relieve" against an inequitable exercise of legal rights by the seller or avoidable loss to either party."

Also given first reading was a bill to control collection agencies and their employees more stringently.

Called the Collection Agents Act, 1967, it would repeal the present Collection Agents' Licensing Act.

Among its innovations is appointment of an inspector of collection agencies who would report to the attorney-general.

Labor Jolted In British Byelections

LONDON (CP)—A slump in electoral support for the ruling Labor party and a surge of Celtic nationalism jolted Prime Minister Wilson's government Thursday after three byelections.

In byelections in Scotland, England and Wales, Labor lost one seat to the opposition Conservative party and saw its majority crumble drastically while retaining the other two.

Bookmakers made the Conservatives favorites to win the next election which is not due until 1971. A leading London bookie offered 5 to 4 on a Conservative victory and even money on Labor.

Scottish and Welsh nationalists, resentful at the treatment their sections have had from the government, cut deep in Labor's support in Glasgow's Pollok District — where Labor lost—and in the Rhondda Valley of Wales, a socialist stronghold for most of this century.

SHOW DISSATISFACTION

Dissatisfaction with the government's vise - like economic controls also was apparently a major factor in the Labor setback.

A Conservative won in Pollok by 2,201 votes. Labor took the seat by 1,975 in the general election a year ago.

At Nuneaton, in the industrial Midlands, Labor won by only 4,054 votes compared with a margin of 11,404 in the last general election.

In the Rhondda Valley, Labor's winning margin was sensationally reduced by the firebrand nationalists of Plaid Cymru (Welsh party). Labor won by an edgy 2,306 votes, down from 16,888 last time.

"The results are a clear vote of no confidence in Harold Wilson and the Labor government," said Edward du Cann, Conservative party chairman. "The Conservative advance is on the way."

The election setback had no effect on the government's Commons majority of more than 90 votes.

BLAME FREEZE

Most observers and many party members blamed the results on the government's freeze on wages and prices and the country's rising rate of unemployment.

Mid - term protest, almost traditional where the life of a government is not at stake, is said to be reflected in the results of all three byelections.

Some observers said the healthy Labor majority in Parliament was an invitation to give fringe parties a fling.

With two vacancies to be filled by byelections this spring, Labor has a 93-vote majority in the 630-seat House of Commons. There are 251 Conservatives, 12 Liberals, two independents plus the Speaker and two officials.

Labor's left wing, already chafing against Wilson's economic and defence policies, displayed an I-told-you-so attitude toward the results. Only Thursday afternoon two Labor members of Parliament, Michael Foot and veteran Sydney Silverman, denounced Wilson personally and publicly.

OPTIMISM REMAINS

But the Labor leadership say unpopular policies of today will pay off well before the next general election four years hence.

Wright, 51, won with 14,270 votes to the 12,069 polled by Labor's Richard Douglas, 35, an economist and lecturer. Scottish Nationalist George Leslie polled 10,884. A Liberal and a Communist got less than 1,000 each.

The Nationalist vote in Rhondda was more spectacular with Vic Davies increasing his poll by almost 400 per cent. Labor candidate Alec Jones won with 12,373 votes.

Leslie Huckfield, 24, becomes the youngest member of the Commons by retaining for Labor the Nuneaton seat quit by union chief Frank Cousins in protest at Wilson's policies.

MARIJUANA BUYER JOLTED BY STAMPS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A California state narcotics agent reports that trading stamps are being given with marijuana purchases in San Francisco's hippie district.

Supervising agent Matthew O'Connor said Thursday that an undercover investigator bought four ounces of marijuana at a "hippie pad" in the Naight-Ashbury district for $30 and was given "eight bona fide trading stamps, of a type you'd receive, say, at a gas station."

Guesses Fly on Vanier Successor

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Thursday he will name a new governor-general "as soon as possible," but he gave no hint as to his choice.

After an evening cabinet meeting, he told reporters the question of a successor for the late Gen. Georges Vanier did not come up at the session.

He declined comment on requests by women groups for the appointment of Gen. Vanier's widow.

There has been speculation that Roland Michener, high commissioner to India, is first in line for the post.

Reliable sources indicate Mr. Michener, 66, an able Conservative Speaker of the Commons during the Diefenbaker administration, has considerable support among some cabinet ministers.

One line of thinking of Mme. Vanier's possible appointment is that it may not be a wise course to name her at a time of national emotional upheaval caused by her husband's death Sunday.

The thought is that only long-term factors should be taken into account in choosing a successor.

While Mr. Michener's name has been most frequently mentioned in speculation, several others have been talked of, including George Drew, former Conservative leader, Dr. Wilder Penfield, Montreal neurosurgeon, and Senator W. Ross Macdonald, former Commons Speaker.

The Paper Party

THE ESSENTIAL PROBLEM OF Mr. Robert Thompson, resigned Social Credit leader, lay in paradoxes. He was the national leader of a political party that is not national. The two provincial governments — Alberta and British Columbia—which Social Credit has long dominated, are Social Credit in name only. The basic tenets of the economic theory propounded by Major C. H. Douglas regarding surplus value in production have never been implemented. And the revolutionary movement which Social Credit was supposed to represent has never produced, except for an occasional unorthodox effort quickly ruled unconstitutional, anything but a resolutely conservative administration.

The only sizable extension of the Social Credit movement outside of the extreme west has been in Quebec, and here the name meant even less in the Major Douglas sense than it had in its province of origin. To this situation were soon added the tensions of the English-French dichotomy, and the party could not cope with them.

Of the 30 Social Credit members sent to Ottawa in 1962, 26 were French-speaking. The total was cut to 22 the following year, with 18 of them being from Quebec, and the delegation quickly split into two quarrelling factions — the Social Crediters led by Mr. Thompson and the Creditistes eventually led by Mr. Caouette. By the end of 1965 the national leader led only four supporters in the Commons, and neither politically nor geographically could claim national status for his party.

There is small wonder, then, that in resigning his leadership, Mr. Thompson complains of a lack of support from the provincial organizations. Inevitably they must think provincially and concentrate their efforts in the field in which they are strongest.

The crowning irony of the Social Credit position, of course, is the fact that while it cannot break out of the two western provinces to achieve national viability, its philosophy of economics and money management can be implemented only at the national level. The result has been that Social Credit in Canada is a name only, and neither a policy nor a program. Few members fully understand the fundamental concepts of the A plus B Theorem and the other Social Credit dogma; fewer still would support them if they did understand.

The only importance of the Social Credit corporal's guard in parliament today lies in its ability to help sustain the minority Liberal government on no-confidence votes or imperil it by siding with the opposition. As a provincial power it could possibly evolve into the party of the right to supplant the Conservative Party on the national level if the latter falters or collapses under the weight of its current internal schisms. But it will be from the provincial bases in Edmonton and Victoria that such a movement will come, not from the paper structure of the national organization.

Mr. Herbert Bruch, the legislative member for Esquimalt, is to be congratulated on his elevation to the national leadership of his party to replace Mr. Thompson and the also-resigned Mr. Martin Kelln, national president. But condolences might also be in order. The situation being what it is, Mr. Bruch is not likely to be trampled by a rush of would-be successors.

The Basic Ingredient

JUDGE HAROLD MEDINA AND his special committee of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, have released their findings in a three-year study of freedom of the press and fair trial with a firm recommendation against legislative action to curtail activities of the news media, lawyers or the police.

But the report does advocate action by the American Bar Association to strengthen its ruling on professional ethics to prevent lawyers, particularly prosecutors, from trying their cases in newspapers, over the radio or on television. This covers the practice of interviews with the legal figures concerned during the course of trials.

The Medina committeee also seeks a code of self-regulation for police and other law-enforcement agencies to bar release of all information other than a brief, general description of the crime and of the accused, "except where a clear and urgent law-enforcement purpose exists or where the probability of prejudice is remote or non-existent."

In other words, the committee seems to say: let the news media go about their work with the exercise of responsibility, but have the professional groups involved in police and court activities set rules which could curtail inflammatory trial publicity.

"We believe," the committee reported, "that as a matter of both constitutional law and policy, an approach through legislation or extension of the contempt power is neither feasible nor wise."

Liberal as the Medina committee seems to be in its concept of freedom of the press in trial matters, the findings draw criticism from spokesmen for two important news organizations, the Associated Press Managing Editors Association and the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

Freedom of the press, they point out, is strictly modified if the sources from which information may be obtained, the lawers or the police, are severely restricted in communication with newspapermen.

As the newspapermen see it, the effect of the Medina recommendations might be to give news media wide freedom to record silence.

Despite its labors and the distinction of its chairman, the committee seems to have failed to reconcile the conflict of press freedom and fair trial.

Regardless of legislation or the lack of it, that reconciliation must in the end depend on the adherence of law enforcement agencies to the law, and on the moral responsibility and sense of fair play of the men and women who report and process the news of their communities.

Voice in the Wilderness

TONGUE IN CHEEK, A CORRESPONDENT suggests in a Toronto newspaper one way for the federal government to save nearly $2 millions a year: fire the Auditor-General.

Year after year the Auditor-General's office turns up scores of items where public funds have been wasted or misused or where budgeted estimates have been widely exceeded by actual costs. But so little action is taken on these reports that the Auditor-General and his staff must sometimes wonder if all the effort they expend on their meticulous sifting of records is really worthwhile.

There's a major flaw in the suggestion that this department be abolished, of course. If things are bad with this check on government spending, imagine how much worse they could be without it.

FROM VIENTIANE

Justification for JFK's Laos Stand

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Alsop

BESIDES infiltrators in transit to South Vietnam, there are now close to 50,000 North Vietnames troops and troop-support personnel in Laos. Yet, under the Geneva accord signed in 1962, Hanoi promised early and complete withdrawal of North Vietnamese from Laos. Under the same accord, Laos was to have a three-cornered government of nationalists, neturalists and Communists. In fact the government of nationalists and neutralists, wisely and courageously led by Prince Souvanna Phouma, has been forced to carry on a permanent civil war against the Communist Pathet Lao.

One might think then, that the Geneva accord, negotiated by Governor Averell Harriman at the direction of President Kennedy, had been an all-time diplomatic dead-bust. As anyone can see, this accord is most emphatically not what it has been claimed to be by some of the cronies of the late president's brother, Senator Robert Kennedy. Any Vietnamese settlement modelled on this accord about Laos will merely be a concealed surrender.

Yet President Kennedy, as previously related, by no means saw the Geneva accord as a true settlement of the affairs of Laos. He saw it, rather, as a kind of holding action, which would serve well enough until the future of this part of the world was determined in "the main theatre," as he described South Vietnam.

Viewed in this very special light, the results of the 1962 accord have amply proven President Kennedy's foresight. For the makeshift arrangements produced by the accord have permitted the Laotians to make very significant progress.

By far the most important of these arrangements was the elevation of the neturalist leader, Prince Souvanna Phouma, to the prime ministership. This wise head of the junior branch of the Laotian royal house has proved to be both national-minded and extremely practical.

At the outset, he no doubt believed that he could manage the kind of three-cornered government that was envisioned at Geneva. To this day, he still keeps ostentatiously open the cabinet places allotted to the Pathet Lao. But when the Lao Communists showed they regarded the three-cornered government as a mere instrument for a complete Communist takeover, Prince Souvanna squarely and promptly faced the facts.

Continuous Civil War

From that moment, civil war has been continuous in Laos, with the nationalists and neutralists united against the Communists. Nor has this been the unmitigated misfortune that you might suppose; for the Communist threat has by stages given birth to something like true national unity among all the non-Communists.

One important stage was the exile of the all-or-nothing nationalist leader, General Phoumi Nosavan. Another, more recent stage was the ejection from the country of the self-intoxicated neutralist military commander, General Kong Le (after a French secret service intrigue with incomparable elements of gaminess, including a rich dose of sex).

Before long, the nationalist and neutralist armed forces should be successfully merged in a single national army. Long since, meanwhile, the hold on the countryside of the Communist Pathet Lao, which resulted solely from terrorism, began to be broken throughout the 60 per cent of Laos controlled by Prince Souvanna's government.

In this main part of Laos, the Communists, who once ranged up to the outskirts of Vientiane, are now left with no more than tiny pockets in remote areas; and these pockets are being progressively liquidated. Real progress has also been made economically, administratively and in many other ways.

No serious attempt has been made, however, to break the Communist hold on their two main areas of full control — the part of southeastern Laos through which the Ho Chi Minh trail now runs and the most northerly provinces, including the Plain of Jars. These are too heavily occupied by North Vietnamese troops. (Without the North Vietnamese, the Pathet Lao could hardly hold their areas for more than a few months.)

Yet it is reasonable to hope that if and when the North Vietnamese are forced to withdraw from South Vietnam, the Laotians will also get back these lost parts of their country.

And if that happens, President Kennedy's foresight will be proven to the hilt.

Letters

Wants the Full Picture

Saanich council memories must be short-lived. When these "concerned" gentlemen decided to push ahead with the sports bylaw March 18, they forgot:

That at the time of setting the 1966 mill rate both reeve and councillors voiced concern for the high taxes shouldered by the majority of those on fixed incomes;

That the $2.4 million referendum passed in 1965 for McKenzie Ave. widening and purchase of MacRae estate has not yet been applied to the taxes,

That the two to four mill hospital levy is coming up next year or the year after,

That the school rate will increase.

That councillors have said rising costs will force council to increase, not lower, the municipal mill rate this year,

Reeve Curtis has on many occasions in the past two months voiced concern that taxes are too high now and the ratepayer is overburdened.

Taking all these points into consideration does a swimming pool and arena outweigh the pressing need for sewers, street lights, hospitals, schools, adequate police and fire protection?

Reeve Curtis and his council should, if they are to fulfil the trust we as ratepayers placed in them, show us the full picture (this year and next) and not just a narrow strip along the border.— Saanich Resident.

Publicity Criticized

Regarding the two-page spread you gave the other day to some youths of this city, a few of us Old Age Pensioners have been discussing this, and trying to justify the publicity you have given them.

It would be interesting to know who has paid for the university training for some of them — and do they consider their money an entire waste.

We seriously suggest you explain a few things — chiefly, how one of these people "exists" on a federal salary of $145 per month, while respectable Old Age Pensioners — many of whom have helped to build this country for over 50 years — are supposed to "exist" on the new pension of $105? — T. O. Miller, 1526 Pandora.

Financing Separate Schools

I wish to express my appreciation and admiration for the manner in which the two MLA's Mr. H. Cappozzi and Dr. P. L. McGeer have presented their plea for these thousands of parents in the province who send their children to separate schools and who do not receive one copper as financial support. At the same time these parents are taxed for the public school just the same. This is a very serious discrimination, because these parents don't feel it as a privilege to send their children to these schools but believe this to be their God-given reponsibility to select the education for their children. — S. Wolters, President of District No. 12 (British Columbia) of the National Union of Christian Schools.

FROM WASHINGTON

Decisive Days for Canada in Kennedy Round Talks

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

Hutchison

BEFORE the end of this month Canada should know whether its prosperity and all its plans for a still richer society are built on a solid foundation or on a quicksand. Such is the little-understood but vital question to be answered by the tariff negotiations of the Kennedy Round in Geneva. If they succeed Canada will be the largest beneficiary among the Western nations. If they fail it will be the worst victim.

Most Canadians understand that their jobs and living standards depend primarily on massive exports and imports. But many of them do not understand that this huge foreign trade depends on a world market governed by the rules of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. And not many realize that the existing structure of international commerce is in grave danger of disintegration if things go wrong in Geneva before the deadline of March 31.

At first sight this danger is not apparent. The layman naturally asks what difference it will make if the Kennedy Round does not reduce the present tariffs among the GATT partners. Canada, for example, is doing very well under these tariffs. If they remain unchanged surely it can continue to do just as well and expand both its exports and its prosperity?

No Immobility

Unfortunately the issue now approaching the final crunch at Geneva after four years' delay is not that simple. For if the present tariffs are not reduced they will not stand still. Almost certainly, in the judgment of the American government, they will rise, with grave effects everywhere and shattering effects on the Canadian economy.

All this makes no economic sense but it is virtually inevitable in the politics of the United States.

By one of his boldest initiatives the late President Kennedy persuaded a dubious Congress to allow him to reduce tariffs by 50 per cent across the board and to abolish some of them altogether, if other nations would do the same.

Many powerful industries protected by the tariff and backed by millions of voters at home resisted the president's grand design from the start. They are still resisting it and hoping for its failure. If the Kennedy Round collapses these great pressure groups will not be satisfied. They will insist that the whole concept of a freely-trading world was always sheer delusion, that the United States must return to the old, reliable protectionist policy known originally as the American System.

Thus President Johnson, inheriting his predecessor's policy and authority (which lapses at the end of June), must fight on two fronts. In Geneva he is fighting a European Common Market apparently willing to reduce industrial tariffs but unwilling to increase, or even to maintain its present imports of foodstuffs, as the United States demands. In Washington the president fights a strong and rising tide of economic isolationism.

Next to the Vietnam war, and other dangers to world peace, nothing worries him so much as the crisis at Geneva. By drawing the deadline of March 31 he has bluntly warned the Common Market that his government must have a quick answer, in principle at least, because Congress obviously will not renew his authority to reduce tariffs byond its lapsing date of midsummer.

If the Common Market's answer is in favor of reduced tariffs — a fifty-fifty chance at best — the three months of April, May and June will be needed to sort out the complex details of the bargain including, above all, a separate contract to cover exports and imports of grain.

The sticking point at Geneva is the grain deal which the United States considers so essential that it has lately rejected the Common Market's request for postponement while industrial tariffs are cut. Without an agreement on foodstuffs there can be no agreement on anything.

But if the grain deal cannot be negotiated the master politician in the White House will not abandon his struggle against the Congressional protectionists. He will make a fresh start and propose a drastic alternative to the Kennedy Round, even at the cost of undermining or perhaps destroying GATT. And in this alternative, if it is possible at all, Canada must play a leading part as one of the world's largest traders.

Admittedly the alternative of a new trade bloc under low, preferential tariffs and embracing the United States, Britain, Canada, Japan, Australia, New Zealand and other nations willing to join it is a poor second best to the multilateral, worldwide system of GATT.

It would further divide the world market which GATT has long sought to unite. It would run directly counter to the historic policies, almost the economic religion of the United States, Britain and Canada. Moreover, it is complicated for the time being by Britain's attempt to enter the Common Market. For if Britain wins entry it cannot join a transatlantic association, but in Washington another veto by President de Gaulle is generally expected.

Fall-Back Precautions

Despite all these difficulties, which many American and Canadian experts consider insuperable, the fall-back position after possible failure at Geneva already is being quietly prepared and the preparations of themselves may drive the Common Market into a tariff agreement at the eleventh hour.

Even an intransigent France cannot lightly dismiss the threat of a huge competitive trading zone led by the United States, while the other partners of the Common Market, Germany in particular, are appalled by this prospect, for political and military as well as economic reasons.

Nevertheless, as time runs out and the fateful end of March approaches, no one in Washington counts on the success of the Kennedy Round. No one pretends, either, that the alternative is satisfactory, that the Congress will necessarily accept it or that overseas nations like Japan will finally join it, though Canada's adherence is take for granted.

Yet unsatisfactory as it is, the alternative would be better, as the American government sees it, than a general retreat in panic to the old storm cellars of trade restriction, as favored by the irreconcilable high-tariff forces of the United States and Canada.

In any case, whether the Kennedy Round succeeds or fails, Canada will soon confront some wrenching decisions. Success must mean a sharp cut in Canadian tariffs, with drastic effects on business and party politics. Failure must present Canada with the necessity of reorienting its entire trade pattern as long built on GATT and the lucrative multilateral tariff contracts now in imminent peril. The next few weeks will show whether that economic and political nightmare can be avoided.

Looking Back

From The Times of March 10, 1907.

London—The bill to extend the right of suffrage to women was defeated in the House of Commons today, where it was talked to death without coming to a vote.

The debate was a repetition of the familiar arguments for and against female suffrage. The result was not surprising, even to the suffragists, as some of the strongest sympathizers with the women's cause realized that the question was not ripe for legislation.

Vietnam: An 18th Century War Fought in American Living Rooms

THE ECONOMIST

The trouble with Vietnam is that it is the first war of its kind.

President Johnson has still got a solid majority of Americans behind his policy: the latest Gallup poll shows that 67 per cent of them think he is right to go on bombing North Vietnam. His problem is that the minority which opposes the war includes a substantial chunk of the urban middle class from the great cities of the northeastern part of the United States.

No president is comfortable with these people against him. To some extent they are against Mr. Johnson precisely because they are northeasterners. In their personal preferences, and their habits of thought, they are Europocentrists: like the European critics of the war, they have not fully grasped that the United States is a two-ocean country, as deeply involved in the future of Asia as it is in the future of Europe.

But much more of the opposition to the war springs from the curious nature of the war itself.

It is a new sort of war: an 18th-century war fought with the technology of the 21st century. It is an 18th-century war in the sense that the United States is fighting for a limited objective, and the secret search for a diplomatic settlement runs parallel to the military action; this is not the kind of war that Americans are used to. It is a 21st-century war in the sense that its the first war fought on television. For the first time in history, a democracy is fighting a war, and asking its people to approve each successive development in it, while it provides them with virtually instantaneous access to what is happening on the battlefield.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON
. . . not getting through

It was Kipling's Private Mulvaney who said that there were many things done in war that never got into the papers. Now we have changed all that. War has become the raw material of the mass media.

Mulvaney and his like were professional soldiers, and knowledge of the kind of death they might die if caught by Afridi tribesmen on the North-West Frontier did not greatly disturb Victorian England. The American draftee in Vietnam lives and dies on television screen watched by his parents.

There has never been anything quite like it. In both of this century's world wars the censors carefully controlled what the people at home could read and see. In Korea television was still too young a medium to get really to grips with the war.

Unpleasant

In Vietnam the theatre of operations is swarming with cameramen and reporters, and the war they are covering combines the unpleasantness of a regular campaign in difficult country, where there is always enough of death and terror, with the extra unpleasantness of a counter-insurgency operation. This is the material from which television constructs its documentaries on the horrors of war.

But these documentaries are inevitably one-sided. The cameramen and journalists go with the American forces hunting the Viet Cong or bombing North Vietnam. In Saigon they see the inevitable misery and social disintegration brought about by war and inflation. At the front they see a modern mechanized army fighting peasant guerrillas.

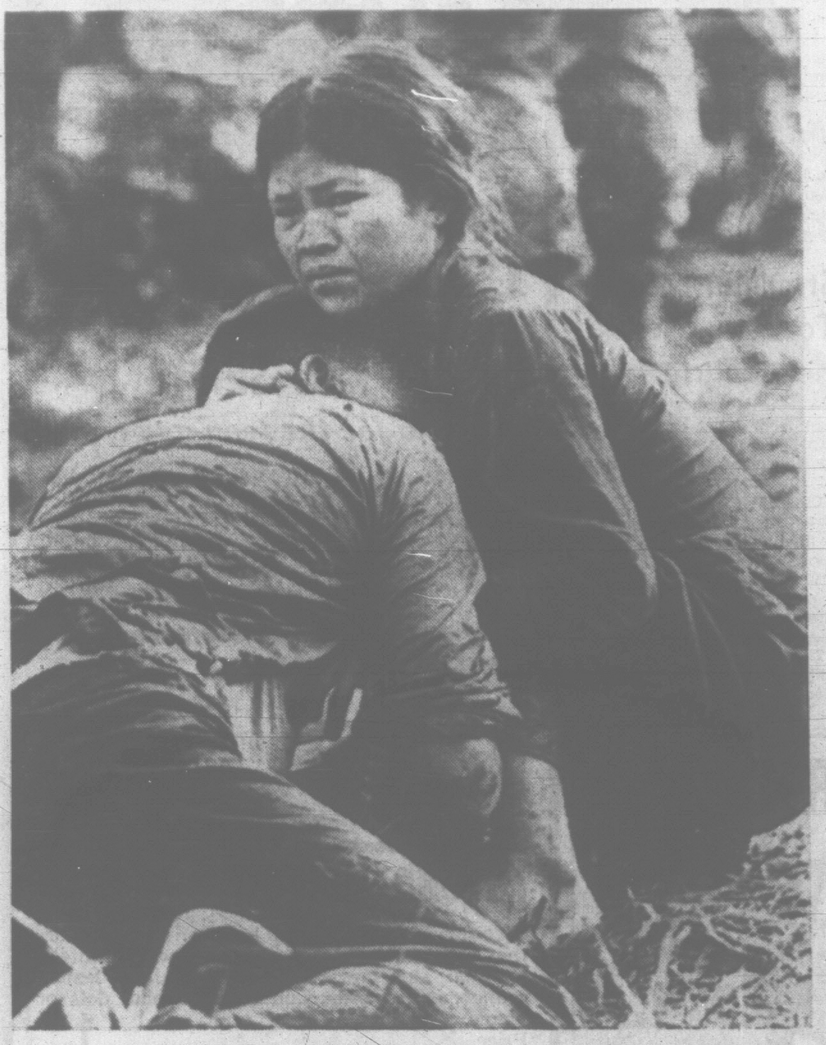
It is easy to put on record the Vietnamese village destroyed, and its inhabitants killed and wounded, by American bombing and artillery fire.

One-Sided

It is very unlikely that the TV teams will arrive in a village just after the Viet Cong have disembowelled the headman and mutilated his family. Thus objective reporting of the war can merge imperceptibly into a charge-sheet of accusations against one side.

When it is only the American troops who are visible on the screen there will be people who say that, but for the American presence, there would be no war in Vietnam at all. Nor would there, now; but there would be a successful conquest of power by a minority of ideologists in arms.

And television hits harder than the printed word; it involves what Professor Marshall McLuhan, talking about Vietnam, calls the pain of involvement. It is horrible to see a television close-up of a young soldier shot through the head. It is only a short step from the obvious conclusion that all wars are hell to the belief that America should not be fighting this one.



With TV cameramen and news photographers everywhere in the battlefields of Vietnam, the American public cannot escape knowledge of what is going on in that country. For the first time in history parents have watched their sons fight — and die — in war, and have beeen able to see the hate and bitterness engendered by the killing, such as that in the eyes of the young Vietnamese wife above who is comforting her dying husband, a Viet Cong suspect.

Or else the reaction goes the other way. Because Americans are being seen to be killed, the argument is strengthened for doing everything possible to destroy the enemy before more Americans die. For many people in the United States those pictures of slumped figures in jungle green are the best reason for ripping off the gloves and slamming into Hanoi.

Whichever way the emotions swing, it is President Johnson who has to bear the brunt of the criticism. His carefully chosen middle road is simultaneously attacked for leading too far and for leading nowhere.

The emotions generated by the Vietnam war under its arc-lamps of publicity make it more and more difficult to pursue a controlled and rational policy. Will the President succeed in keeping his grip on so emotionally explosive a situation?

It is part of a wider question. Can a democracy carry on a war of attrition like Vietnam without its resolve being sapped by war-weariness or artificially inflamed by chauvinism?

The United States is in much the same position as Britain was during the 19th century: it is the possessor of global power, and heir to the complicated local involvements that go along with global power. Because it has the airlift and sea-lift capacity to be on hand whenever a power vacuum develops, it is liable to find itself dragged into the messiest corners of international politics.

During Britain's period of similar responsibility public opinion in England never minded very much about professional soldiers being killed. It is different when young Americans are being drafted to do the job, and being killed on camera.

Despite all the publicity and the vicarious proximity of the battlefields in Vietnam, President Johnson would have had fewer critics if he had done a better job of explaining the war to the American people. This kind of war is not explicable in the traditional categories of American foreign policy. It is not a "war to end all war," or a war for "the four freedoms."

Dirty War

It is a dirty little war that has fallen to the lot of the only power that is in a position to try to contain the expansion of Asian communism.

It is the successor of the similar operation the United States mounted in Europe at the end of the 1940s, though in Europe the Americans did not have to send their own troops into action. It is based on an idealism that Americans can be counted on to respond to when they understand it.

Mr. Walt Rostow explained it clearly and convincingly at Leeds February 23; but Mr. Rostow is kept busy in the White House, and there are not many men in Mr. Johnson's administration with Mr. Rostow's gift for putting things in their context.

President Johnson himself talks about Vietnam in a traditional, semi-religious language of absolute right and wrong that dates from an earlier period of American foreign policy. Against this, the images of war on television are powerful opposition than can lead people either to pacifism or to an increased bellicosity.

The President needs to find his own way of describing, in simple language, the aim of American policy in the Far East. If he cannot, the result of the confrontation between policy and publicity will not be a victory for democratic methods of conducting government, or for his attempt to use global power with a mixture of firmness and moderation.

Thinking Japanese Resource

By RICHARD HALLORAN

TOKYO —Japanese youngsters are good at math because:

—Their mothers start teaching them at an early age. The first question a child is taught to answer is "How old are you?" By the time they go to school, Japanese children have a good grasp of numbers.

—They are drilled, drilled, and drilled in fundamentals in elementary school, Math teachers here stress learning to do basic arithmetic problems in the head, which is called "Anzan," a two-character word meaning memorize and calculate.

—Japanese young people are pressed by an examination system that is perhaps the world's most exacting. They must pass thorough rugged tests to get into middle school, high school and a university. This is a vital portion of the well-defined track to prestige in government, business or academic life.

—The ministry of education sets national standards for all children of all ages, which helps explain why Japanese youngsters perform in a relatively consistent manner.

—Mathematics, over the years, has come to have a mystique in Japanese life, and a tradition has evolved in this prestige-conscious nation that the one who does math well shows that he is a superior person.

In Tokyo's Kojimachi middle school, math teacher Yoshitsugu Watanabe explained that part of Japan's emphasis on math training is sheer need. "We are lacking in natural resources," he said, "and thus we need to think. Thinking is our resource."

Watanabe, 41, has taught math for 18 years, 11 of them in middle schools. He noted that during the Meiji period, 100 years ago, great emphasis was placed on education as an instrument of national development. In this, math took priority because of the need of engineers, scientists and technicians who could handle the industry and technology that Japan was importing from the West.

Can the NDP Adjust To Major Party Status?

By DOUGLAS FISHER and HARRY S. CROWE

Just as it would appear that the Conservatives must adjust some of their attitudes and practices as they accommodate themselves to their new and important third party status, so the New Democratic Party must undertake to fit its outlook and conduct to major party status. In neither case will the adaptation be easy or automatic.

Fisher

Some quotations from a powerful address on Feb. 13 in the House of Commons by New Democratic leader T. C. Douglas indicate the nature and the magnitude of the problem. They express fine, deeply felt sentiments, and are in a great humanitarian tradition. But they raise a basic question of how a major party in Canada must comport itself as it eases up on the simpler function of an opposition party — to oppose — and bears down on the more difficult function — to present itself as a credible alternative to the government.

Crowe

Here are the quotations:

"I want to say that in the opinion of the members of the New Democratic Party the time for quiet diplomacy is over and the time for speaking out is here."

"I am questioning the veil of silence which they have assumed at a time when, on a great moral issue, this government should be speaking out for the people of Canada."

* * *

"The American people know that we are a friendly people, that we like the Americans, that we visit back and forth, that we trade with them, and that in our culture, our language and our habits we are probably more like them than any other nation in the world. I think it would give them reason to pause and think, if they found that their friendly neighbors to the north had come to the place where they could no longer remain silent and that we are calling upon them, in the name of justice and humanity, to stop this barbarous bombing of a small undefended people in an undeclared war."

"Our policy is that if the United States will not give us a firm commitment that none of these armaments which we are selling to them are going to the war in Vietnam, then we should be prepared to abrogate that agreement. Because while a loss of $300 million in our trading position would be serious I am not prepared to get $300 million of trade, if it is at the price of the tears of mothers who have lost their children, and if it is to be at the cost of seeing villages annihilated and defenseless people killed."

"Mr. Speaker, most of the war and bloodshed that we have seen in our lifetime has come because of the cowardly silence of governments in days gone by. I was a member of this house when the Liberal government withdrew Dr. Riddell from the League of Nations because he dared to suggest oil sanctions against Mussolini—he was rocking the boat."

There is certainly very little of this with which we would disagree, but the fact remains that the Canadian-American ship is a curious boat. The Canadian people would not want their Prime Minister expressing these sentiments in public. At many times in the past, no doubt, but not now. To be credible is to appear government-worthy.

* * *

A third party has a liberty of emphasis, if not of exaggeration. It has the duty to emphasize those elements of a desirable policy which are being ignored. The emphasis tends to leave a distorted impression of the party's comprehension of the whole of a problem.

To overcome this impression as it moves to major party status it must broaden the range of its public discourse. A comprehensive narrative exposition, in the case of the New Democratic Pary, would also convey a true picture of the essential moderation of that party.

Our friends and allies expect substantial continuity in the conduct of the foreign affairs of this nation. And unless we completely misread the thoughts and expectations of the Canadian people, it is their desire that there should be this substantial continuity. Nowhere is this more so than in our relations with the United States.

There is room for both public or open diplomacy and for quiet diplomacy. There is need for clarity of expression and meaningful parliamentary debate. There is an opportunity for a Canadian initiative. But above all there is the necessity to keep foremost in mind the primary, overriding task of a friendly sorting out of a wide range of continental relationships.

Soviet-Equipped Somalia Vs. U.S.-Armed Ethiopia

By DONALD LOUCHHEIM

MOGADISHU, Somalia — Fears of a major confrontation in the explosive horn of Africa have put this sprawling nation of nomads on a partial war footing.

In the past few weeks, units of Somalia's Russian-equipped army have been taking up defensive positions along the arid northern frontier with Ethiopia and French Somaliland. Facing them, the Somalis claim, are "massive" units of Ethiopia's American-equipped army, the most modern fighting force in Black Africa. Both countries are poised for a showdown over tiny French Somaliland, which will vote next Thursday on whether to remain under French rule or to become an independent state.

Since August, when French President de Gaulle promised self-determination for the 100,000 inhabitants of France's strategic colony at the mouth of the Red Sea, Somalia has been preparing to ward off any attempt by Ethiopia to annex the territory.

In addition to sending reinforcements to the border, a special appropriation of more than $1 million was voted to recruit about 3,000 men into a newly-formed "home guard."

New Taxes

Special levies on government workers and some new taxes have been introduced to help pay for the buildup and to resettle an estimated 5,000 refugees expelled from French Samaliland.

Should French Somaliland opt for independence, Somalis here fear that the Ethiopians may invade it to protect their rail link with the port of Djibouti, the Somaliland capital on which Ethiopia depends for the movement of half its imports and exports.

In an interview this week, Somalia's prime minister, Abdirizak Haji Hussein, acknowledged that the tense situation on the border could erupt into the kind of full-fledged warfare that flared briefly between his country and Ethiopia in 1964.

Since Somali independence in 1960, the two countries have been involved in a bitter dispute over Ethiopia's Ogaden region, which juts into the arid heart of Somalia and which is inhabited by fiercely independent Somali nomads.

The prime minister disclosed that last week he had sent a message to Ethiopian Emperoro Haile Selassie urging a joint declaration renouncing territorial ambitions towards French Somaliland and pledging to respect its sovereignty if it becomes independent.

In another move to keep a chance encounter along the border from escalating into war, the Somali police have recently been cracking down hard on smugglers ferrying arms into the border area. Two Somali policemen were killed and one wounded last month when they intercepted a boatload of weapons in the northern coastal area.

From the Ethiopian point of view, the situation would be satisfactorily resolved if French Somaliland votes to remain under French control. Labdirizak believes the referendum is being rigged by "ill management and irregularities". He still clings to the hope that the overwhelming desire for independence will prevail.

For the Somali government and all of the militantly nationalistic Somalis, the referendum offers the first opportunity of realizing at least part of their dream to unite all Somali tribesmen in northeast Africa in one racially homogeneous state.

In addition to the 2½ million Somalis in the republic, there are roughly 60,000 in French Somaliland, a million in Ethiopia's Ogaden region and 200,000 in northern Kenya.

A 'Backwards' Look At the French Voting

By WAVERLEY ROOT
The Washington Post

PARIS — The significant realignments which are occurring in French political groupings are more startlingly apparent if you look at last Sunday's election results backwards.

In other words, instead of counting the number of candidates from each party who were elected in the first round last Sunday, and the leading nominees who will probably be elected in the second round this Sunday, suppose one counts the number eliminated.

Looked at from this point of view, the result for Senator Jean Lecanuet's centrists was a massacre. He put up 371 candidates, and 151 of them could not muster even 10 per cent of the voters. Many of these who are still eligible are running towards the rear of the pack, having no chance of winning.

The figures in reverse are also significant concerning the position of the Communist party. Running candidates in all of the 470 electoral districts of France proper, they not only polled a larger proportion of the votes than the Federation of the Left, not only won eight seats while the Federation took only one, but were eliminated in only 52 districts.

Up to now, Communism has been concentrated in comparatively few districts — the Paris suburbs, in some other big cities, curiously in an island in the central plateau, and along the Cote d'Azur. Elsewhere they almost didn't exist. But it has now been demonstrated that in 418 districts out of 470 at least 10 per cent are Communist voters.

As for the Gaullist strength, that looks more impressive than ever, viewed from the rear. Of their 470 candidates, only two fell below 10 per cent, even in the consistently anti-Gaullist southwest.

●

Former Premier Pierre Mendes-France did not do very well either, but his Unified Socialist party has always been a splinter group, and his own identification with it has been far from complete, so that it does not benefit throughout the nation from the reflection of his personal prestige. He ran 114 candidates, of whom 80, or more than two-thirds, were eliminated.

Already the computers are predicting that the next National Assembly will be organized as follows:

Fifth Republic (Gaullists and Giscard d'Estaing's Independent Republicans), between 261 and 291 seats, as compared to 265 in the last parliament — the absolute majority is 244; Federation of the Left, 98 to 110 (104 last time); Communists, 45 to 58 (against 41); Centrists, 24 to 31 (against 54). Mendes-France's party is rated at one to five seats (it was not represented in the last assembly). The rest will be nonaligned individuals and members of splinter groups.

'Impossible To Achieve Objectives'

SAIGON (AP)— Robert Thompson said Thursday he submitted his resignation as leader of Canada's Social Credit party "because our party is posing before the public as something it isn't."

Thompson said he and party President Martin Kelln gave 30-day notice of their resignations to the party executive Feb. 17.

"Personally, I had not intended to make any public statement about my action until the date my resignation took effect. The party executive has apparently chosen to do so beforehand," Thompson said.

Thompson, in a telephone interview from his room in Saigon's Caravelle Hotel, said he was not aware that his resignation had been publicized.

"Basically, the underlying reason I resigned is because without the financial and organizational participation of provincial organizations it is impossible for the federal party to achieve its objectives."

He is in Vietnam with a six-man Canadian delegation, the first group of Canadian politicians to visit Vietnam. Thompson, who with his group has talked with leading Vietnamese personalities including Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, said, "We are much impressed with the Vietnamese government's policies regarding free elections and the reconstruction of the country."

Trustees to Get Site Proposals On Trade School

School board officials from Southern Vancouver Island will meet provincial government representatives March 13 to discuss a new site proposal for a vocational school.

Original proposals for the $4 million school called for construction on a site near Burnside and Wilkinson.

But officials of the department of public works have informed school authorities that this new site has now been rejected.

The meeting between trustees and government representatives will be held in the public works department library at 2:30 p.m. when the government will unveil it latest recommendations.

Man Convicted Making False Claim

Clifford Haines, 40, of 345 Gorge Road W., was fined $25 Thursday when convicted of making a false claim for unemployment insurance benefits.

He stated in his claim that he had been laid off his job as taxi driver when he had been fired, court was told.

'Douglas Budget Seems Too High'

The budget, a half share of little more than $8,000, was questioned when the matter was discussed in city council.

Ald. Edgelow said he couldn't understand why it should be so high when the city had just agreed to transfer Elk-Beaver Lake park—the big spender under the Victoria-Saanich Beaches and Parks Committee — to the regional district with Saanich picking up the full maintenance tab.

"Now we have this item for Mount Douglas which seems pretty high to me," he said.

Mayor Hugh Stephen pointed out that all council was being requested to do was approve the budget in principle.

"It still has to go through our budget discussions," he said. "It can be studied in detail there and added to or trimmed as council members see fit."

Ald. Robert Baird, chairman of the city's parks committee, felt the requested expenditures reasonable.

"Saanich has always leaned over backwards to help the entire area on these parks," he said. "I think we should show a little co-operation."

Ald. Baird repeated an earlier statemet that before too long Mount Douglas Park will come under regional control.

Following a Victoria-Saanich meeting Wednesday morning he said Mount Douglas would be a regional park within a year.

'I said that," he said, "but I didn't expect to see it in a newspaper. But there is no doubt in my mind that Mount Douglas will come under regional control before too long."

Strachan To Open New Headquarters

A new headquarters for the New Democratic Party association in Saanich and the Islands constituency will be opened Sunday.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan will officiate and a reception will be held from 3 to 8 p.m.

Mrs. Jean Rhodes, association president, said the public is invited to attend at the new location, 303 Brunswick Place.

OTTAWA LAWYERS CITE SULTAN'S PROBLEMS

A Lot of 'Offshore' History

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The Supreme Court Thursday pondered the old problems of the Sultan of Muscat and Prussia's sailing ships as it referred to the B.C.-Ottawa seabed battle.

For good measure, it also turned its attention to the collision of the Franconia and the Strathclyde off the British Isles in the 1870's.

And don't forget that old hassle about river-mouth islands in the high court of Madras.

C. F. H. Carson, Q.C., head of the federal legal team, continued to delve into history as he seeks to prove that B.C. does not own offshore lands or have the rights to develop them.

In the second day of the hearing, the evidence vaulted into the 20th century only now and again.

MULTI-MILLION BATTLE

But in the dry, involved legal battle between the provincial and federal governments, lies the millions of dollars in wealth that might be lying under the sea.

Prime Minister Pearson has referred the issue to the court—where it is being heard by seven judges—to get a ruling on who owns the offshore territory.

He is on record as stating that if the issue is resolved in Ottawa's favor, it will be resolved between Ottawa and all the other provinces involved by negotiation.

The federal legal team is arguing that when B.C. joined Confederation in 1871, the land below low-water mark was not part of the realm and did not become part of the province.

FIVE AGAINST ONE

Ottawa also is arguing that rights under international law respecting the bed of the territorial sea—the area covered by the three-mile limit—and the continental shelf are exerciseable by the federal government.

CARSON
. . . heads Ottawa team

Four provinces also will argue against Ottawa—Ontario, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Newfoundland, and Prince Edward Island is represented.

The court decision, not expected for months, also will affect them to some degree.

Carson has stated that the issues involved are not to rights on the surface or in the water over the areas in question, but only to the rights in the land under the waters.

OLD CASES

The lawyer went into the old cases to back up the contention that the real—the actual country—ends at the low-water mark.

He referred to the British court decisions following the ship collision—and this was five years after B.C. joined Confederation — that the realm did end at the low-water mark.

Carson told of involved legal arguments in Britain about which court had jurisdiction on the beaches at various tide levels, and on the waters offshore.

Into these came the problems of the Sultan of Muscat, Prussian ships seized by a British man-of-war in an ancient dispute, and the other cases.

Representing B.C. are W. Burke-Robertson, Q.C., of Ottawa, and A. W. Hobbs and M. H. Smith from the attorney-general's department in Victoria.

THREE-MILE LIMIT

The lawyer contended that in 1871, the land below low-water mark belonged to neither Canada nor B.C.—although through a convention entered into between Britain and the U.S. in 1818, the three-mile, fishing-right agreement was reached in North America.

But, of course, this did not involve the land under the sea.

Carson argued that the realm of B.C. and Canada both end at the low-water mark, and beyond that is a part of the world that is neither.

But Mr. Justice Douglas Abbott said the three-mile limit is an area within which a state can claim sovereignty.

He wondered why territorial rights in the area have not been claimed.

Carson replied that this could be done, but Canada had not done so.

Mr. Justice Abbott said theoretically if the water was not too deep within the three-mile limit, a fence would be put up to keep everybody out.

1963 DECISION

Carson turned to a 1963 court decision in Nova Scotia as he outlined his case.

He said two coal companies appealed against tax demands involving coal mine workings under the sea, claiming that the county authorities involved had no jurisdiction.

The ruling was that the part of the workings under Sydney Harbor were subject to taxation because the harbor was in inland sea, and therefore part of the realm.

But the court also ruled that another part of the workings that went out into the three-mile limit was not assessable because this was not within the county.

The case continues today and is expected to last until the end of next week.

BANK ACT

New 'Deal' Setback For Gordon

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The Bank Act will be re-introduced into the Commons just as it came out of the finance committee with no amendments proposed by the cabinet, it was learned here today following a meeting of the cabinet Thursday night.

Agreement has been reached between Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp and Walter Gordon, minister without portfolio, that the act be presented to the house for clause-by-clause study in committee of the whole house, without amendment.

The row that boiled up in the cabinet Feb. 24 and spilled over into the press occurred when Mr. Gordon expressed dissatisfaction with the finance committee's recommendations regarding the Mercantile Bank. The former finance minister wanted the federal government to impose "tougher" restrictions on the Mercantile Bank.

FINGERS CROSSED

It is a delicate deal between Mr. Sharp and Mr. Gordon and the pro-Sharp people within the cabinet were keeping their fingers crossed today. They said that judging by past performances, such "deals had a way of coming unstuck."

The Bank Act is scheduled to be introduced into the house Monday. It is understood that the agreement is a setback for Mr. Gordon. He had won concessions in the first agreement. It was when the terms became public and the reaction indicated it was going to collapse that he cut short his Jamaica vacation and flew back to Ottawa last weekend to salvage what he could.

Real-Life Adventure Film Night

Two real-life adventure films featuring Eskimos and Congolese tribesmen will be shown as part of the adult education film series here next week.

A dog-sled ride, a walrus hunt and a meal of raw seal liver are shown in the film High Arctic, which describes the life of semi-nomadic Canadian Eskimos.

The film shows the minor miracle of Eskimo survival in the harsh Arctic climate and documents unusual events in the daily lives of these happy people. High Arctic will be screened March 17 at 8 p.m.

African phenomena from a rhinoceros charge to rites of pygmy and Watusi tribesmen are featured in The Congo, a film about tribal Africa at the crossroads. The Congo will be seen here March 18.

Both films will be narrated by lecturer Lewis Cotlow, who has made several expeditions to study the world's primitive people. They will be shown at Oak Bay Junior Secondary.

RCMP Round Up 27 Chinese

VANCOUVER (CP)—An RCMP immigration branch spokesman said Thursday that 27 Chinese seamen had been rounded up recently and ordered deported.

All have appealed, he said.

The spokesman said about another 25 still are being sought.

Most were believed to have jumped ship during the longshoremen's dispute before Christmas, when as many as 50 freighters were tied up in Vancouver at one time.

"We're back now to the usual one or two Chinese ship deserters a month," the spokesman said.

Stephen Heads Press Gallery

Andy Stephen of CHAN-CHEK TV Thursday was elected president of the B.C. Legislative Press Gallery for 1967-68.

He succeeds John Mika of the Victoria Times.

Ian Street of the Vancouver Province was elected vice-president. Tom Carney of the Canadian Press was elected secretary-treasurer.

OSWALD, FERRIE VISITED RUBY'S NIGHT CLUB, HE SAYS

Cabbie Links Trio in Slaying Probe

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A man who used to drive a Dallas taxicab says he once drove Lee Harvey Owald and David Ferrie to Jack Ruby's Dallas nightclub.

Raymon Cummings, 35, has told this story to District Attorney Jim Garrison's office in New Orleans, it was learned.

Garrison, investigating an alleged plot into the assassination of President Kennedy, says Ferrie, Oswald and others conspired to kill the president.

* * *

Ferrie, Oswald and Ruby all are dead.

A source said the former cabbie decided to get in touch with Garrison's office after he saw a picture of Ferrie in a Dallas newspaper in February. The picture was accompanied by a story that quoted Ferrie as saying he had never been in Dallas.

CUMMINGS
. . . tells his story

* * *

While a cabbie Cummings once picked up three men and drove them to Ruby's Carousel Club. The three were Ferrie, Oswald and an unidentified man, the source quoted Cummings as saying.

Cummings, said the source, recognized Oswald.

* * *

In New Orleans, Dean Andrews Jr., a lawyer, who told the Warren commission he thought Oswald was a "patsy," testified briefly Thursday before a grand jury.

Andrews and Josephine Hug were the only two witnesses subpoenaed for Thursday's secret grand jury session. Mrs. Hug, a tall, well-dressed brunette, formerly worked for Clay Shaw, the retired executive accused by Garrison of conspiring to kill President Kennedy.

ANDREWS
. . . Lee a patsy?

* * *

In testimony before the Warren commission in 1964, Andrews, now an assistant district attorney of suburban Jefferson Parish (county), said:

"There's three people I am going to find: One of them is the real guy that killed the president; the Mexican, and Clay Bertrand."

* * *

Asked then if he had considerable doubt about Oswald being the assassin, Andrews replied: "I know good and well he did not."

"With that weapon, he couldn't have been capable of making three controlled shots in that short time. . . . This boy could have connived the deal, but I think he is a patsy. Somebody else pulled the trigger."

MARKET SUMMARIES

Record Buying at New York

Wall Street climbed on the heaviest buying of the year as it responded to President Johnson's request that the U.S. Congress restore the 7 per cent investment tax credit. Despite later profit-taking the market held a substantial gain.

First hour-volume at New York was a record 5,140,000 shares. The ticker tape was as much as 27 minutes behind floor transactions, a record for the new high-speed tape.

Prices reached their crest by the end of the first hour when the Dow Jones industrial average was up 13.70.

It was the heaviest buying since 1929.

AT TORONTO prices were trimmed in light trading as profit-takers cut into strong morning gains.

The industrial index followed the trend at New York.

Interlisted issues paced the list as Chrysler gained 2⅛ to 42⅛, General Motors 1⅛ to 80⅝, Massey-Ferguson ⅝ to 24⅞ and Alcan ¼ to 33⅞.

Moore Corp., which showed a burst of strength in the morning after the company announced a sharp increase in 1966 earnings, was hit hard in profit-taking. The stock was up ⅜ to 96 7-8 after touching a high of 99.

Uranium issues continued to strengthen following an early-week statement by Federal Resources and Mines Minister Pepin that the outlook of sales of Canadian uranium in the near future are excellent.

Denison gained 1 1-4 to 58, Rio Algom 5-8 to 26 7-8, and Roman Corp., whose chief asset is Denison shares, ⅜ to 14¾.

AT NEW YORK Pan-American Airways opened on a delayed block of 76,000 shares, up 3⅞ at 73½; Schenley on 36,900 shares, up 2 at 57; Benguet, on 98,000 shares, unchanged at 4⅛.

Among Canadian issues, Granby Mining was up ⅞, Alcan and Massey-Ferguson ¾, Walker Gooderham ⅝, Canadian Pacific ½, International Nickel ¼. Hud-Dome Mines ¼.

AT MONTREAL active trading in Midepsa highlighted a rising market.

Midepsa went against the trend, dropping 50 cents to $3.75 on a turnover of 75,000 shares. It rose 25 cents at the opening but fell when large blocks of shares started to change hands.

AT LONDON the Labor government's by-election setback resulted in an initial spurt on today's stock market, but buyers failed to follow through and several of the leaders soon declined from their best advances.

One or two soft spots included Consolidated Paper and Massey-Ferguson, the latter shedding two points following lower quarterly profit figures. Other Canadian issues hardened.

AT VANCOUVER MacMillan Bloedel was strong in pre-noon trading and rose .62 to 29.75.

Elsewhere in the industrials, Woodward's was off .50 to 27.25 and Centennial Mortgage dipped .05 to a new low of 1.35.

In the mines, West Coast Resources lost .04 to .95 and Utica was off .05 to 2.12. Brenda was up .15 to 7.15 and Highmont was up .10 at 4.60.

The oil section saw Bata reach a new high of 2.30 before returning to 2.25, up .03 on the morning.

Royal American, however, lost .04 to a new low of .92.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

CHICAGO (AP) — Grain futures were generally lightly traded but held their firmness throughout the session and closed the week on a mostly higher tone on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

Wheat was firm from the outset. An extended weather forecast for the winter wheat-producing area of the U.S. southwest indicated no moisture of any consequence.

WINNIPEG (CP) — A moderately active trade in oilseeds was featured today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Some light hedging sales proceeded in both flax and rapeseed and some export interest developed in both commodities.

Bank Charter Procedure Criticized

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons finance committee has asked Parliament to make it easier for banks to obtain charters.

In current practice, it may take years to get a charter and this has discouraged applicants.

A report by the committee to the Commons Thursday said House rules must be changed to solve this delay by allowing for prompt decision on applications after reasonable debate.

The two new chartered banks opening this year — the Bank of Western Canada and the Bank of British Columbia — both had two-year struggles on Parliament Hill before they won approval.

Each had to be sponsored by a single MP, whose bill had to wait its turn for debate in the Commons private members' hour, a low-priority period that occurs sporadically during parliamentary sessions.

CAN BE 'TALKED OUT'

A group of two or three MPs opposed to the bill can "talk it out" by extending debate past the hour, effectively killing the legislation.

The committee would like the government to get rid of this limitation, while retaining the custom of first sending the application to the comittee for detailed study in public hearings.

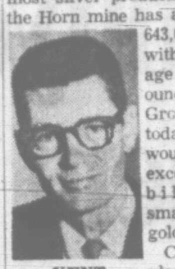
Start on Utica Mill Project

By AB KENT
Business Editor

Mill construction began this week for a $1.5 million silver development project by Utica Mines Ltd. at Keremeos.

Touted as the country's foremost silver producing potential, the Horn mine has an estimated 643,000 tons with an average grade of 20 ounces per ton. Gross value at today's prices would be in excess of $1.5 billion, plus small values in gold.



KENT

Company plans are still to have the 300-tons per day mill operating in July, said Utica secretary-treasurer John Black. But the break-in period is not due to start until July 1, which could mean up to several weeks before the actual production starts.

That is when West Kootenay Power has agreed to have electricity on the site.

Meanwhile, C. F. Miller is working on an access road contract and Klassen Construction has begun the mill, which will be entirely new.

An executive steering committee consisting of vice-president Pat Reynolds and directors Ed Sholz and Albert Koffman, is keeping close watch over the pre-production period to keep the wheels oiled.

There was a strange quiet on the production line at Northwestern Creamery Ltd. when they recently passed through the first plastic milk jugs.

It must have seemed like a respectful silence for the passing of glass bottles whose clank and crash had filled the plant for so many decades.

Assistant general manager I. R. Fuller said superintendent Harry Wood and his staff are enthused about the new three-quart containers.

"Why? Quietness," he said.

"Something was missing when the first plastic jugs went through processing. Something was wrong.

"And suddenly it dawned on them — the plant was quiet. Gone was the clatter and clink of thousands of glass bottles, and the crash as one dropped from the line."

The plastic containers, which have a carrying handle, are popular with customers, too, requiring a 40-cent deposit to cover losses.

But the jugs must be used only for milk; any other use means rejection as a milk container.

Fine wines, automobiles, foods, fashions and the tricolor which could only be French will mark a prominent spot in the hall of nations during B.C. International Trade Fair May 17 27 in Vancouver.

The French sector of the fair will report on a line of consumer and industrial goods ranging from heavy machinery to perfume.

Roland d'Albis, French Expositions representative, said the purpose is partly to alter the thinking of many eastern-oriented French businessmen to include the prospects of Western Canadian and U.S. markets.

AUTO TRADE DEFICIT SLASHED

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's deficit in auto trade with the U.S. was slashed by more than $100,000,000 in the first 11 months of 1966, an industry department report says.

The report says Canadian exports to the U.S. jumped 270 per cent to $717,500,000 from $193,800,000 for the same period of 1965 while imports from U.S. rose 45 per cent to $1,310,200,000 from $895,000,000.

In total auto trade—motor vehicles and parts—with all countries, Canada's deficit fell to $618,500,000 from $711,200,000, almost back to the 1964 level of $605,000,000.

AUTO WORKERS

Takeover Of Local Supported

DETROIT (AP)—Overwhelming support of the international union's takeover of a rebellious local in an Ohio General Motors plant was voted Thursday by United Auto Workers representing 132 bargaining units.

The delegates, with only two dissenting, urged workers in the strike-beset parts plant at Mansfield, Ohio, to end wildcat work stoppages and stay on the job.

Frank Petty Jr., leader of the rebellious faction, when asked if the vote ended the wildcat strike, answered: "I guess it does."

He said he would attempt to prevent further wildcat work stoppages at the plant.

The vote came at an emergency session of the national General Motors Council of the UAW, summoned "to discuss thoroughly" the Mansfield situation, which holds the threat of making 200,000 GM workers idle for a second time since Feb. 13.

The vote came a few hours after GM raised the threat of discontinuing the Fisher body factory at Mansfield as an important plant.

Strike Idles Canadian-Owned Guyana Plant

GEORGETOWN, Guyana (Reuters) — Production at a Canadian-owned bauxite and alumina centre 55 miles south of here was at a standstill today with 5,000 workers on strike to protest a new work schedule.

The walkout at the Demerara Bauxite Company's plants at MacKenzie on the Demerara River, was only one of a series of strikes which have hit Guyana's economy.

Labor ministry officials were working around the clock to solve the MacKenzie dispute and strikes at port facilities and a foundry.

Five hundred employees at the bauxite company's $65,000,00 alumina plant at MacKenzie walked out earlier this week in support of 40 men who claimed a new work schedule reduced their earnings by eliminating Sunday work and reducing night shifts.

Sun Reports Revenues Up

VANCOUVER (CP) — Sun Publishing Co. Ltd. has reported net income of $318,321 for the four-month period ended Dec. 31, 1966.

Board chairman C. B. Delbridge said advertising lineage and revenues were well above seasonal levels and circulation of the afternoon daily was about 250,000.

The four-month report was issued to coincide with a decision last June to switch the company year end from Aug. 31 to Dec. 31.

WORK of Victoria consulting engineers, A. B. Sanderson & Co., Ltd., in planning new bridge in the national capital won a design of merit certificate from the National Design Council, department of industry and Canadian Steel Industries Construction Council. It is the Macdonald-Cartier Bridge, between Ottawa and Hull, on which A. B. Sanderson collaborated with two eastern consultants. The project was entered in the 1966 Design - Canada Structural Steel Awards Program.

LANDREVILLE TELLS HEARING

Nothing Improper in Deal

OTTAWA (CP)—Mr. Justice Leo Landreville maintained under sharp questioning Thursday that he saw nothing improper in his 1957 stock market windfall of $117,000.

Testifying for the fourth day before a Commons-Senate committee studying his conduct, he said he received 7,500 shares in fast-rising gas stock free of charge because of his friendship with the company president, Ralph Farris, and because Mr. Farris kept a promise he had made the previous year.

He denied that the shares were a reward for helping Northern Ontario Natural Gas Co. to get the Sudbury gas franchise while he was mayor in 1956.

The judge was named to the Ontario Supreme Court in October, 1956, and now faces possible removal from the bench for improper conduct. The committee must recommend for or against his removal.

Mr. Justice Landreville testified that Mr. Farris promised in July, 1956, to sell him 10,000 NONG shares at $2.50 each and to consider hiring him the next year as a company executive in Northern Ontario.

ment, Mr. Farris had told him he would still get the shares. The following February, 2,500 NONG shares were sold at $10 each in the judge's name by a Vancouver broker and the judge received 7,500 shares free. He later sold them for $117,000.

Committee counsel Yves Fortier asked why the judge received this preferential treatment from NONG.

The judge replied that he could dispose of the suspicions of informed persons, but he was powerless to dispel the suspicions of uninformed persons.

Ogden Point Lumber Shipments Take Drop

Export lumber shipments from Ogden Point docks during February dropped both from the previous month and from the total recorded in February 1965.

Lumber loadings came to 18.65 million board feet last month, against 25½ million board feet in January and 22.6 million feet in February a year ago.

Part of the reason for so great a difference may be attributed to a backlog of orders that boosted January totals following a dock tie-up late last year.

Only 429 tons of plywood were shipped from Ogden Point in February, compared with 1,258 tons in the first month of the year.

Performance at Cowichan Bay was considerably ahead of Victoria, and also showed improvement over Cowichan Bay shipping for January.

There were 24 million board feet of lumber and 516 tons of plywood loaded aboard ships, against 9.6 million board feet and 271 tons of plywood the previous month.

PROFESSIONAL HOSTING SEMINAR

Roll Out Red Carpet for Visitors

By AB KENT

A hefty kick is all that is required, as ably demonstrated at an Empress Hotel seminar on professional hosting opened by ex-soccer player Dr. David B. Turner, deputy minister of recreation and conservation.

Dr. Turner's symbolic act, aided by Victoria Visitors Bureau commissioner Mike Heppell, impressed the desirability of making tourists welcome, of providing service and efficiency.

But more important is to hold the visitor once he has arrived, said feature speaker Michael Lambert, general manager of the Calgary Inn, with 19 years' experience in hotel work and catering.

"People make the difference," he said, urging hotel and restaurant employers to engage the best personnel they can.

"The best people go where the best money is. They are the ambitious people. They work the hardest and do the best job."

Mr. Lambert said people promoted from within the organization are preferable because they already know their operation.

"Try and bring them up from the inside," he said. "It will encourage the others in your organization and will pay off and save you a packet."

He urged managers to get into the act of welcoming by carrying bags, pouring coffee or picking up litter in the lobby.

"It's good for staff morale, and the guests like it. It sets a standard.

He had other pungent observations:

On rooms—"Look at your place from the guests' point of view. Look at the bathroom. It should be antiseptically clean.

"Where does the guest spend most of his time in the room? Well, go in and sit and look around you."

On pricing meals—"They must be a reasonable price. I know of several restaurants in western Canada slowly going broke because they don't price reasonably."

On wine pricing—"Don't just take the cost price and double it. People see through that right away, especially local people."

WINTERS IN LONDON

Important Economic Talks

LONDON (CP) — Canadian Trade Minister Robert Winters came to London Thursday for a round of talks with the British cabinet, including private discussions with Prime Minister Wilson on the European Common Market.

Winters, who earlier visited Geneva and Bonn, said in an interview he is cautiously optimistic about the outcome of the Kennedy round of world tariff bargaining and about reaching his target to boost Canadian exports this year by 11 per cent.

In Bonn, he discussed with German ministers aspects of economic problems "plaguing," the German economy and also the outlook for Canadian uranium sales.

Winters said uranium sales prospects, to assist in expansion of peaceful commercial projects in Germany, are good from the "long-haul" viewpoint.

MEETS WILSON

The Canadian minister met with Wilson today. It is understood Wilson will give Winters a rundown on the exploratory visits which will lead the prime minister to decide whether Britain should make another formal application to join the European Common Market.

Not all the British cabinet is sold on the Common Market idea. British Trade Minister Douglas Jay favors concentration on expansion of the Commonwealth and such other possibilities as development of an Atlantic common market involving Britain, Canada and the United States.

This could have "enormous attractions" and is "well worth a study," Jay said in an interview earlier.

Jay said also he is "reasonably encouraged" about the prospects for a successful conclusion to the Kennedy round of bargaining, though he believed there will be some "big decisions" and possibly a "showdown" before negotiations are completed, perhaps before the end of April.

A joint Anglo-Canadian cabinet meeting to deal with bilateral issues as well as world trade will be held here probably April 19-20.

External Affairs Minister Paul Martin is expected to lead the Canadian delegation with Foreign Secretary George Brown heading the British team. At the meeting will be finance, agriculture and trade ministers from both sides.

Canadian trade commissioners in Europe will gather here Saturday to hear a Winters' talk in preparation for a giant rally of Canadian commissioners in Canada later this year.

Winters flies back to Ottawa Sunday.

Lumber Shipments From B.C. Improve

VANCOUVER (CP) — Waterborne shipments of lumber from B.C. ports in January showed a healthy improvement over the first month of 1966, the Pacific Lumber Inspection Bureau has reported. A total of 226,150,000 board feet of lumber left B.C. ports in January compared with 169,550,000 board feet in the same month last year.

CENSURE OF MLA THREATENED

Herb Capozzi (SC—Vancouver Centre) jumped into trouble again in the Legislature Thursday night and may face an Opposition motion of censure today.

Gordon Dowding (NDP—Burnaby-Edmonds) threatened the rarely-used procedure after Mr. Capozzi referred to opposition MLAs as "fruits."

The word frequently is used as a colloquialism for homosexuals. In an earlier debate, Mr. Capozzi had described opposition MLAs as "political eunuchs."

BIBLICAL QUOTATION.

"And there are the fruits on that side of the house," shouted Mr. Capozzi.

Mr. Dowding complained about the "scurrilous remarks" and told the house he would bring in a motion of censure.

"He called us a bunch of fruits," he cried, contending it was meant as an insult.

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

Hilda

The bush forms of honeysuckle are seldom seen in gardens, although many of them are decorative and useful. The honeysuckle genus is known as Lonicera, and so we have Lonicera tatarica, the Tartarian Honeysuckle.

Of the bush forms, this Asiatic is perhaps the best known, for it is hardy in any kind of weather and is certainly attractive. Still, it is not rated high.

With us it is the first of the deciduous shrubs to show leaf buds. The bright yet soft green color is frequently to be seen by the end of a mild January, and by February's end the short-stalked leaves are expanded.

A mature shrub can be seven or eight feet in height, although each year some old wood should be pruned out at ground level to assist in the production of new flowering wood.

Somewhere along in April, the small but showy flowers appear in pairs in every leaf axil of second-year wood. The combination of rosy-pink bloom in such profusion with the soft green of the foliage is most delightful.

The shrub attracts a great deal of attention at this time, and the fact that although a honeysuckle it is not a climber, adds to its interest.

In a shrub border where its summer growth will not observe a less vigcrous plant, or as a screen for garbage can, compost heap of soil tank, the Tartarian honeysuckle has a place.

It is variable as to color when grown from seed, so that a good form should be chosen while in bloom.

Walter Whale 'Spooky'

"He'll be a little spooky for a while," said Ted Griffin, curator of the Seattle Public Aquarium, who captured Walter and four other killer whales Feb. 11.

"The trip here, the new tank, the noise — all this is upsetting. Also, he probably misses the others. They're quite gregarious animals."

After being released in his new tank in Vancouver, Walter got a big dose of antibiotics — just as a precautionary measure. At the time of his capture, Walter got several injections against disease and infection as well as injections of vitamins and anti-toxins.

The whale came to Vancouver bundled in a stretcher-like device aboard a truck. Two aquarium attendants sloshed buckets of water over him throughout the four-hour trip.

Walter is a youngster — about five years old — and in their natural habitat killer whales live between 35 and 50 years. He weighs about two tons.

"No longer will 100,000 Canadian car buyers have to choose either a too-small import or a too-costly compact."

American Motors offers another alternative:
Rambler American-
the original compact car-

Rambler American Rogue

We estimate that every year, about 100,000 Canadian families are put into the predicament of having to choose either a car that is too small, and not really suited to Canadian conditions, or one that is right for their needs, but too costly.

Why is this so?

Because, until now, there has been no domestic-built car available to fill the size and price gap between the small-but-economical imports and the larger-but-costlier compacts.

Not any more!

We at American Motors believe that it's high time to close that gap. It's high time to give those 100,000 Canadian families the kind of car they need, at the price they want to pay. And what they need and want is a Canadian-built compact car at a truly low price—a price that is competitive with imports!

That car is the Rambler American! The original compact car!

On February 21st we announced a reduction in the list price of all Rambler American models, as follows:

Series & Model	Old Price	New Price	Saving
220
2-door sedan	$2494	$2272	$222
4-door sedan	2566	2382	184
4-door station wagon	2871	2693	178
440
2-door sedan	2627	2446	181
4-door sedan	2699	2536	163
4-door station wagon	3009	2860	149
2-door hardtop	2722	2582	140
Rogue
2-door hardtop	2913	2767	146
2-door convertible	3130	2977	153

These are Manufacturer's suggested retail prices for the models named F.O.B. Brampton, Ontario. Federal taxes included. Provincial or local taxes, if any, destination charges and optional equipment are obviously extra.

To any one of the 100,000 Canadian families caught in the price/size predicament, these new prices mean that they can now get the car they've been waiting for: the truly low-priced Canadian compact. They can now buy a 6-passenger, 6-cylinder, Canadian-built Rambler American for just $274 more than a 4-passenger, 4-cylinder, VW; or for $267 less than a Falcon. (Based on Manufacturer's suggested retail prices.)

But how can we lower our prices when everything else is going up? Through a double-barreled attack on the problem. With the wholehearted support and co-operation of our dealers, who agreed to sell the Rambler American for $2272, American Motors management decided to take the second step that would reduce the price; eliminate the annual model change for the Rambler American line only.

Future changes to the Rambler American will be limited to genuine improvements; essential changes that will actually improve the safety, reliability, performance or economy of the car. There will be real changes, not change for the sake of change alone. No annual face-lift that costs us (and ultimately you), millions of dollars each year. The cost of re-tooling, model-making, experimenting and pilot production is being passed on to you, the purchaser, right now, in these price reductions. There will be no change in the materials, methods or specifications of the Rambler American.

Think of what you're getting. The Rambler American has already demonstrated its superiority over other domestic compacts, by winning its class in the 1967 Union/Pure Oil Performance Trials and in every Mobil Economy Run in which it has been entered. The Rambler American is the only compact that offers a complete choice of body styles: 2-door sedan, 4-door sedan, station wagon, 2-door hardtop and 2-door convertible. The Rambler American is available with Six or V-8 engines, 3-speed, 4-speed, Overdrive, or 3-speed automatic transmission; your choice of bench, bucket or individual seats (that recline!), plus standard equipment features like a long-lived Ceramic-Armoured exhaust system, Single-Unit Construction, Deep-Dip Rustproofing, coil spring seats . . . all the built-in extras that have built Rambler's reputation for value!

Think again. Now, at a price that is competitive with imported cars, you can have the kind of performance needed on Canadian highways, the kind of construction, rustproofing and heater needed for Canadian winters, the kind of safety features you want for your family, the kind of dependability you can get only from a coast-to-coast network of dealers, the kind of comfort and room you have come to expect from a car designed and built on this continent.

For years, we have felt the Rambler American to be the best value in a domestic automobile. Today, at its new, low price, Rambler American is the best automotive value in the world.

We consider this to be a most important breakthrough in the auto industry. And it is only the first of many exciting developments to come from the new management of American Motors.

Here's why we say that dollar for dollar, Rambler American is now the best automotive value in the world.

ALAN McEACHERN
. . . real concern

TORONTO (CP) — With the Canadian football season still half a year away, there already are rumblings from discontented players.

Defensive halfback Don Sutherin, traded in the off season to Edmonton Eskimos by Hamilton Tiger-Cats, warned Wednesday of massive raiding of the Canadian Football League by representatives of the American and National Leagues in the United States.

In an interview, Sutherin said he had been offered "close to 50 per cent more than I was making up here" and offered his salary for a year if he wants to sit out his option to play in Canada. He was offered a four-year, no-cut contract by the team he refused to name.

Vocally unhappy about the trade to Edmonton, Sutherin repeated his determination not to join the Western conference club and said he understood that representatives of a U.S. team already were talking with Edmonton officials concerning a possible deal.

He also said the U.S. officials who approached him had asked what possibilities there are of picking up four other players Sutherin refused to name. He said the U.S. spokesmen knew the playing records of the players, but wanted to know if they were approachable.

CONCERNS CFL

In a Vancouver interview Wednesday, Allan McEachern, CFL commissioner, said there is real concern in the league about the activities in Canada of the American teams.

He said he had talked with the commissioners of both U.S. leagues—Pete Rozelle of the NFL and Pete Woodward of the AFL—and was waiting to hear further from them.

He said the situation is "not in keeping with the understanding we have with them concerning mutual respect for each other.

"I regard it as wrongful conduct.

"What we have is not an agreement, but an understanding and I regard it as wrongful for a team to do what these teams are apparently doing.

"I don't think it's the leagues. I think it's a few over-eager teams."

INTEREST IN WAYTE

Also involved in the eight-man trade with Sutherin was another Ticat, defensive half Billy Wayte, who subsequently announced his retirement at 27 after four years of professional play.

The Tiger-Cats also are in a fair way to lose tackle Angelo Mosca, who says he intends playing out his option to go with a U.S. team he won't name on a $90,000, no-cut three-year contract.

They've already lost three-year guard Chuck Walton, who played out his option last year to join Detroit Lions of the NFL in 1967. Sutherin said that Walton had told him that U.S. officials had also asked about the possibility of luring halfback Garney Henley from Hamilton.

Sutherin also said he had heard that fullback Gerry MacDougall, also included in the Edmonton trade and now vacationing in Mexico, did not intend to report. MacDougall rejoined Hamilton last season after three years with San Diego Chargers of the AFL.

And there isn't any softening of talk heard from defensive star Ed Learn of Montreal or fullback Jim Dillard of Ottawa Rough Riders.

Learn says he might consider playing this year if he is traded to Hamilton but he won't play again for Montreal.

And Dillard, who said much the same thing before being traded last year to Ottawa by Calgary Stampeders, repeated his intention of clearing his Canadian commitments and heading to the U.S. to play.

"I'm not interested in playing football in Canada—in Ottawa or anywhere else," he said.

Eileen, Ian Hit the Mark

Victoria Bowmen ladies' division has a new buttonholder. Eileen Mair took the honor from Leona Owen in competition this week.

City archers are preparing for the B.C. indoor championships in Chilliwack March 19

NEW PRESIDENT of prestigious Pacific Coast Squash Racquets Association is Dr. Kemble Greenwood of Victoria. Elected at Pacific Coast championships last week at San Francisco, Dr. Greenwood announced that '68 championships will be held at the new Victoria Racquet Club, of which he is also president, next February.

Hockey Group Plans to Pack Financial Load

The Victoria Minor Hockey Association, anxious to make an annual Easter Week Jamboree "one of the best in the west", plans to stickhandle through financial departments by itself.

That seemed to be an obvious and emphatic decision as VMHA president Bob Reid announced finalization of dates and details for the second annual tournament.

The jamboree, drawing teams from as far east as Quebec and south to Portland, will be held in Memorial Arena March 24-26.

The emphasis will be on midget teams, but all minor divisions from peewee pups (age 7) to juvenile (under 18) will be represented in the three-day tournament.

Competing in midget play will be teams from Victoria, Esquimalt, Montreal, Winnipeg and Calgary. All entries, said Reid, have been confirmed except Montreal's. The Quebec entry is expected to be announced this weekend.

Vancouver, Burnaby, Coquitlam, Seattle, Portland, Nanaimo, Comox, Powell River and Alberni are among centres supplying teams in other divisions. Each division will include at least one Victoria and one Esquimalt entry.

A VMHA release presented by Reid said the Jamboree — a contribution to the Canadian Centennial year celebrations—is "being completely financed and put on by the (Victoria Minor) Association."

Last year's inaugural tournament cost the association approximately $600 but Reid feels this year's event "will more than recover" that sum.

Reid made it plain that the Victoria body has not asked for grants or assistance from the Centennial Committee.

"We feel we can accomplish what we want to do by ourselves."

PRACTICE SHOOT

Rifles Bark Sunday At Game Club Range

Two weekends of work by cartridge addicts in the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association have restored the game club's Esquimalt Lagoon range to sparkling condition for the opening of a new rifle-shooting season.

First action is slated for Sunday at 9 a.m., when a practice and classification shoot for riflemen using centre-fire weapons will begin.

All persons interested in Vancouver Island Shooting League competition this summer are invited to join in the trigger tugging. Unclassified shooters will have an opportunity to obtain a temporary VISL classification that will be valid at all Island rifle shoots this year.

Shooters, who will be competing against those of similar ability, will be required to bring their own ammunition—a minimum of 30 rounds, plus sighters. They may use any centre-fire rifle of 10½ pounds or less with a trigger pull of not less than three pounds.

Regular marksmen will be getting in final practice shots for the first VISL rifle match of the season, at Parksville, March 19.

Courtenay Plays United for Title

First United will open a two-game series for the Vancouver Island juvenile girls' basketball championship Saturday, meeting Courtenay at S. J. Willis Junior High School.

United wrapped up the lower Island title Thursday night by defeating Brentwood, 39-8, in the second game of a total-points series.

Esquimalt Raps On Door to Title

A peewee representative team will bid to become the first to bring a Vancouver Island minor hockey championship to Esquimalt.

Esquimalt Reps will host Powell River in a two-game, total-point series at the Sports Centre this weekend. First game will be played at 6 p.m. Saturday and the second at 8 a.m. Sunday.

City Bantams Seek Island Hoop Crowns

Two Victoria clubs will be gunning for titles Sunday at Comox in Vancouver Island bantam basketball tournaments.

First United Panthers, winners of 12 of 13 league games this season under coach Barry Turner, will be bidding for the girls' crown against clubs from Nanaimo, Duncan and Comox.

With five players from the Esquimalt club that won the provincial title last year, coach Mo Turner's Chinooks were unbeaten in 15 league games.

Challengers Win Ladies' Button

The ladies' golf button at Gorge Vale went to challengers Angus Castle and Ivy Blunt, winners over Chris Holland and Lenore Robertson, on the 13th hole in the first match of the 1967 season.

Mrs. Castle won "A" division honors with a net 77. Phyllis Moody led the "B" division with a net 82.

Pro Leagues Earn Pat For Erasing Redshirt

NEW YORK (AP) — The American and National Leagues received a pat on the back today after doing away with the redshirt football draft which had left a number of rednecked college football coaches.

College conference commissioners throughout the country praised Wednesday's announcement that the first combined player draft will be held next week and prohibits selection of athletes redshirted by colleges.

"This is not anything we specifically asked for," said commissioner Bill Reed of the Big Ten and former chairman of the Professional Relations Committee of the NCAA, "but it is evidence of the co-operation we were led to believe we could expect from pro football."

The provinces plan allowed the pro leagues to draft redshirts — the NFL in the regular draft and the AFL in a special draft—and it left college coaches angry over losing players who still had a year of eligibility remaining.

A redshirt is a player who sat out a year of football college and retained that year of eligibility after his class has graduated.

Under the adopted compromise plan, pro commissioner Pete Rozelle said no player with collegiate eligibility remaining can be drafted until five seasons of football had elapsed since he first entered a recognized college.

Rozelle estimated 445 players would be chosen by the 16 NFL teams and nine AFL clubs, including 20 extra picks by New Orleans, the NFL's newest team. The draft rounds start Tuesday.

'Amazing' Bays Collide With 'Irish' in Semis

Taylor's Troops Flatten Lord Byng; Alberni Out

Special to The Times

VANCOUVER—For Oak Bay this season has been an uphill battle. But the Bays have thrived on the regimen.

Thursday at UBC's War Memorial Gym the Bays coolly, confidently knocked off Lord Byng Grey Ghosts 41-37 in the second round of the British Columbia High School basketball tournament.

And tonight at 7:45 the Bays will need all that poise and command for their stiffest test yet. In this the semi-finals the Victoria crew runs into Vancouver College, the consensus choice to become king of the hill.

"Those kids just amaze me," Oak Bay coach Garry Taylor was saying after the Byng game. "They've been doing this all year — winning on hustle. They're all heart and scrap."

But the Bays don't look at it that way. They've been giving the proverbial 110 per cent effort to get this far and they aren't ready to stop.

Can Victorians Do It Once More?

"But it's ridiculous," Taylor admits. "The more we get in the more we get over our heads."

Then he paused and grinned a little and you could imagine the thought forming: They've been doing it all year, why not once more?

Tonight's other semi-final matches David Thompson and Delbrook in a battle that should be all run and gun. That one goes at 9:15.

Thompson took Abbotsford 52-45 Thursday and Delbrook edged North Vancouver 35-29.

And in the afternoon consolation round, the Chemainus Timbermen (who were eliminated from the winner's bracket in their opener) clipped Kitimat 41-33; Prince George bombed Salmon Arm 71-46; Kamloops edged Queen Elizabeth 40-39, and North Surrey dumped Trail 48-35.

WIRTANEN LED THEM

Against Byng, the Bays started with their digging half-court press, then switched to man-to-man when the Ghosts began to penetrate to the corners. That slowed Byng down and the Bays began to hit enough to take a 21-20 half time lead on Don Burrows' 20-footer with seven seconds left.

In the third quarter it was one up, one down as they traded hoops. Then Taylor's ball control offence — with steady Dave Wirtanen feeding passes from the top of the key — gradually wore Byng down and the Bays went ahead 39-30 and then just hung on.

Wirtanen finished with 14 points. "He holds us together," Taylor said in admiration. Dave Morgan, who carries a heavy rebounding load, added 12 more and Burrows, the floor general, had 10.

Taylor will undoubtedly try to starve College from the ball tonight—and that is considered the only way to stop the Irish, unless you happen to be the Boston Celtics.

ALBERNI 'TIGHT'

Alberni was forced to run with College after stumbling to a 15-6 first quarter deficit. "We were tight," Alberni coach Jack Gilbert said later. And it showed.

Big Dan Bowen had a rough first half trying to handle College's lanky Bob Beaupre under the basket. But Bowen came back strong, finished with 14 points, and hustled on the boards. Brock Hilliard added 10.

Alberni lost guard Ken Waugh in the third quarter with a dislocated finger.

Chemainus never could get a good lead on Kitimat but the Timbermen just kept pecking away, giving a good team effort. Rod Francoeur threw in 11 and Bill Robinson, Chemainus' Mr. Versatility, hit for nine, passed precisely and even did a fine job rebounding.

OAK BAY (41)—Burrows 10, Wirtanen 14, McCormick 1, Wallace 2, Baines 2, Morgan 12.

ALBERNI (37)—Sander 6, Ferster 6, Waugh 1, Bowen 14, Hilliard 10.

CHEMAINUS (41)—Robinson 9, Plester 8, Waller 8, Harbo 5, Francoeur 11.

KITIMAT (33)—Hayes 9, Burnett 8, Walbergs 10, B. Mack 1, Campbell 5.

Ticket Demand Could Decide Steelers' Fate

By HAL MALONE

Victoria Steelers will have a new board of directors next week and, hopefully, a plan to try and sell 2,800 season tickets ranging tentatively from $2 to $4 over seven home games.

When the 2,800 are sold or pledged Steelers will take their place in the Golden West Football League, a western division of the Continental League.

If the quota isn't met, warned club president Ken Hole, Steelers will steal into the night.

"There are no and's, if's or but's about it," Hole told a meeting in the Red Lion Inn. "The proceeds from our quota are required to meet our budget of $76,000."

General manager Pat Frumento later said the team could "possibly" operate on a $55,000 budget. He was confident that the ticket sale quota could be met.

Hole admitted that the Steelers still have indebtedness from the 1966 season, their first. But he said revenue from 1967 ticket sales would be applied only to this year's operation. Carryover debts would be met by special promotions.

OFFICIALS OPTIMISTIC

Hole, Frumento and secretary-alderman Ian Stewart were enthusiastic about the future of the Steelers and the Golden West League.

Frumento said he had seen films of Continental League games and was "tremendously impressed" with the calibre of play.

He said the Steelers could expect player help from the Canadian Football League.

Hole said directors of the Golden West League agreed that balance among member teams was of the "utmost importance."

SEVEN HOME GAMES

"The objective is that on any given night, any given team can beat any given team. If one club is power-packed the league will do something about it."

Steelers would play seven home games in the rebuilt Royal Athletic Park. Games would be played Saturday night if lights can be installed in time. If not, said Frumento, twilight games will be scheduled, starting at 6:30 p.m.

Steelers will play in the northern division with Seattle, Portland and Eugene. The southern division will consist of Anaheim, San Jose, Sacramento and Phoenix. Winners of each division will playoff and the winner will meet the eastern division finalist for the Continental League championship.

TRAVEL POOL

Steelers have already paid $2,500 toward cost of league operations. Starting June 1 they must pay $1,000 a month up to a total of $6,500.

Each team must also post a $25,000 performance bond which becomes attachable when the season opens.

Frumento explained that the Steelers will benefit from a travel pool to which all members will contribute and from television revenue. The league has a three-year contract with the newly-formed Overmeier network.

The meeting to elect directors and implement the ticket sale campaign will be held in the Red Lion Thursday at 8 p.m.

WARREN HYNES

Toronto Is Silent On Aid for Leafs

Victoria Maple Leafs headed for Seattle this morning still hoping to acquire another defenceman as they struggle to bolster their slim grasp on fourth place in the Western Hockey League.

With Claude Labrosse sidelined with ribs injuries, manager Buck Houle was again trying Thursday to obtain the services of a defenceman until Labrosse is ready to step back into action.

He was attempting to persuade the parent Toronto Maple Leafs to send veteran Marc Reaume to Victoria from Tulsa Oilers of the Central League, but had not received a definite reply this morning.

GULLS IMPROVED

Leafs tackle the Totems tonight and return to Memorial Arena Saturday night for a game with the suddenly-tough San Diego Gulls, who have been greatly improved in the past two weeks.

Leafs took over fourth place here Wednesday from Oakland Seals as they staged an amazing finish for a 5-4 overtime victory over the Seals, now one point back.

DANGEROUS TRIO

Big danger for the Leafs here Saturday will be the San Diego threesome of Warren Hynes, Fred Hilts and Len Ronson.

Saturday's game starts at 8:30.

HULL, Que. (CP) — Doug Wankel, of Elbow, skipped his Saskatchewan rink to a first-place tie in the Canadian men's curling championship today, defeating Prince Edward Island 10-5 in the 10th round.

The victory gave the Saskatchewan rink an 8-1 record and a tie with skip Alf Phillips Jr. and his Ontario rink from Toronto.

Phillips led his rink against Prince Edward Island, which had a 3-6 record, and Saskatchewan met Manitoba (7-2) in the final round of the 11-rink, round-robin bonspiel at 2:30 p.m.

A victory by both would force a playoff at 7:30 p.m. tonight.

Alberta skipped by Ron Northcott of Calgary and Manitoba by Bruce Hudson of Winnipeg were both still in the running, however. Victories by both, combined with a loss by Ontario, would create a four-way tie at the top.

B.C. RINK OUT

Behind Alberta and Manitoba —both 7-2—was the British Columbia rink skipped by Buzz McGibney of Trail at 5-5 and out of the running.

Skip Bruce Beveridge of Montreal followed at 4-5, while rinks skipped by Ken MacDonald of Montague, P.E.I., and Ron Franklin of Halifax were in seventh place at 3-6.

Newfoundland's Len Kalichak of Goose Bay and Bill Grozelle of Haileybury, representing Northern Ontario, were 2-7 while New Brunswick trailed at 1-8.

In other final-round games today, Alberta went against Nova Scotia, Quebec played Newfoundland, New Brunswick played Northern Ontario.

MANITOBA WINS

In other 10th-round games today, Manitoba came out of a tight battle with Newfoundland with a 7-6 victory, Quebec defeated New Brunswick 12-10, Northern Ontario downed Nova Scotia 12-9, and Alberta defeated B.C. 12-8.

Saskatchewan had little difficulty downing the Maritimers. The Elbow rink scored double points on four ends, while holding the P.E.I. crew to five single point ends.

Newfoundland came close to eliminating Manitoba. The Goose Bay foursome led 5-2 after eight ends but lost three stones on the ninth. Kalichak took a single point on the 10th and gave up one on the 11th.

Hudson guarded his shot rock in the final end, however, and collected one more for the victory.

ALBERTA TOPPLED

The defending champions had been coasting along undefeated going into Thursday's round, but lost 7-5 to Saskatchewan in the eighth round and dropped an 8-7 extra-end decision to Ontario in the ninth round.

Ontario trounced Northern Ontario 10-5 in the first round of the day and Saskatchewan kept pace by defeating B.C. 8-4 in the ninth round.

The two games against Alberta were key ones and provided some of the most exciting curling of the week-long bonspiel.

GAMES' ADVANCE SALE A PLEASANT SURPRISE

MONTREAL (CP)—Jim Daly, executive director of the Pan-American Games, scheduled for Winnipeg in July, says that advance ticket sales for the Games have reached 200,000.

"Actually, the sale caught us by surprise. We only had 50,000 tickets printed up," Daly said.

Fewer Penalties, Good Netminding Trim Goal Totals

By The Canadian Press

Better netminding, fewer penalties and more injuries are three reasons for the small number of 20-goal scorers in the National Hockey League so far this season.

Last year at this point in the schedule 20 players had 20 goals or more. By the end of the season another eight players had joined the ranks, producing an NHL record.

This year 10 players have reached the 20-goal bracket and eight to 10 others might be able to boost their goal production to 20 by the end of the season.

"The goaltending is better this year than last year, for one thing," one NHL official said Thursday, referring to the 26 shutouts that have been registered this season compared to 26 for the full 70-game schedule last year.

CHANCES REDUCED

The official also said there had been an average of between two and three fewer penalties a game this year, reducing the scoring chances while a team holds a manpower advantage.

This is backed up by the fact that Chicago Black Hawks, bidding for their first NHL championship this season, set a record with 70 power-play goals last season while this year they have only 42 so far.

INJURIES KEY FACTOR

Injuries have also played a part in the reduction of 20-goal scorers. Not one Montreal Canadien player has appeared in all of the club's 59 games this season.

The Black Hawks lead the 20-goal scorers this season with four. Another two players might be able to add to their total by the end of the season.

Fifth - place Detroit Red Wings has three players—20 goal men—Norm Ullman and Bruce MacGregor with 23 each and veteran Gordie Howe with 20.

Rod Gilbert has 24 goals and Don Marshall has 20 to top New York's goal scorers, and Yvan Cournoyer is the lone member of the Canadiens in the bracket with 21 goals.

Neither Boston Bruins nor Toronto Maple Leafs have a 20-goal scorer so far this season.

The sharpshooters go into action Saturday night when the Hawks clash with the Canadiens in Montreal and the Rangers meet the Maple Leafs in Toronto.

On Sunday, Montreal is at New York, Toronto is at Chicago in an afternoon game and Detroit is at Boston.

Nationals Suffer First Tour Loss

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Sweden defeated Canada's national hockey team 4-2 Thursday to hand the Canadians their first loss in current European exhibition play.

Sweden led the Canadians 2-0 after the first period and 3-0 after the second.

Lindberg notched another in the second period and Karl Goeran scored the final Swedish goal at 13:35 of the third period.

Thursday's game was the third of seven exhibition matches scheduled for the Canadians. They tied their first game with the Czech Nationals 4-4 in Prague Sunday and defeated them 4-2 Tuesday.

In Geneva, the United States team scored its third straight victory in Switzerland when it defeated the Powerful Spartak team of Moscow 4-2.

Yank's Big Experiment Gets Impressive Start

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Great Experiment—Part I ranks as an unqualified success as far as New York Yankees and Mickey Mantle are concerned.

Today, the Cincinnati Reds and Pete Rose find out about the Big Switch.

Mantle made his debut as a first baseman Thursday as the Yankees outlasted Washington Senators 8-7 in a battle of American League also - rans. The longtime centre fielder handled nine chances flawlessly and made the best play of the game on the first ball hit his way.

That came on a hard smash between first and second by Bernie Allen in the first inning. Mantle dashed to his right, backhanded the ball almost nonchalantly, and flipped to pitcher Fritz Peterson for the putout.

PLAYS NATURALLY

"It wasn't as hard as I thought," Mantle said after playing four innings in the Grapefruit League's opening game. "I was more nervous at bat than in field. I didn't think about the plays, I just made them naturally."

The game was a home run battle settled by Chet Trail's two-run shot in the ninth inning.

The Reds, who were to meet Philadelphia in their opener today, will have Rose, one of the National League's top second basemen, playing left field.

Rose, who was involved in an abortive switch to third base last year, is on the move again this spring. He was unhappy with last spring's move and his play suffered before he moved back across the diamond.

McKECHNIE CUP PLAYOFFS . . . . . . START SATURDAY

Tide's Hopes Flow With Briggs

For the first time in some years, Dick Ellis will be "only an interested onlooker" at inter-city rugby's annual McKechnie Cup battles.

Because of the pressure of business, the Victoria lawyer-sportsman has declined to coach Victoria Crimson Tide. Instead, the strategical reins will be in Til Briggs' hands when B.C.'s top four sides launch their argument for the top rugby prize in B.C.

Semi-finals will be played Saturday. Tide, the Victoria Union's representative side, will play Vancouver Reps at Macdonald Park, starting at 2:30. On the mainland, well-regarded UBC Thunderbirds will open against Norwests, the pick of North and West Vancouver.

Briggs, who guided James Bay Athletic Association to the Rose Trophy and the Victoria first-division championship, will coach a Tide team that has been built around a JBAA nucleus.

Besides the coach, JBAA will be represented on the field by proven players such as Sonny Vickery, Ken Rosskelly, Mike and Don Eckhardt, Ed Kubek, Tom Bourne, Jerry Montgomery, Murray Halkett and Jim Ryan.

Oak Bay Wanderers, Cowichan and University Vikings will each supply two players.

Scrum half Gary Webster and centre Tom Browne were chosen from Cowichan. Fullback Don Burgess, perennial B.C. all-star, and hooker Lyn Patterson were drawn from Oak Bay, while Vikings' contribution will be centre Al Foster and winger Terry Ryan.

McIntosh Is 'Doubtful' As O'Keefes Seek Lead

TIME OUT By JEFF KEATE

"... And a great cry arose from the multitudes, and there was rejoicing in the land, for lo and behold they hadst witnessed a miracle ..."

Victoria O'Keefes are anxious to prove a point to Pacific Coast Soccer League fans on the Mainland, but they may have to do it without fullback Don McIntosh.

McIntosh was placed in the "doubtful starter" class as O'Keefes made ready for a Sunday match against New Westminster Royals, to be played in Vancouver's Callister Park.

McIntosh suffered a bruised kidney in last week's 4-1 victory over Burnaby Villa. He has experienced a stiffness in his back, but was "improving rapidly" in the past few days and felt confident he may be ready to play Sunday.

Beaten only once, O'Keefes could use a Sunday victory to move into first place. They trail Columbus by a single point, with two games in hand. Columbus will be idle this weekend.

"The boys are anxious to prove to mainland fans that they're a much better team than they showed on their last visit to Callister," said O'Keefe coach Frank Grealy. On that last visit, Victoria suffered a 2-0 loss — its first of the season — to UBC Thunderbirds.

"It was our poorest performance of the year, but the mainland fans seem to think that's how we'll play if we should represent the league in the Kennedy Cup tournament," Grealy added. "The team wants to prove otherwise ..."

O'Keefes Booster Club will again make arrangements for special excursion buses. Fans interested in attending the game are asked to contact Charlie Lewis at 384-2917.

JUNIORS HOST VILLA

UBC will play Firefighters on Saturday in the only other Coast League match scheduled this weekend.

A fight-for-second will feature District League play. Hourigan Kickers and Victoria West, tied for the runnerup spot behind pace-setting Canadian Scottish, will meet Saturday at Heywood Avenue Park.

University Vikings will face Luckies on the Uvic Campus while Tally-Ho and Red Lions tangle at Heywood in Sunday's first-division games.

All second-division teams are slated to see duty on Sunday. (See sports menu.)

With the seniors away, Victoria juniors will be the Pacific Coast Soccer League "draw" at home. They host Burnaby Villa at Carnarvon Park Sunday at 2 p.m.

BOWLER OF WEEK

Three years of trying has ended in success for Arlene Bell with winning of weekly award in Times Bowler-of-the-Week contest. Mrs. Bell captured women's tenpin award in 20th week of annual competition as she rolled 178-168-203—549 series in Peggy's Breakfast Club at Mayfair Lanes. She is now eligible to compete in Bowler-of-the-Year rolloffs.

Only 10 Putts On Back Nine

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Dean Refram hasn't had many big paydays in his six years as a golf professional, and the little guy with the bad eyes would really like to boost his bankroll by winning the Citrus Open.

A victory would give him $23,000 — nearly double his official career earnings as a golfer — and he's got a son now to spend it on.

The Reframs' first boy after two daughters was born 10 days ago, and the 5-foot-6 Floridian is prouder of the youngster than he was of his five-under-par 66 Thursday which gave him a share of the lead with Doug Sanders in the first round of the tournament.

Refram putts through his legs, like a croquet player, because his vision is bad on conventional putting methods, and he needed only 10 putts in a blazing 30 on the back nine for his best round of the year.

The fine start put Refram—who officially has won just over $30,000 since joining the pro tour in 1961—in position to make a strong bid for his first tournament championship.

However, Refram's putter wasn't as hot as that used by Sanders who used only 25 putts.

CLOSE PURSUIT

Sanders and Refram set the pace for 35 par-breaking golfers on the flat Rio Pinar course, with two feared rivals, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player, in close pursuit.

Palmer shot a 67 despite a bandaged thumb, and Player matched Palmer and could have shared the lead if he hadn't missed a five-foot par putt on his next to last hole.

BOXLA FILM AT ESQUIMALT

Lacrosse fans, players and coaches who missed the showing of an instructional film here last weekend will get another chance Sunday.

Esquimalt Lacrosse Association has arranged to show the film at Fraser Street Hall, starting at 2 p.m.

Ballots Give Vikings Vote of Confidence

All-Star ballots give University of Victoria Vikings a vote of confidence after earlier nomination as the team to beat in the Esquimalt Hockey League playoffs.

The league-winning Vikings, coached by Chick Little, placed four men on the first team and three on the second.

That factor, combined with their 4-3 victory over Stocker's North Americans last week, suggests Vikings could move into the league final tonight.

The league's best-of-three semi-finals resume at the Sports Centre with Armed Forces Combos meeting Tudor Monarchs at 7:45 and Uvic meeting Stocker's at 9:15.

Brian Whitten, Mike Woodley, Ted Sarkissian and goalie Ted Hurd were the Vikings to be signalled out for first all-star honors. Also on the first squad are Ken Maxwell of Combos and Tudor's Orv Coulter. Stocker's Doug Anderson was picked as the coach.

Jim Shkwaruk, Bill Rudyk and Glyn Harper of the University claimed second-team berths along with Ed Hastings, Ron Marshall and Steve Merriman, all of the second-place finishing Tudors.

Victoria Backs UBCM Protest

Victoria city council Thursday endorsed a telegram sent by the Union of British Columbia Municipalities demanding that Premier Bennett withdraw a statement accusing municipal governments of misusing government funds.

Ald. Ian Stewart said he felt the entire matter should be ignored.

"This has become a matter of charge and counter-charge," he said. "The public doesn't hold politicians in high regard because of their propensity for using wrong words."

He considered the matter a tempest in a teacup which is being used for political advantage.

Ald. Lloyd Clarkson also favored council ignoring the charges.

Aldermen Geoffrey Edgelow and Robert Baird both felt the premier had either used a wrong word or had made a mistake.

"I am sure there must have been some mistake somewhere," Ald. Edgelow said. "Either his tongue was in his cheek or he didn't realize what he was saying. He's far too smart a man to say anything like that and really mean it."

Ald. Baird said he felt too much is being made over one word.

Ald. Hugh Ramsay said it might have been a statement made in the heat of a political battle but such behavior isn't good enough.

HOUSING OUTPRICED ITSELF

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Canadian housing expert said Thursday that prices of houses in Canada have increased so much in the past 18 months that most Canadians no longer can afford to buy them.

D. B. Mansur, former president of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation and now president of Kinross Mortgage Co. of Toronto, said there is no city in Canada today with a public housing stock of 10 per cent of what is needed.

Mr. Mansur told a housing conference sponsored by the University of B.C. that it takes income of $8,200 in Toronto for a person to purchase a house.

Dr. Albert Rose, director of the Ontario Housing Corp., said provision of public housing in Canada has become a "national disgrace."

"Society is concerned about providing clothing and food for the needy but not housing," he said. "Housing has out-priced itself for most families."

Vancouver realtor Arthur Block said the biggest need today is for housing for people earning $6,000 a year or less.

He said public agencies must take the initiative for providing housing.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said the government subsidized housing will be bungled unless Lower Mainland municipalities join together to form a regional housing authority.

Mr. Campbell said municipalities cannot solve their housing needs on an individual basis.

ALL ESCAPERS TUCKED SAFELY BACK IN JAIL

Shot Answered Knock

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three escapees were back in their cells at Oakalla prison farm in suburban Burnaby today, after a "big-time" breakout Thursday that featured a high-speed car chase, shooting, hostages, and a newspaper reporter who served as an intermediary.

Nobody was hurt.

Forced to flee on foot after using two stolen cars and a truck, two of the escapees surrendered without a struggle in South Vancouver, about two hours after the breakout. The third held a mother and two of her nine children hostage for almost three hours before giving up.

The day's events began shortly before 9 a.m. when three prisoners overpowered an instructor at knifepoint in the upholstery shop of the minimum security prison.

They disarmed an officer who rushed in to help, jumped into a nearby prison truck and crashed to freedom through the rear gates. The truck was abandoned near the prison and another car stolen at gunpoint.

Inspector Alf Simons of the Vancouver city police said his department first heard of the escapees when they were spotted about five miles into Vancouver, getting into a second car.

Motorcycle policemen Don McRae and Phil Potts picked up the chase minutes later in South Vancouver and tailed the car through a maze of side streets until it was abandoned. Shots were exchanged during the chase.

Constable Potts said two of the escapees were picked up almost immediately. One was found sitting on the back porch of a nearby house, the other hiding inside a house.

Meanwhile, the third escapee had burst into the home of Mrs. Victor Weber, gun in hand. Her elder daughter, Kathy, 18, and her youngest, Leanne, 2, were with her. The other children were at school.

While an armed force of about 60 men — city police, Oakalla guards and RCMP—and two police dogs searched the area, Mrs. Weber and Kathy sat in their living room and sewed, as the gunman alternately sat or stalked about nearby.

"I was surprised at how polite he was," Mrs. Weber said later.

Paul Weber, 16, returned from school for lunch, with the intruder holding Kathy at gunpoit in an upstairs bedroom. Mrs. Weber turned on the tap at the kitchen sink and whispered to Paul, telling him to eat his lunch normally and then go out and call the police.

POLICE RETREAT

Constables Ronald Foyle and Len Galbraith were first at the scene. They knocked on the door, pushed it open—and were driven back by a shot from inside. Constable Foyle said he got off one answering shot as he leaped from the porch.

The house soon was surrounded by armed police, with tear gas ready.

"The man said he was willing to give himself up but was afraid to show himself," Mrs. Weber said. "Then he decided to call a newspaper, to have a reporter come up to the house to guarantee that he wouldn't be shot."

Vancouver Sun reporter Jes Odam was sent to the scene and climbed the steps to within a few yards of the screened front door. While police and a crowd of several hundred onlookers watched anxiously, the man handed his gun to Kathy Weber and walked out behind her to surrender.

Police identified the three escapees as:

Brian G. West, 17, serving 38 months for theft over $50, escaping custody and possession of stolen property; Theodore Turner, 23, serving two years less a day on two charges of possessing stolen property; David John Bird, 19, serving 28 months for two thefts over $50 and for escaping lawful custody.

Marijuana Less Danger Than Drink?

EDMONTON (CP)—Earle Birney, a resident writer at the University of Toronto, told a group of Canadian university students here that he advocates smoking marijuana.

"I do it because I think the law is wrong," he told a discussion group at Second Century Week, which has attracted students from across Canada.

Mr. Birney said he also would like to see restrictions on tobacco smoking. Tobacco was dangerous, but marijuana was non-addictive and not as harmful as alcohol.

"As a writer, I feel I have a right within myself to explore myself in any way I want, as long as I hurt no one else."

Dief's Query On Funeral Irks Pearson

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Thursday the Queen was properly represented at the funeral of Governor-General Vanier by the acting Governor-General, Chief Justice Robert Taschereau.

Nettled by a Commons question on the subject by Conservative Leader Diefenbaker, Mr. Pearson said this was the proper constitutional course.

Mr. Diefenbaker had asked Mr. Pearson, just back from the Governor-General's burial in Quebec City, whether he had asked the Queen to be represented at the funeral. Was there communication with the British government?

The opposition leader said there were press reports about lack of an overseas representative of the Queen at the funeral.

Mr. Pearson said he did not know whether the question itself was proper and he regretted having to report on it at this time of mourning.

MADE AN APPROACH

The prime minister said he had been in touch with Buckingham Palace after Gen. Vanier died Sunday. It was up to the British government to decide how to be represented and it was represented.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the prime minister had done as he asked, clarifying the situation.

Ottawa to Blame For Losing 'War'

A Liberal MLA Thursday criticized the federal government for not moving against the danger posed by smoking.

"We're still losing the war on smoking," Dr. Pat McGeer (L—Vancouver-Point Grey) told the legislature during debate on health department estimates.

"I place the majority —of the blame on the federal government," Dr. McGeer said. "The federal government isn't fulfilling its obligations, particularly to the teen-agers."

Diseases related to smoking kill more British Columbians each year than are killed on B.C. highways, he said. And more B.C. residents are killed each year on highways than lost their lives in the Second World War.

He credited the provincial government for banning cigarette advertising on B.C. Hydro buses and proclaiming a Non-Smokers' Day in B.C.

Dr. McGeer called for more measures to prevent teen-agers from taking up the habit.

"If we get them past 16 years there's a very good chance they'll reject it the rest of their lives," he said.

Premier Bennett said education isn't a solution. It was force of habit which victimized even "men in public life, brilliant men, I can't understand it.

"If a person doesn't have the moral standards against smoking and drinking and other vices all the education in the world won't do any good."

Federal Legislation Urged on Juveniles

EDMONTON (CP)—An Alberta royal commission on juvenile delinquency has recommended new federal legislation dealing with juveniles, and a uniform age for designating juveniles.

The commission report was tabled Thursday in the legislature. Members of the commission were Calgary Magistrate Frank Quigley, Dr. Jean Nelson of Edmonton, and Calgary Albertan Columnist Fred Kennedy.

The report recommends that the province, in co-operation with other provincial governments, press the federal government to replace the present juvenile delinquents act with new legislation covering only the liability of juveniles at criminal law.

But until such legislation becomes reality, the report says some immediate steps should be taken.

One would make anyone under 17 years of age a juvenile. Present age limits in Alberta are 16 for boys and 18 for girls. (In B.C. it is 18 for boys and girls.)

Another would leave investigation of juvenile crime to members of juvenile squads of law enforcement bodies and would have all charges against juvenile offenders processed through a crown prosecutor assigned exclusively to juvenile court.

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI)—The adopted son of an American millionaire Thursday married the family chauffeur's daughter in a simple church service that cost him his inheritance. Brazil Diplomat Dies

RIO de JANEIRO (Reuters) — Lourival Fontes, former Brazilian ambassador to Canada and Mexico, died here Monday night of a lung ailment. The 68-year-old diplomat was once one of the most powerful men in Brazil. During the 15-year dictatorship of the late Gitulio Vargas, Fontes was head of the press and propaganda department, responsible for press censorship.

Careless Driver

Timothy G. Veres, 2008 Runnymede, was fined $35 in traffic court Thursday when sentenced for careless driving.

No Charge If Private Ward Needed

Patients should not be charged more for private or semi-private hospital wards if such wards are needed for their treatment, Health Minister Black said Thursday.

He made the statement in the legislature during debate on health department estimates in reply to Leo Nimsick (NDP—Kootenay) who said that the Kimberley Hospital repeatedly billed patients excessively for such wards.

"They're carrying out a policy of charging everybody for private or semi-private rooms," Mr. Nimsick said.

Mr. Black said, "I'd just have to go after them on that basis."

Opposition Leader Strachan said the problem isn't confined to Kimberley.

"There's increasing numbers of these complaints coming in," Mr. Strachan said.

Under the B.C. Hospital Insurance service no charge above the normal dollar-a-day should be made for such private or semi-private facilities if those facilities are required as part of the treatment or recovery, Mr. Black said. The physician who desires private or semi-private facilities for his patient must give the hospital an adequate reason.

"He can't just arbitrarily say that patient A gets a private room and give no reason at all," the minister said.

3-YEAR-OLD REPORT

Good Blueprint On Delinquency Ready, Waiting

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Preferred reading (or re-reading as the case may be) for a soon-to-be-established municipal "royal commission" that will study growing problems of juvenile delinquency in Greater Victoria should be a report made three years ago by a committee of the Community Welfare Council.

Forbes

This committee, established in 1963, reviewed the delinquency situation in Greater Victoria and the services and facilities available for prevention, control and treatment. It consulted various professional and lay community leaders to get their informed opinions and advice. Then it made recommendations for community, provincial or council action as deemed advisable.

* * *

The report, issued in 1964, was lauded in the press and by public groups. It was studied and discussed by organizations interested in youth problems. It was sent out on request to other cities and towns.

A couple of its recommendations (removal of Family and Children's Court from a basement to its present quarters was one) were implemented.

Then, to all intents and purposes, it was tucked away in various files around the city and left to gather dust.

* * *

Yet, right now, if this report was taken out of those files and updated statistically, it would make a perfect blueprint from which to judge the merits of any recommendations and suggestions sent in to a municipal "royal commission" when it gets down to studying juvenile delinquency problems.

Introduction to the report, signed by D. H. Nelson, chairman of the study committee, made it clear that "juvenile delinquency is a most complex problem for which there is no easy solution and which is interwoven with other social problems and, in fact, with the whole social fabric of the community."

In its major conclusions (this remember was more than three years ago) it stressed:

1. That the problem of juvenile delinquency in Greater Victoria was serious enough to warrant community-wide concern and immediate action.

2. That the system of juvenile delinquency control and correction was not functioning adequately and that provincial and municipal authorities responsible for the system had not provided the leadership, finances, staff or physical facilities necessary to enable the system to do a proper job.

3. That there was a need for a more active and coordinated community approach to the prevention of juvenile delinquency.

* * *

The study committee concluded that there was no simple answer to the prevention of juvenile delinquency and that no one was certain of all the causes.

It was also aware that it was highly unlikely that delinquency could ever be entirely eradicated.

Nevertheless this committee was convinced that "an aroused community, truly concerned about the welfare of its children and its youth and about the welfare and protection of the community as a whole," could do much to reduce the incidence and seriousness of juvenile anti-social behaviour.

It went even further and said that "it is possible the world of the delinquent" might be a more appropriate target than "the delinquent himself" and that it might well require "a major change in many of the attitudes of the community's adult population and altering of some of the community's basic institutions."

The president of Community Welfare Council said recently that without the support of elected representatives (gathered together in a municipal "royal commission") there is little chance of an adequate program being implemented.

If so, then with all due respect, may I suggest that the program is ready and waiting in the report of the juvenile delinquency study committee, 1963-64.

Safety Before Trees

Four trees which have long been a traffic hazard on Rockland Avenue soon will get the chop.

Victoria city council agreed Thursday the trees, beautiful though they may be, had to go to make the street safe for motorists.

"I have been out to look at them and they should be removed," said Ald. Robert Baird.

Ald. Baird gave him a simple answer.

'Build Apartments, Keep Trees'

Extend the apartment zones, but keep the oak trees, that's the advice of Oak Bay planner G. O. White.

In his annual report Mr. White suggested that orderly renewal of residential property in the older sections of the municipality could be assured by compact development of extended apartment zones. At the same time, the residential character of Oak Bay could be preserved by keeping as many oak trees as possible.

He said construction of more apartments would provide more money in taxes which is essential for improvements, replacement and modernization of services.

He points out that in the past three years only one apartment building, a 24-suite block, has been erected in Oak Bay while in the surrounding area 200 suites a year have been built.

There has been considerable interest in Oak Bay by developers but the regulation calling for all concrete construction has made them hold back because this adds 15 to 20 per cent to the cost and this cannot be recovered by increasing rents.

One attractive scheme for the waterfront was allowed to die because of problems caused by setbacks which are greater in Oak Bay than in adjoining municipalities.

The planner referred to his report of 18 months ago in which he suggested that the first area to be rezoned for apartments should be that bounded by Oak Bay Avenue, Foul Bay Road, Cadboro Bay Road, the junior high school and Elgin Road.

In the same paragraph he said that the report now being prepared by the Capital Region Planning Board will contain much advice on the subject of locating apartment districts.

Park to Open May 1

No specific plans have been made for special opening ceremonies but Ald. Robert Baird wants it to be a whoop-de-do befitting the occasion.

"We should be planning for the opening ceremonies," he said. "This is going to be a big thing in the city and the people should be getting a little excited about it."

Ald. Lloyd Clarkson, chairman of the city's entertainment committee, was asked to take the matter under advisement.

THE QUILLER MEMORANDUM

Berlin Spy Drama

Coronet Theatre

Berlin is fast becoming the happy hunting ground for secret-service agents.

While Michael Caine is fighting for his life in Funeral in Berlin. George Segal is busy tracking neo-Nazis in the Berlin of Quiller Memorandum—and both are effective in different ways.

Caine is tautly professional; Segal is less flamboyant and rather more deductive in his operations. Both, it seems, are highly rated in the ever-growing gallery of moviedom's spy detectives.

Surprisingly, Segal is a British agent named Quiller who speaks with a decidedly Brooklyn accent. But almost anything is possible these days and accents have little to do with digging up underground fascist movements.

* * *

Dispatched hot-haste from London to Berlin, Segal is met by none other than Sir Alec Guinness, a senior intelligence agent, who warns him, in sepulchral tones that the fascist underground in Germany is spreading like 'flu.

Segal sets out to capture the fascist high command, but with the help of an attractive under-cover operative (Senta Berger), the high command gets him first.

He is caught offguard with a scratch from a doped needle (hidden in a suitcase) and spirited away to a Nazi stronghold under a bomb-shattered mansion.

Max von Sydow, the distinguished Swedish actor, turns up unexpectedly as leader of the underground Nazi movement and proceeds to question Segal with the aid of various drugs.

The action goes into high gear with Segal's sudden release from captivity—a trick to enable the Nazis to follow him back to his control point.

Nimble as an alley cat, Segal eludes his pursuers with a succession of ingenious dodges but is later lured into a high-explosive trap.

* * *

The screen play by Harold Pinter, one of Britain's best-known playwrights, is based on Adam Hall's successful thriller about neo-Nazism in contemporary Germany.

There is more than a suggestion that most Germans are Nazis at heart and in this regard the story is questionable. But it holds interest most of the time and the fast-moving sequences are aided by competent acting and some very mobile color photography.

Horses Die In Fire

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Fire swept through the Miami police department stables Wednesday, killing 11 horses that stampeded in terror as the flames engulfed them. Police said a watchman at the stables had resigned recently and his successor was not due to start work until Thursday.

Two-Year Course For Nursing Introduced

A bill to clear the way for the first two-year nursing training courses in the province was introduced in the legislature Thursday.

It would permit regional colleges and technology institutes to offer two-year courses for registered nurses.

Graduates of academic-technical programs in secondary schools could enrol in the courses which would be set up with standards recommended by the B.C. Registered Nurses' Association.

At present, nursing trainees must be 18 years old and have a university entrance requirement and can only enrol in three-year courses in hospital schools or a five-year course at the University of B.C.

'Crude Map' Showed Layout Of Two Stores

A man who was found hiding at the rear of a city grocery store just before midnight Wednesday pleaded guilty Thursday in central court to a charge of attempted breaking and entering.

City Const. Kenneth Horsman told court Albert Le Bleu had cut a hole in the rear door of the premises of Sam Kee and Son, 143 Moss, when found at 11:50 p.m.

Le Bleu told police he had arrived in Victoria from Winnipeg last Sunday and was unemployed.

Magistrate J. A. Byers remanded him to Mar. 16 for a pre-sentence report.

Another Mountain For Phil to Tame

By JOHN MIKA
Legislative Reporter

A shift in the power centres of the national Social Credit party is clearly in progress and it's heading this way from the prairies.

Mika

Herbert Bruch, the Esquimalt MLA, now has filled the No. 2 spot in the federal party as president succeeding Martin Kelln of Regina.

There's little doubt that Premier Bennett could have the job if he wanted it but he doesn't want it, being a realist. There's some doubt that Alberta Premier Manning could get the job if Premier Bennett wanted to deny it to him.

Mr. Bennett is not enamored of Mr. Manning so it's quite possible he would block the latter's incipient ambtions to enter the federal field just as 1½ years ago he shattered the Albertan's efforts to launch a new federal right-wing party at the national Social Credit convention.

•

But the situation now confronting Social Credit coud be substantially transformed from one of peril to one of opportunity if a flamboyant and nationally-known figure could succeed the colorless Mr. Thompson.

There's little doubt that the 54-year-old "flying Phil" could grab a great deal more public attention than the man who never was able to shake off Mr. Bennett's "what's his name?" appellation.

Mr. Gaglardi and Mr. Manning are both fundamentalist preachers and Socred politicians who get along well, according to the reports.

As a result, Mr. Gaglardi could bridge the differences between the Alberta and B.C. premiers. He could obtain full-hearted support from both as a team which would give him a powerful sectional thrust that always was denied to Mr. Thompson and which led to his ultimate downfall.

•

With that kind of a jumping off base, the possibility of a reconciliation with the Creditistes or developing a new Quebec wing would be greatly enhanced.

But Mr. Gaglardi has another attraction to the party as national leader—he definitely is the favored bet in any electoral rematch with Davie Fulton in Kamloops.

And if, by any unlikely chance, Mr. Fulton should be chosen by the Progressive Conservatives as their national leader, it doesn't take much imagination to appreciate the impact of Mr. Gaglardi would have on the entire country if he crushed a Tory leader at the polls.

In almost one stroke, he would have smashed the Conservatives, whose standing in the opinion polls is steadily plunging as it is, and established the Socreds as their political heirs, in the public mind.

For anyone who doubts Mr. Gaglardi's ability to trounce Mr. Fultion, a look at some voting facts should change their mind. He beat him in the provincial election three years ago; in the five federal ridings surrounding Kamloops 38,049 voters went Socred to elect three of that party and only 26,660 voted PC to elect on Tory in 1965.

In Kamloops federal constituency itself, Mr. Fulton won re-election after his humiliation in the provincial contest but with a considerably reduced majority of 4,594 votes compared with those of 5,523 and 10,990 in his two previous federal victories.

The B.C. highways minister might very well lead the Socreds back and even beyond the point they had reached in 1962 when they grabbed 30 seats with the help of Real Caouette to become a major threat on the federal scene.

It is entirely possible that with time he could carry the party from its present national obscurity to the seats of official opposition—especially if he should meet and dispose of Mr. Fulton as PC leader.

Before age caught up with him, he could well leave the party in a position to make a serious effort to form a national government.

Does he want the job? He isn't saying but it has become evident that he is restless in the provincial field now that there are no great achievements like the Rogers Pass and the Deas Island Tunnel left for him to attempt.

This session, somewhat bitterly, he complained in the legislature that his highways budget now depended upon the "scraps" that could be spared from education and health expenditures and fondly recalled the days when he was given the job of taming mountains to make the party machine roll over the political opposition with visible works.

Mr Gaglardi is not happy in his new-found status of being part of The Establishment, with all its demands for safe decorum, and he longs for the free-wheeling possible when building a party image instead of sheltering under it.

Although he's too astute to broadcast the fact too loudly too soon, Mr. Gaglardi's ready for a jump into the federal field. It would be several months before any overt moves are made.

•

Mr. Bennett is a man who demands and gives intense loyalty—as one would expect from a political "loner" who has come in from the friendless wilderness—and he has an almost morbid fear of letting any cabinet minister leave his government lest it feel as though his secure phalanx was breaking up.

He has always reacted emotionally to the defeat of one of his ministers and when Eric Martin was too sick to carry on as health minister, it took more than a year and two certificates from doctors that the job was killing him before Mr. Bennett could bear to give his assent to the resignation.

GAGLARDI
. . . ready for jump

But the pressures, both internal and external, that will begin developing may very well persuade him to give his okay, however reluctantly, to Mr. Gaglardi's entry into the federal arena.

And he could always console himself with the thought that the vacancy would enable him to placate some of the growing frustration among his backbenchers who feel the three women portfolio holders have closed all remaining avenues into an already top-heavy cabinet.

War Amputee Given Time To Fix Place

Victoria council Thursday delayed for at least six months a demolition order which would have deprived a war amputee of his hobby.

Council made its decision after listening to a plea for an extension of time from J. C. Dawson, secretary-treasurer of the War Amputees Society of Canada.

Mr. Dawson was making the appeal on behalf of Ronald Dean who owns a ramshackle greenhouse at 1780 Lillian.

"If you take this greenhouse away from him, you take away his only reason for living," Mr. Dawson said. "It will take some time to get it into shape, but I think he will do it. It is the only property he owns in Canada and as he is living on various pensions amounting to $140 a month and does not have much money."

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow moved that the war veteran who lost a leg in Europe and spent five years in a prisoner of war camp be granted 180 days to bring the greenhouse up to reasonable standards.

Ald. Lily Wilson said the fact that Mr. Dean was no longer living in the greenhouse was "half the battle."

LBJ Plans Viet Meet 'Somewhere in Pacific'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says he'll take part in a Vietnam strategy conference later this month, "in the Pacific area somewhere."

Johnson told a press conference Thursday that he would be meeting in the next few weeks with Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador in Saigon, and Gen. William Westmoreland, the American commander in Vietnam. But he wouldn't specify the site except as being "in the Pacific area."

The President also announced he is asking Congress to restore immediately the seven-per-cent tax credit which business had been claiming until last Oct. 10 on new investments in plant and equipment.

He persuaded Congress to suspend the tax credit last fall because of inflationary pressures. This time he acted because the economy has been sagging a bit and seems in need of a shot in the arm.

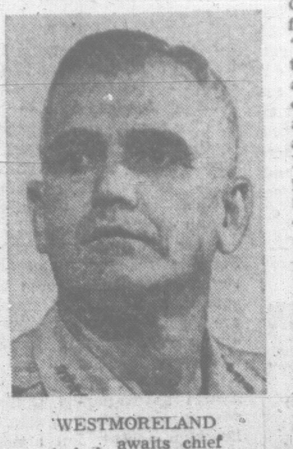
RETAINS SURCHARGE

He said his move did not mean he had abandoned a proposed six-per-cent income tax surcharge, which he asked Congress to approve effective July 1.

Johnson's announcements of his plans to travel to meet with Lodge and Westmoreland came after he was asked about reports Lodge plans to resign.

On other topics, Johnson said:

—The government is hopeful that despite January's tragedy aboard an Apollo spacecraft that killed three astronauts, the U.S. will be able to meet its goal of landing men on the moon by 1970.



WESTMORELAND
. . . awaits chief

—Regarding subsidies by the Central Intelligence Agency for students and other groups: "I regret very much some of the intemperate statements and some of the severe criticisms that have been made about various government agencies including the Central Intelligence Agency." He expects a report on all CIA activities later this month.

—He asked the justice department to seek an 80-day court injunction against a four-month-long strike by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers against 13 West Coast shipyards. Defence Secretary Robert McNamara has said the walkout is hampering the Vietnam war effort.

—He believes the Soviet Union wants peace and that the United States and Russia have been able to find areas of mutual agreement despite the Vietnam war.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Arthur Mayse

Now that there seems scant chance of winter clobbering timid spring, I am forced to admit that my rating as a weather prophet has dropped several notches lower.

In this corner a few months ago, I predicted a tough one, with plenty of cold and snow, and offered as evidence the extra-thick coats on various furred creatures.

Now, with early daffodils blooming and power mowers churning, hindsight reveals that those thick pelts were merely to shed the rain, of which no one can deny we were blessed with far more than our usual share.

Still, just for a few minutes early Thursday morning, the snow did come sifting down, a reminder that March can be treacherous.

The driveway blacktop was bare before the first out-bound car trailed its vapor-plume up to the road. Below on the beach trail, a thin white coating lingered.

Considering that the snow had lain there for no more than an hour or two, it had picked up a startling number of tracks. A pheasant had strutted it, also a large raccoon who was probably the winner in the territorial dispute I told you about a while ago.

We kept an eye out for signs of a meeting—a scuffed patch—feathers scattered about. But there were only the tracks, along with those of mouse, shrew and a larger print dainty enough for a squirrel.

★

We added our own tracks, and Lancer the Lab his. Down there, the new leaves of the wiry shrub we know as snowberry had unfurled enough to show central rib and veining. Some maple buds had also burst, and the wild cherries were flaunting their leaf-ringed blossoms. The alders were still playing at winter. Break a tight-furled leaf-bud, however, and the green showed plain.

It's a good time of the spring, this at the beginning, and the only one in which the annual drama of the seasonal change is unblurred.

Let the leafing-out swell from trickle to torrent, and the year seems to move in one smooth, unbroken flow, with no sharply-defined transitions to mark the advent of summer.

Above, where the earth-moving machines will soon be ripping out yet another tidy new subdivision, the work-day is tapping an impatient toe. But we refuse to be rushed through the one cigarette we truly enjoy, and let coal approach filter at an unhurried rate.

We talk about whatever comes to mind; but not loudly, since even these capsule woods impose a certain quiet. It is not the quiet of the wilderness, which the strayed, unaclimatized city man finds so terrible.

That is absolute. This is lighter, and gentler.

★

My wife and I are people of our century and our society, and since both suit us reasonably well are perhaps less inclined to question than we should be.

But down where the wild strip thins above the cove, we do sometimes attempt to puzzle out certain mysteries and contradictions.

It is right that Canadian young people should be warned away from LSD. But where's the morality when this same potential mind-crippler could be used as an agent of chemical warfare against boys and girls, men and women, of other populations?

Down south from whence our blessings flow, and where the car is adored with a zest that few of man's dieties can command, the car-bashing tournament is one of the more popular spectator sports. This deliberate breaking of idols is a syndrome . . . but what ill of the spirit lies behind it?

The woods have no answers for such questions as these. All they can offer is a sort of kindness. The answers—if such there are—lie in the world above, where the bulldozers of progress will soon be toppling trees that once bore good apples.

TWO graduate students from Victoria are doing research on X-ray crystallography—a highly-specialized field of chemistry—at the University of British Columbia. They are Ph.D. students Mrs. Carolyn Williston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McCammon, 1032 Craigdarroch, and daughter-in-law of forests minister Ray Williston; and Simon Whitlow, son of Christ Church Cathedral Dean and Mrs. Brian Whitlow. They are seen with Prof. James Trotter (left) examining part of the $70,000 worth of new research equipment he has just installed at the university.

Legal Argument Concluded In Police Promotion Fight

But B. W. Dysart, chairman of the three-man arbitration board investigating charges that the promotion was made in an unfair manner, says the board's written decision will not be ready for some time.

The three-day hearing had testimony from Constable Lorne Shandley, the policeman charging he was deliberately overlooked on the promotion list, and from senior police officers who claimed that normal procedure was followed.

POST AS SERGEANT

Lawyer Dermod Owen-Flood, representing Constable Shandley and the policemen's union, asked the board to order his client to be posted as sergeant or to declare all recent promotions illegal.

Mr. Owen-Flood said Chief J. F. Gregory and the police commission had clearly violated the existing union agreement in their promotion of four men to sergeant.

He said the chief and the commission had failed to "give proper weight" to Constable Shandley's 21 years on the city force.

"Promotions, so the union agreement states, are made on ability, merit, and all things being equal, seniority," he said.

ILLEGAL PROCEDURE

He said the little weight given seniority by the chief and the commission, constituted an illegal procedure and "was a unilateral act by the commission—the union was not consulted."

Police promotions are made on a points system with seniority worth 20 points out of 100.

Mr. Owen-Flood said of general promotion procedure "even King Solomon in all his glorious array would have failed the standards" set for promotion.

UNJUSTIFIED

He termed "not justified" the chief's statement that one reason for Constable Shandley's rejection was his lengthy sick leaves.

He called the sick leave "lawful."

"Is a man to be penalized for being sick and having to exercise his rights as an employee?"

Mr. Owen-Flood answered that even in the matter of health the chief and the commission had ignored and violated its own procedures.

"The official procedure states that before a promotion is made the candidates submit to a medical examination," he said. "There is no evidence that anyone in this case was given that examination.

"The commission needed a doctor's opinion but they got the chief's decision and I think even the chief will agree that he is not a doctor."

Advocate for the commission and Chief Gregory, E. E. Pearlman, last to address the board, said he could see no evidence that there had been a violation of the union agreement in "any shape or form".

He said the proceedings were confined to answering two questions: "Was the failure of the commission to promote Constable Shandley to a sergeant a violation of the collective agreement?" and "was the promotion procedure of the police commission promoting (another man) over Constable Shandley in violation of the agreement?"

"I would remind the board that the onus of establishing there had been violations rest on the union and Constable Shandley," said Mr. Pearlman.

He submitted that the promotion procedures as followed by the commission were "entirely complementary to, or in aid of, the agreement.

"And I would emphasize that

NO MISLEADING BY POLICE CHIEF

In the report in Thursday's Times on the police arbitration hearing it was stated a question had been raised by one of the board members as to whether or not the police commission had been misled by Police Chief John Gregory in his recommendation for a promotion to sergeant over the head of the complainant, Constable Lorne Shandley.

Police commissioner Gordon Carter replied to this by explaining that the commission, in its deliberations, appeared to be aware of the qualifications of the candidates and relied on the chief's recommendations.

By implication his answer refuted the suggestion that the police commission had been misled by the chief, but the Times report of the exchange between the board member, C. R. Maclean, and Mr. Carter did not make this clear.

The Times regrets if its report has cast any reflection on the integrity or reputation of the Chief of Police and tenders him an apology if any such interpretation is placed on the report.

He Fared Badly On City Farewell

A youth who tore plumbing fixtures from the wall of a downtown hotel washroom early today, was fined $25 for wilful damage when he appeared in central court.

Rudolph Sandness, 19, of Canadian Forces Base, Esquimalt, was also ordered to pay the $25 damage he caused. He pleaded guilty.

SHE'LL BE A WONDERLAND

$500,000 Facelift For Old Navy Ship

When the former repair ship Miggs next puts to sea it will be the only vessel of its kind on the west coast.

What's more it will boast a new name—the Marine Wonderland.

FOOT OF FORT

During the next few months, the Miggs will be tied up at a wharf at the foot of Fort St.

When the job is complete she will have a 500-seat undersea auditorium, a plush restaurant-cum-dance floor and an assortment of aquariums.

Bought for $60,000 by a group of Victoria businessmen, headed by lawyer David Hummel, she will be towed to Fisherman's Wharf, San Francisco.

There, she will go into business as the marine equivalent of Disneyland.

Workers set to with blow torches and hammers today on the conversion job.

COMPLETE CHANGE

Although Miggs will outwardly remain the same, her inside will be changed completely.

Biggest job will be the installation of the large auditorium.

When finished, visitors will be able to sit on two sides of the aquarium and watch live shows put on by porpoises and a killer whale.

On deck will be a seal pond while smaller aquariums will be scattered about the ship's 289-foot length.

In addition to the restaurant, there will be a family-type cafeteria.

Said one of the principals of the project, marine architectural and engineering consultant John Case: "We are exporting Victoria's main industry, which is tourism."

The company operating the Marine Wonderland will be called Seaview Enterprises Ltd.

Three Sites Chosen For Convention Hall

Special Committee Lists Alternatives

City council will be asked to choose one.

The three:

- A city block bounded by Cormorant, Fisgard, Store and Government Streets.
- Land adjacent to Memorial Arena.
- Property next to the Crystal Garden which would include the CPR laundry, a bus repair depot and bowling green.

It was also disclosed at the meeting that private capital is interested in developing a convention centre.

"Several syndicates are working on plans for developments including hotel and convention centre," said Clyde Savage, chairman.

LEASE PLAN

In each instance, he explained, the city could lease and operate the convention centre in these complexes.

"These plans will be before us within a few weeks and I would ask the city council at that time to meet and discuss them with interested parties," he said.

Mr. Savage favored the Crystal Garden area over the two other sites.

"These are properties owned by the city in this vicinity, and as hotel accommodation is adequate nearby and also close to shopping, museum and legislative buildings, this location is highly recommended.

He felt that property in this area not owned by the city could be fairly easily acquired.

But the committee was not unanimous.

Nick North, manager of the Imperial Hotel, said he didn't see "everything has to hang on the Empress Hotel."

OBLIGATED

"If land is made easily available for the convention centre, is this going to obligate us to the CPR?" he said. "If it is, I have to resist."

Mr. North favored the Cormorant - Government Streets site.

"It is ideally situated near the civic centre and stores," he said. Parking facilities could be installed underground."

Mr Savage agreed with Mr. North's choice, but said the property is too expensive.

Court Suspends Youth's Sentence For Car Theft

A Port Alberni boy who stole a car from a city lot a month ago was given a suspended sentence today.

Magistrate Byers ordered Lawrence Caharel, 18, to return to live with his father and take any medical treatment that is arranged for him.

The youth turned himself in to Port Alberni RCMP officers after he and a companion took the car from Telmac Motormarket Ltd., 848 Fort St., Feb. 9, and abandoned it after driving to Port Alberni.

ROADBLOCKS SET TONIGHT

City police will operate road safety checks again tonight.

Two crews of 10 men each will set up the roadblocks at several locations about Victoria between 6 p.m. and 2 a.m. Saturday.

Equipment Fund Launched At Jubilee

A new organization to raise funds to provide equipment for the Royal Jubilee Hospital was launched this morning.

George Masters, administrator of Jubilee, will resign his hospital position to head the Royal Jubilee Development Fund.

Municipal leaders welcomed the new organization and said it should fill a vital need in the health services required in Greater Victoria.

Any funds raised will be used for equipment purchases only.

A. C. Wurtele, chairman of the hospital board, told a press conference that none of the money raised by public donation would be used for construction purposes.

NOT KEEPING PACE

"We have been disturbed for quite a few years that we were not keeping pace with our equipment requirements," he said. "This newly formed society marks a great step forward."

In a prepared press release Mr. Wurtele said the society has been formed "for the prime purpose of securing special funds broadening the relationship of the hospital in the community, increasing local interest in research and teaching and interpreting the needs of the hospital to the community."

The society will have a membership comprised of "persons interested in the health needs and hospital needs of the community and who have time to devote to this particular interest."

BEGIN MAY 1

Mr. Masters will assume his position as executive director of the society on May 1.

Mr. Wurtele said no replacement had yet been found for the administrators position. "We shall advertise for the position," he said.

In response to questions hospital board officials said they estimated that it would cost roughly 10 per cent of funds raised for administrative purposes.

An office will be established in the city and the total staff at first will be comprised of Mr. Masters and a secretary.

MOVE WELCOMED

Mayor Hugh Stephen said he welcomed the move but declined detailed comment until he knew more about the proposal.

Oak Bay Reeve Alan Cox said the raising of voluntary donations for hospital services was a "good way to counteract the prevalent attitude that the government should do everything."

Esquimalt Reeve Ray Bryant also endorsed the new society. "I am very pleased with the idea and I think we should be happy that we have a man with Mr. Masters' capabilities to head the operation."

Although no target figure has been set for the fund drive it was pointed out that more than $100,000 was already required to answer specific equipment requests.

Pay Up to $2,000 For Trustees Gets Warm Welcome

Proposed legislation that will allow school trustees to vote themselves a salary was welcomed today by Greater Victoria school board chairman Peter Bunn.

School trustees will for the first time be allowed a salary of up to $2,000 a year in some cases under a bill introduced in the legislature Thursday.

"I feel that some payment to school trustees is a good thing. They do put in a lot of time at quite a financial loss," Mr Bunn said.

But, he added, the decision on what payment should be made "will require some careful thought. We don't want to get ourselves in a situation where we have people running for school board just because it means $2,000 a year."

'LITTLE AFRAID'

"So far we have been fortunate in having a group of pretty dedicated people on our school boards.

"I wouldn't want to see it any other way and I'm just a little afraid that if the payments to trustees went too high we might see our boards filled with people who are more interested in the money than they are in education."

Mrs. Nora Lindsay, chairman of Saanich school board, and John Bartanus, chairman of Sooke school board, were not available for comment.

NO HELP

As with municipal council salaries, trustees would have to vote the money for themselves and it would come from local taxpayers, not government grants.

Trustees in districts with up to 3,000 students will be able to receive an indemnity of up to $300; up to 5,000 students it will be $500; up to 7,000 students, $700; up to 11,000 students, $1,100; up to 15,000 students, $1,500, and more than 15,000 students would raise the maximum to $2,000.

Other changes proposed in the Public Schools Act will enable clergymen to serve as school trustees and require school boards to open their minutes to anyone asking to see them.

Any clergyman will be able to serve on a school board but only non-practising clergymen will be permitted to teach in public schools, serve as school superintendents or be eligible for the superintendent of education post.

Mr. Peterson said these changes are proposed as a result of consultations with all major religious faiths.

He also said the school board minutes will have to be disclosed by law because some cases have occurred of trustees refusing to open their books. But the change will permit the board to charge up to 50 cents for the viewing.

Trustees who become involved in legal actions through their positions will be reimbursed from the board for their costs.

In future, boards will be able to continue pay for teachers on leaves of absence but the cabinet must approve such pay for periods longer than six months.

Sea Victim Identified

A young sailor who drowned when he fell from the deck of his moored ship Wednesday night has been identified as James Kasdorf of Southbank near Burns Lake, B.C.

The 21-year-old crewman's body was found under a float near his ship, the federal fisheries vessel Otter Point, a few hours after he was missed by his shipmates.

Shoplifter Fined For Taking Tools

Erhard Lache, 32, of 822 Mann, was fined $50 when he appeared in central court today to be sentenced for theft.

He had been held a week in jail awaiting sentence after pleading guilty to shoplifting $36.75 worth of tools from Woodward's March 2.

Lecturer Resigns In Protest

A third member of the University of Victoria faculty has resigned in protest against the academic atmosphere at the university.

Jack Bush, a 28-year-old philosophy lecturer, said he is resigning because he is disappointed with the contrast between the officially espoused aims of the university and the way it operates.

He is protesting, among other things, the termination of the contracts of three controversial faculty members.

Dr. Charles Tarlton, of the political science department, and J. S. (Jerry) Schwartz and Alan Mackenzie, both of the English department, were told earlier they will not be re-hired at the end of the year.

APPEALED

Dr. Tarlton has appealed his ouster to Canadian Association of University Teachers and Mr. Schwartz has asked a faculty appeal board to review his case.

Dr. Tony Steele and Richard Gravil, both of the English department, resigned earlier in protest against the decision to let the three go.

Mr. Bush, who holds a B.A. and M.A. in philosophy from the University of Washington, has taught at Uvic for three years.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Host an Exotic Party With Oriental Treats

By Penny Saver

One thing I really like about market day, if I have the time, is to browse idly through the delicatessen section of a particular store. It's fun to read the directions on cans of exotic foods—you learn a bit about the country that exported the food that you probably wouldn't ordinarily uncover. If the gourmet in you dominates your practical self while you're "window shopping" at a delicatessen, a real treat is in store for you if you are brave enough to try some of the foreign, mysterious foods.

Just for fun, why not host a "way out" party next time you plan to entertain. Star your refreshment table with Oriental delicacies. One weird food (as hostess, you don't have to tell anybody what it is,) that you might try is dried seaweeds. These are seasoned with soy sauce and sugar. As a vegetable dish, use the seaweed in hot, steaming rice. For the first course of an exotic dinner, tear some into shreds and use in soups. You can serve these as they are, accompanied with hot sake, for a refreshment that is really different. Price is 75 cents the can.

Another food that lends a touch of the mysterious Orient to entertaining is lily bulbs, exported from Japan. These can be cooked in rice or served as they are. The label suggests using them as a dessert with tea or coffee, as they have a sweet taste. They look tasty—they're white, about the size of small onions, and resemble smal. flowers. They sell for 75 cents. (These reminded me of a time my mother told me that tulip bulbs were edible. Intrigued, I tried one that she had stored for the winter to replant in the spring. I liked it, so I ate her whole supply!)

One idea that adds a special touch to an otherwise ordinary meal is a crusty loaf of French bread. In one shop, I found a thin, crusty loaf that was about three-feet long. Cut in thick slices and butter each generously, then heat the loaf in the oven for a few minutes. If you wish, sprinkle with garlic seasoning. This extra-long loaf sells for 26 cents.

Want to know where I found these foods? Give me a call at 382-3131.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Deep Tan Caused White Spots to Appear on Face

Q. I wonder if you could help me? During the summer, I was at the pool almost every day. I got such a deep tan that some people thought I was from a foreign country. I didn't mind that, but now that my tan is fading slowly white dots have developed on my face. At first I thought it was from dry skin, and I put a softening lotion on it, but that didn't help. Could this be from the tan?

Lowman

Some people say it is from lack of calcium, but I drink at least four glasses of milk a day. I am 15. Can you help? I have tried to hide these with cosmetics, but it still doesn't help.

A. I imagine that your problem is due to a change in the pigmentation in the skin, because of extreme exposure to sunlight. Pigmentation is the skin's protection from direct sunlight. If the epidermis is given a chance, it can usually produce enough pigment to protect against the sun's rays. Not all skins produce pigmentation uniformly; some only in patches. These are called the freckles.

Since your skin has become splotchy only after constant exposure to the sun this past summer, extreme exposure is probably the reason. Some complexions can take this and others cannot. It will probably fade some. You might also see a dermatologist. There are coverups which are most helpful.

If you or any of my other readers would like to have the names of a few, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for them. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Q. At what age should a woman begin using creams on her face and neck in order to delay the onset of wrinkles?

A. There is no set age. It is a question of the condition of the skin rather than age. The idea is to cleanse the skin regularly, using soap and water if your complexion is oily and cleansing creams if it is dry. If you have a dry skin, use a lubricating cream at any age. A recent survey showed that many young women have a dry outer coating. More bath oil is used by women under 35 than by those who are older.

Q. About 99 per cent of all writers who write about weight problems write about overweight. We skinny girls need help even more. For more than 15 years I have tried to gain weight. I made one last desperate effort six weeks ago. I have succeeded in gaining 13 pounds.

I am 5 feet 9. My shoulders, neck, and legs look much better, but now my abdomen is too large. What is the answer? I still need to gain more in the other spots.

A. The answer is exercise, special ones for your abdomen. For instance this is a good one. Lie on the floor on your back with your legs straight and your arms crossed over your chest. Keep your arms in this position as you raise your trunk halfway up. Lower to floor and continue.

A meal fit for a king is Crown Roast of Lamb, a budget-priced dinner delight which isn't difficult to make, yet delicious to taste. Serve it and wait for the compliments.

A Regal Touch to Special Meals Which Won't Bother Your Budget

Having company for dinner? Want to impress the gourmets in the crowd? Here is the answer that will upgrade your rating as a cook — without fracturing your budget or keeping you tied to the kitchen.

Crown Roast of Lamb is delightful to look at and delectable to eat and some of the work can be done by your local butcher. Stuffing doesn't take much extra effort and you will feel regal when you serve the crown roast.

CROWN ROAST OF LAMB

One crown roast of spring lamb, ground lamb, packaged prepared bread stuffing; 1 teaspoon sweet basil, salt, pepper, garnish for bone tips.

Have butcher prepare crown roast of lamb. This roast may be cooked stuffed or unstuffed.

To Roast Stuffed

Have butcher grind trimmings from lamb; measure and combine with half as much prepared bread stuffing. Place crown, with bones up, on a rack in roasting pan; spoon stuffing lightly into centre of roast. Sprinkle meat with sweet basil, salt and pepper. Cover tip of each bone with aluminum foil to prevent burning. Insert meat thermometer into centre of stuffing; roast in pre-heated 325-degree F. oven for 25 to 30 minutes per pound or until the thermometer registers 170 degrees to 180 degrees. Place roast on warm platter; remove foil and cover each bone tip with paper frills or use small cooked onions, stuffed olives or pickled crabapples. Carve down between bones and into stuffing.

To Roast Unstuffed

Omit stuffing and roast as above or crown may be inverted so that it rests on tips of bones; insert thermometer between bones and in fleshy part. When roasted turn right side up on heated platter. Fill centre with cooked, seasoned vegetables — green beans, peas, carrots or cauliflower. Garnish tips of bones. Makes about eight servings.

A New You

by Emily Wilkens

Fresh air and water — so elementary we hardly consider them beauty aids — have special properties that can't be found in a jar of man-made cosmetics.

Take oxygen, for example. Whenever you have the opportunity, start the good air racing through your body by walking, running, skipping (the best exercise of all). You'll get a refreshing glow that can't be duplicated by any rouge.

Such increased stimulation aids the complexion by carrying away many of the impurities before they have a chance to rise to the surface.

Plenty of oxygen helps control body weight, too, because it speeds up the metabolism during exercise. A comforting thought is that a hearty meal doesn't seem quite so appetizing after strenuous exercise. Driving golf balls, cycling, skating and the like will often make one forget nervous hunger.

If exercise and fresh air make you thirsty, reach for the most refreshing drink of all: Water. It works wonders for the inside of your body as well as the outside.

Water has long been recognized for its therapeutic powers. We're all familiar with the famous mineral waters that promise extraordinary results. But you don't have to go to a spa for beautification and relaxation. Here are six different types of baths that you can enjoy at home:

1. The hot bath is excellent for cleansing. Add a handful of epsom salts to ease muscle pains.

2. The warm soda or oatmeal bath (just a handful is fine) relieves skin itching or discomfort, bites, leaf poisoning.

3. The tepid bath is greatest for relaxation. An inexpensive bath thermometer assures you of an accurate temperature around 90 degrees.

4. The alternating hot-hot then cold-cold shower (repeat at least three times) to make you get up and go.

5. The hot foot bath — to soften and relieve foot discomfort. Add witch hazel or a few drops of oil of peppermint or one-half cup of salt to sooth those aching feet.

6. The cold foot bath, which is a guaranteed reviver. Stand with both feet under the tap, let the cold water run continuously to just above the ankles. A few minutes of this and you'll be able to run faster than the water.

Just for you: While travelling, if a change of water upsets your digestive system, try one of the recognized bottled waters instead.

DEAR ABBY . . .

'Swingin' Chaperone Like None at All

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter, Debbie, is not quite 16, but most of her classmates are 17, and some are 18. She has been invited to a boy-girl party next Saturday night at the home of a classmate (boy) whose parents are divorced.

When we asked Debbie who was going to chaperone this party she said she wasn't sure, but it would be "well chaperoned." Abby, this boy lives with his father, who has the reputation for being quite a "swinger", and somehow we can't see this father staying home on a Saturday night and properly chaperoning a party.

When we told Debbie that either she would have to call and find out definitely who was chaperoning that party or she couldn't go, she became furious and said we didn't trust her. We do trust her, but do you think we're wrong in our demands?

HER PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: No! Stick with your guns. There should be more parents like you.

DEAR ABBY: Here's the story: Bob and Helen were married when they were both very young. Helen had six miscarriages in 10 years, and she finally ended up in a mental insitution at age 31. It's been 16 years and she's still there. I met Bob four years ago and we fell in love.

Very few people know the behind-the-scene story, but I've known all about it from the start. As long as Helen is living I know he can't marry me, but I don't care. We love each other and as far as I'm concerned, we are good as married. We can't live together because of family complications on both sides. I am 43 and Bob is 48, so we don't need a moral lecture. But when people ask me, "When are you two getting married," what do I say?

Variety, Color and Excitement Mark OES Fashion 'Production'

Every good stage production should have an exciting plot, attractive players, color and music.

The fashion show presented by Centennial Chapter No. 87, Order of the Eastern Star, on Wednesday evening had every ingredient necessary — except perhaps a stage. It played to a "sell-out" crowd of women, youngsters, and the toughest audience of all, men, and had every guest waiting breathlessly for each scene to unfold.

The story began with a day on the beach in summer '67. Models appeared in deck suits, one and two-piece bathing suits and everyone's favorite — the bikini. One of the latter was covered by a floating short tent of multi-colored striped chiffon, floating to the hips.

The pant suits were colorful in wild patterns and Carnaby Street styling, some accompanied by self-fabric skirts. Casual slack and topper ensembles were just as eye-catching. "Man-tailored" shirts in prints reminiscent of a tropical island could be and were complemented with slacks in the rainbow colors featured in the pattern.

Navy, popular every spring, is brighter this year and it appeared in a two-piece knit suit trimmed at collar, cuffs and hemline with bands of white and gold. They also gave an exciting vertical accent to the front closing.

TENT DRESS

Decidedly Mod was a tent dress, a free and swinging style in brilliant lime green, inches above the knee. The stand-up design of the collar was reflected in the stand-out half-sleeves.

But the focal point of the ensemble was its stocking mates — creamy see-through white, patterned all over with green, blue and pink flowers.

For milady's rainy-day wardrobe were shown coats in which to go anywhere. One was a full swinging creamy white topper, splashed with raindrops in gold tones. Another sheath style was teamed with its own toning hat — and gaiters, too.

Just as striking as the colors in the show were the fabrics — lightweight and cool. A silk shantung dress in jade green was indented slightly at the waistline and flared out to an A-line skirt — perfect for after-five occasions.

For more matronly figures were suits with cardigan jackets and slimming sheath skirts, colored brightly to flatter the more rounded shape.

The evening story was told in soft pastels, floating cage dresses or bold color accents to a striking sheath. A particularly attractive ensemble was in palest mauve, with floor-length skirt gathered very slightly at the empire waistline which was encircled with embroidered floral appliques. The trim was repeated at the neckline and held two floating panels which could double as a stole, if necessary.

Formal wear for the half-size figure was flattery itself in sooty black crepe in slimming sheath style. For accent, it featured row upon row of glistening silver sequins and beads to outline the softly scooped neckline. Completing the outfit was a black lace stole.

The Canadian fashion story appeared in an attractive powder blue ensemble — slim-fitting coat over a knit dress en tone, with dropped waistline and stitched accents.

Perhaps the climax of the show was a cocktail ensemble in cloudy black chiffon. Plunged low in the front and back neckline, a huge chiffon bow added an exciting note to one front shoulder strap.

But the excitement was in the topping chapeau. It, too, was of black chiffon, yards of it in a wide, wide-brimmed picture hat dipping slightly in front. The crown was a garden of flowers in every shade of pink imaginable.

The outfit was a show-stopper as were all the outfits in the finale — an Easter parade of suits, dresses, coats and particularly hats.

As the models trooped down the runway for an encore, Mrs. B. Glenday sang "The Easter Parade," accompanied by her sister, Mrs. M. Bissenden. Mrs. Glenday, who recently returned from England where she sang with the Royal Choral Society, also performed during the intermission. Mrs. M. Wilmshurst played accompanying music during the show.

Ida Clarkson commented on the fashions from Roma's Ladies' Wear and models were Mrs. G. C. Baker, Mrs. Ian Humphries, Mrs. Arthur Leason, Kristie Humphries, Jackie Fayad, Florence Walther, Laurie Thomas, Maurine Curran, Austrid Boogaars and Nicci Owens. "Director" of the show, which raised $300, was Mrs. Claude Butler. "Doormen" were Sea Rangers from SRS Beaver Company, Cathie Oliver, Gail Brittain and Heather Clague.

Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Victoria area, Girl Guides Association of Canada, will be held next Thursday at 8 p.m. in Christ Church Cathedral Memorial Hall. Guest speaker will be A. G. Coning.

The meeting, for commissioners, guiders and department heads, is open to mothers of girl guides and those interested in guiding.

Hold Centennial 'Thing' Tonight

This evening, a "Centennial Thing" will be held in St. Martin's Church hall, Obed Avenue, sponsored by the First Tillicum Guides and Brownies Parents' Group.

From 6:30 to 9:30 p.m., the event will feature a baking contest for guides and brownies, stalls of home cooking, white elephants, games, cake walk, hot dogs and soft drinks. Refreshments are also offered in the price of admission.

Lines Around the Mouth

The mouth area comes in for so much attention, the quicker the lines are smoothed out and made to disappear, the younger you will look. A lotion-like substance 2nd Debut applied nightly will make the lines fill in and the skin become smooth once more. You will probably use 2nd Debut on your entire face to banish dryness, but do use a little extra care around your mouth. After applying the 2nd Debut massage very lightly, until it disappears into your skin. Your drug or dept. store has 2nd Debut with CEF 600 or CEF 1200 in double strength and you'll find it a genuine delight to use.

Convention Plans

An attractive social program has been arranged to interest wives of delegates who will be in Victoria next week to attend the 50th annual meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island. The meeting will be held at the Empress Hotel next Monday and Tuesday. Those who arrive on Sunday will join their husbands for an 'early bird' party, to be held at the hotel at 8 p.m. that evening. Monday, the women will gather in the board room of Eaton's for a coffee party at 10:30 a.m., joining their husbands at the hotel for a reception and luncheon. The afternoon will be spent on a tour of the Inner Harbor while evening arrangements call for a reception and dinner, to be followed by entertainment. Tuesday morning's program will allow time for shopping and a visit to the Royal London Wax Museum. At noon, women visitors will meet outside the hotel and be taken to the Olde England Inn for luncheon and a tour of Anne Hathaway's Cottage. Final party, for which they will rejoin their husbands, is slated for 3:30 p.m.

Coffe Party

Mrs. A. T. Reynolds will entertain at a coffee party in her Transit Road home on Saturday morning. The affair is being held in honor of her future daughter-in-law, Miss Lynda Klassen, whose marriage to Mr. Craig Reynolds takes place later this month. Setting the color theme for the refreshment table will be arrangements of yellow freesia and white runinculars. There will be 22 guests.

At Palm Springs

Mr. and Mrs. Percy B. Scurrah have returned to their King George Terrace home following a holiday in Palm Springs. The two travelled by plane to Los Angeles where they spent several days visiting friends before continuing on to the desert resort area for the rest of their four-week vacation. They returned home by air last week.

Social Life In Ucluelet And Tofino

The residents in the up-Island centres of Ucluelet and Tofino find their social calendars crowded with events and comings and goings these days.

Bride-elect Miss Diane Smith, who will marry Ray Stokes of Vancouver, this month, was surprised with a shower recently. Arrangements of spring flowers and pink and white streamers decorated the Ucluelet Athletic Club Hall for the event.

Assisting the honor guest with her gifts were her mother, Mrs. Naida Smith; her sister, Suzanne, and the Misses B. Foster and Lorraine Edwards. Refreshments were served.

Now making their home in Tofino are former Victoria residents Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Nicholson and their family.

A number of Tofino residents gathered in the home of Paolo Benvin recently, for a farewell party to honor Ken Dahl. The honor guest will be leaving shortly to make his home in Vancouver.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Association

The Bridge World magazine was started by Ely Culbertson in 1929. It was somewhat of a Culbertson house organ but the staff included such luminaries as Ted Lightner, Louis Watson, Sam Fry and Albert Morehead.

Alphonse Moyse took over as editor and publisher around 1946 and this year Edgar Kaplan, one of our great players and writers, has taken over.

Today's hand is taken from Edgar's book on duplicate bridge and we will quote directly from Edgar in reference to South's two spade bid.

"You should bid two spades with the South hand. Partner must have considerable strength. The whole hand is probably like this. (See hand in box.) East and West can make two hearts. You, as South, will not be down more than one trick at two spades. In fact, you will make it unless West gets around to leading a club before you get a chance to discard one of your clubs on dummy's queen of hearts.

"In addition, the most likely result of your balancing bid is that East will take the push to three hearts and go down one. Note that you were not just lucky to find your partner with all those cards. Take the spade ace away from your partner and give it to an opponent. Give it to West and he will be too strong for a single heart raise. Give it to East and he will be strong enough to rebid. Nor is it dumb luck to find your partner with three spades. East and West have at least eight hearts. They must be short somewhere and spades is the most likely spot. The fact is that if I were South I would be mildly disappointed not to find a better North hand. But then, I am an optimist."

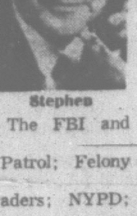
Andy Stephen Looks at TV

The ABC network which originated the "second season" and has tried some rather daring programming in competition against the CBS and NBC giants, has formed its lineup for next season.



Stephen

It has taken Hollywood Palace out of its accustomed Saturday night slot and moved it smack dab up against NBC's movie Tuesdays.

It is treating the British-made "Avengers" as a regular next season instead of a second season afterthought. The network will ride along with Tim Conway's "Rango" character and keep the caped crusader Batman, and his sidekick, Robin, in the face of sliding ratings.

The young network will feature The FBI and Movies on Sunday night.

Tuesday—Garrison's Gorillas; Invaders; NYPD; Hollywood Palace.

Wednesday—Tay-Gar; Rango or Pickles; Second 100 Years; Movies.

Thursday—Batman; Flying Nun; Bewitched; That Girl; Peyton Place; Avengers.

Friday—Off To See the Wizard; Hondo or Custer (both westerns); Will Sonnett; a variety hour of "Judd".

Saturday—Dating Game and Newlyweds (gameshows) or Time Tunnel; Lawrence Welk; Mrs. Thursday; Iron Horse.

If some of the program titles look strange, don't be surprised. However, don't get too familiar with them for ABC doesn't allow them much life if they don't spark some interest after the first ratings.

The lineup, too, means little at this time because releasing program schedules is like playing a game of chess.

There could be mammoth changes by all networks before they finally get to the week of unveiling the final products to public view.

CBS-TV has renewed Mission: Impossible and is now undertaking a mission to find a new lead to replace Steven Hill.

The hour-long thriller will also move to Sunday against NBC's new 90-minute western, "High Chapparal," and ABC's movie. The ratings for the show haven't been outstanding this season and with such competition it could find itself on the outside looking in, in short order.

Constable Shandley admitted on cross-examination that he could point to no evidence of bias, prejudice or mistreatment other than the fact he considered some of his marks should have been higher and that he alleged the chief constable told him he would recommend from the top of the list."

BEST QUALIFIED

"Constable Shandley also admitted that the three inspectors forming the rating committee were the best qualified to make assessments.

"And it is highly significant that Det. (Lorne) Johnson, a senior executive of the police union, sat on the promotion board.

"How can the union now come forward and say 'we don't like what you did'?"

"The evidence indicates the chief constable took into consideration not only marks but numerous other factors which, taken together, convinced him (the other man) was the better man."

"The chief constable," said Mr. Pearlman, "is a man of lengthy experience and the highest reputation. He is particularly experienced in promotion procedures and he had come to the conclusion without bias and without prejudice solely informed by his own judgment.

FULL RIGHTS

"I would point out that under the Municipal Act of B.C. the commission had full rights to make regulations as deemed expedient for the efficient operation of the police force."

Two board members and Mr. Pearlman were sharply critical of a report on Wednesday's evidence as published in the morning newspaper.

Mr. Maclean said when he saw the newspaper he was "horrified at the position the board now finds itself in."

Board chairman Dysart said he was extremely sorry the report had been published.

"I agree that it is bad reporting," he said.

SHOCKED

The strongest rebuke came from Mr. Pearlman.

"I was completely shocked," he said. "It is beyond my comprehension that a so-called responsible reporter could write and a so-called responsible newspaper could publish this. It can only leave the impression that the senior officers on the police force are against the union.

"The story is full of inaccuracies and reports on contemptible statement alleged made in the corridors of this building.

Uvic Students To Canvass For Red Cross

More than 50 University of Victoria students will canvass for the Red Cross in the Lansdowne, Mt. Tolmie, Cedar Hill and Mt. Douglas areas.

The students have volunteered to take time off from their studies to help with the campaign under captain Linde Baker, Uvic students council secretary. First volunteer at Uvic was students council president Stephen Bigsby.

Twenty-eight Victoria businessmen have also volunteered to captain the campaign's business, industrial and commerce divisions.

Individual volunteers are collecting donations to the Red Cross campaign in residential areas. Anyone wishing to help with the campaign may call Red Cross [illegible] at 386-6181.

AT LEAST THREE YEARS

Board to Use Castle As Resource Centre

Greater Victoria School Board will not vacate Craigdarroch Castle for at least three years, says board chairman Peter Bunn.

"Until we have the funds to build another floor on the Paul Building we shall require every bit of space we can get," said Mr. Bunn. "When we take over the Paul Building (on the Lansdowne Campus of University of Victoria) we are just letting out our belt."

Mr. Bunn said the historic building would continue to serve education needs by becoming a resource centre for all district schools.

"It will become a library for books, films and slides and will offer district teachers something they have needed for along time—a place to go to prepare lessons and courses," he said.

FOR DENTISTS, DOCTORS

The Castle will also become the headquarters of school dentists, doctors, a speech therapist, and various other workers who at present have no offices of their own.

"Our speech therapist just doesn't have an office at present," Mr. Bunn said. "Not unless you call her car an office. Once some of us get moved out of Craigdarroch we hope to be able to find these people a place they can call their own."

The decision to hang on to the Castle until enough space can be found to bring all administrative groups under one roof has scotched for the time being a proposal that Craigdarroch become a conservatory of music.

Mr. Bunn said the board had never been officially approached on the conservatory idea, but there had been unofficial discussion.

WONDERFUL IDEA

"It's my personal opinion that it would be a natural," he said. "I think it's a wonderful idea and would certainly encourage it. Unfortunately we don't have the money to build larger accommodation and so have to hang on to Craigdarroch for at least three years."

He indicated that when the final move is made and, the Castle vacated he would support the conservatory of music idea.

Victoria city officials are also interested in the ultimate fate of Craigdarroch.

It has been suggested that when the school board finally relinquishes all hold on the building, the first three floors could be devoted to a conservatory of music while the fourth floor could become the official archives of the city.

Vocational School Delay Criticized

They don't care where in the captital region it is built as long as it is built quickly.

Ross Regan, president of the Greater Victoria Industrial Education Teachers' Association, said his group was concerned over the delay. "While some groups are trying to establish blame for holding up plans, pupils who need the school are being forgotten."

SHOP TEACHERS

He said that shop teachers are faced with pupils who want to continue their education and in many cases find difficulty in enrolling in a regional school.

There are nine such schools in the province. The largest is in Burnaby and the nearest is at Nanaimo.

For more than a year the provincial government has talked of building on a site at Burnside and the Trans-Canada Highway.

SUITABLE PIECE

Part of this land is owned by B.C. Hydro which won't give up the property until it is assured of a suitable piece in return.

Alberta Bans Use of LSD

EDMONTON (CP)—The use of LSD and similar drugs, except for research purposes, would be illegal in Alberta under an amendment to the Public Health Act introduced for first reading Thursday in the legislature.

Premier Manning forecast the amendment earlier at the current session after being questioned about the growing use of the drug.

Christie Pt. Bids Called Soon—Bunn

Tenders will be called soon for the construction of Christie Point Junior Secondary School—without a gymnasium.

Greater Victoria School Board chairman Peter Bunn said today plans had been approved by the department of education and permission received to call tenders.

The first plans submitted provided for a gymnasium-auditorium. They were rejected by the department.

"I don't know how they expect a teaching staff to build up esprit de corps when they refuse to let us build what should be the cultural centre of the school," Mr. Bunn said.

"There's more to educating a child than just sitting him at a desk," he added.

"Where are these kids going to get together to enjoy a music festival? For that matter, where are they going to get together to sing 'O Canada'? They will have no place to go for their drama or large group activities.

"I am most perturbed about this, in fact I'm damn perturbed. A school needs an auditorium-gymnasium if it is to turn out well-rounded students."

FORMER Quebec revenue minister Eric W. Kierans will speak March 17 to the Canadian Club here on the topic "Canadian Unity: Where do we go from here?" Mr. Kierans, once a professor at the McGill School of Economics, is a former head of the Montreal and Canadian Stock Exchanges.

Last Two Climbers Rescued

TALKEETNA, Alaska (AP) — Two climbers, who had been unaccounted for since Sunday on 20,300-foot Mt. McKinley, and their rescuers were evacuated by U.S. Army helicopters Thursday. All were in good shape.

The two found Thursday in an ice shelter at a 10,200-foot camp were the last of the seven-man expedition still on the mountain.

The five others, including the three who fought their way to the summit at 7 p.m. March 1, were plucked off McKinley's flanks by army helicopter Wednesday.

Crewmen Douse Ship Blaze

Longshoremen were evacuated from the ship when the fire was discovered.

They returned to continue loading about an hour later.

Tahsis firemen, who were called to help, were not needed.

Reason for Fast Pulse

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Alvarez

Tachycardia means a fast pulse rate. Often we speak of a paroxysmal tachycardia, by which we mean that often the person's pulse rate suddenly becomes so fast it can hardly be counted. It is hard to say why it does this.

If I were to get the disease, I would keep a record of unusual foods eaten and drinks taken a few hours before—in order to see if I could find an allergic type of cause. I remember a man with a paroxysmal tachycardia who, by keeping such a record, found that his spells often followed drinking a certain brand of champagne. Another man found that a spell followed excessive smoking of cigarettes, and when at last he quit smoking, he was well.

Someone asks if tachycardia will soon kill him, and I don't thinks so, unless he has a failing heart with much shortness of breath. Sometimes, with a fast pulse, a person will get "missed beats" with perhaps a "thumping" in his neck. Fortunately, missed beats do not threaten the person's life.

Someone asks if sneezing means that a cold is coming. No, it can be due to other causes. Early in my boyhood, I got so sensitized to dust on papers or on top of books that commonly today, when I sneeze violently, and perhaps three times, it is because I have pulled a book off a shelf, or have picked up a letter that has been lying for a few days on the table beside my desk.

Some people sneeze when a little secretion comes out of a sinus into their nose. Others sneeze when they step out of the house into the sun. Some people usually sneeze three times in a row.

* * *

More and more people about the age of 50 are discovering they have a miserable disease called emphysema. Usually, the patient is a man, and nearly always he smokes two or three packs a day.

When he goes to a doctor—because of his great shortness of breath—he says, "Doctor, I'll do anything to get well." And the doctor says, "All right; begin by stopping smoking; that will give you the biggest 'break,'" and the man says, "No, I'll do anything but that!" Fortunately, there are a number of things a person can do to help himself to breathe more easily.

ASK ANDY

Andy sends a complete 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Eugine Adams, Jr., age 13, of Shreveport, Louisiana, for his question:

Where did coffee originate?

Most botanists agree that the original home of the coffee plant was Ethiopia. This bumpy land by the Red Sea has high slopes and a tropical climate just right for coffee growing. But these original coffe plants grew wild. For untold ages, nobody suspected that they were good for anyone except goats. This was a region of goat herds and the frisky creatures had a fine time capering up and down the sun-drenched slopes. They enjoyed the tough mountain shrubbery — but most of all they enjoyed the wild coffee plants.

This was noticed long ago by the goat herds of Ethiopia. They also noticed what happened after their shaggy goats had dined on the red berries and the glossy green leaves of the wild coffee plants. The frisky fellows became friskier. They pranced and danced around and cut more goatish capers than usual. Wild coffee certainly cheered up the goats and filled them with frolicsome fun.

Since coffee did so much for the goat, perhaps it also might be good for people. Naturally, a few adventurious experimenters tasted the berries. They felt fine, more alert and cheerful than usual. After that, coffee berries were used as medicine to brighten the downhearted. People took a few of the coffee berries to add to their foods. No one knows how long the Ethiopians enjoyed their coffee and who discovered their secret.

Peppy Pickup

But the Arabs knew about it at least 800 years ago. They added a few tricks of their own to the cheerful pepper-upper. They learned to take the two little beans from each red coffee berry. They dried the pale yellow beans, roasted them brown and ground them up to boil in water as a beverage. This was about 700 years ago, and the Arabic word for the coffee brown beverage was qahwah. You might, just might, be able to twist that word around to sound like our word coffee.

The Arabs loved to spread their secrets. Turkey learned about this peppy qahwah, then Italy. By the 1600s, all Europe was enjoying the wonderful stuff. Everybody knew that it cheered up the spirits, sharpened the mind and added a sparkle of extra energy. Coffee houses soon opened all over Europe. People gathered there to sip the fragrant brown beverage, to chatter brightly and enjoy the cheerful conversations.

We know that this peppy pickup comes from a drug called caffeine in the coffee bean. A cup of coffee during a pause in the day's work really does make the mind a little brighter and adds just a speck of extra energy to return us cheerfully to the day's work. Scientists say that the caffeine drug works by expanding the blood vessels, just a mere trifle. This means that more blood can flow to the brain and the heart.

If someone doubts that coffee is a peppy pickup, give him a cup of it at bedtime. His mind will stay busy on all kinds of problems and the restless fellow will not fall asleep for hours. The story of coffee is fun — but children must wait a few years to try the treat for themselves. The experts who know about these things insist that coffee is not good for growing youngsters.

Youth Killed on Way To Get Quick Coffee

By TERRY IZZARD

Minutes later the car went out of control on a curve known locally as Slaughterhouse Bend, and smashed into a power pole.

"They were still inside the car when we arrived on the scene," said an RCMP officer. "The car had wrapped itself round the pole."

BROKEN PELVIS

He is in satisfactory condition with a broken pelvis.

Michael, 19, lived with his parents at Royston. His mother is a teacher at Comox RCAF school.

Said the boys' school principal today: "They were both studying science. They had a free period after lunch and decided to go for a coffee.

BOTH HAD CASR

"Both of them had cars. They were due back in half an hour (2 p.m.) for another class."

Michael had been a pupil at the school since 1963. Roger had been there just over a year.

WORKSHOP GUTTED

DUNCAN—An exploding gas tank in a car started a blaze this morning which gutted the workshop of Duncan City Service Garage.

Mechanic Art Jones had a lucky escape.

Just before the tank blew up he had been working under the car.

Another mechanic, Wally Hunt, said apparently there was a leak and a spot of water dropping on a bulb sparked the explosion.

The fire took a quick hold and in seconds flames were shooting out through the roof of the workshop.

Volunteer firemen were on the scene just after the outbreak at 8 a.m.

Quaife Resigns

He said he is going to concentrate his energies on his new job as district adviser to Vancouver Island Teen Clubs.

"I will spend the summer trying to organize Teen Towns in Parksville, Comox and Qualicum and advise in the running of existing clubs in the Victoria area."

'UNDEMOCRATIC MANNER' HIT

Petition Asks Vote on Hall

THAT FACE looks familiar. It should do, her husband is honorary chief of Cowichan Indian Band. And it's not Minnehaha. It's Mrs. Pearkes, wife of Lt.-Gov. George Pearkes. The blanket being draped over her by Louise Underwood, secretary of the Cowichan Band, wasn't to keep out the Duncan cold. Mrs. Pearkes, along with her husband, was taking part in Indian ceremonies to celebrate the beginning of a fund drive to build an Indian community and cultural hall. (Don Dingwall photo.)

NORTH COWICHAN—A petition bearing 276 signatures has been fired at North Cowichan council protesting the building of a new municipal hall without reference to voters.

The petition was organized by South End Ratepayers' Association.

Tenders for the new hall, estimated to cost $250,000, will be opened at next week's council meeting.

A. E. Anderson, secretary of the association, said Thursday the petition represents a wide cross section of ratepayers in the south end of the municipality.

The petition [illegible] "We pro- [illegible] very undemocratic manner in which the proposed hall is being built; monies allocated; the site chosen without any reference to the ratepayers.

"We realize the council is not legally bound to go to the people on this issue, nevertheless the money being used is our money regardless how it has been accumulated.

"In the last municipal election South End ratepayers indicated their disapproval by voting heavily for two people who were against this project (George Whittaker and Joseph Haddock).

"Surely this should mean something to the council."

LONE CRITIC

Mr. Whittaker is the lone council member critic of the proposal to build the hall away from the centre of population.

Council has set aside a special hall building fund over the years, and Reeve Donald Morton has stated the project will not affect the rates.

Council has received the support of Chemainus and Crofton ratepayer groups in deciding to build a new hall in the municipality.

$1,000 START FOR FUND

DUNCAN—Cowichan Indian Band's Centennial Committee campaign for $75,000 to build a recreation and cultural hall was given a handsome send-off Thursday.

CAMPBELL RIVER—Donald Nicholls, 22, was remanded eight days when he appeared in magistrate's court here charged with attempted murder.

Nicholls was arrested and charged Feb. 8 after an incident in which a police constable was shot at by a man brandishing a rifle. The constable was not hit.

EMBRACING his only daughter, Svetlana, is former Soviet dictator Joseph Stalin. The picture is believed to have been taken in 1936. Today a police official at Rome airport said Svetlana, 42, has defected from the Soviet Union and arrived a few days ago in the Italian capital. (AP Wirephoto.)

Stalin's Daughter Seeks U.S. Refuge

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Svetlana Stalin, daughter of late Soviet dictator Josef Stalin, defected to the West apparently after flying to New Delhi with the ashes of an Indian who may have been her husband, Russian sources said here today.

They said she went to India soon after Brijesh Singh, an Indian Communist, died at Moscow in December or January.

The sources said Miss Stalina was believed to have married Singh about two years ago but that there was no way of confirming the story.

The Soviet foreign ministry and American and Indian embassy spokesman declined comment on reports that Miss Stalina defected to the U.S. embassy in New Delhi and now was in Rome.

The sources said Miss Stalina, 42, had a long love affair with 59-year-old Singh, who worked as a translator with a Soviet publishing organization.

In New Delhi, informed sources said that Miss Stalina flew to Rome Wednesday after staying a month with Singh's family in the Indian capital.

SEEKING ASYLUM

They said Miss Stalina left New Delhi after telling the American embassy that she was seeking political asylum.

The Russian sources in Moscow said Singh, 59, originally came to Russia for medical treatment.

They said Singh died and was cremated in Moscow shortly before Miss Stalina obtained permission to visit his family in India.

They said it was unlikely she would have been given a travel passport unless she and Singh were legally married.

LEFT CHILDREN

Other Moscow informants said Miss Stalina left behind two children by a former marriage, a son about 21 and a daughter about 15.

They were believed to be the children of Grigory Marozov, a student she married when she was 17 and was later forced by Stalin to divorce.

Miss Stalina was said to speak English fluently. She was also a good pianist and often played for her father.

Her mother died in 1932. Some reports said she committed suicide; others said she was killed in reprisal by a political opponent of Stalin.

A police official at Rome airport reported that Miss Stalina arrived in Rome a few days ago, and that she probably was still in the Italian capital.

SOME LOVERS JAILED

She has lived in obscurity since her father's death but was the subject of lively gossip while he lived. Reports had circulated in Moscow on numerous romances, and several of her lovers were reported jailed for incurring Stalin's displeasure.

One report said she had had

DON'T NEED WHITE WAYS

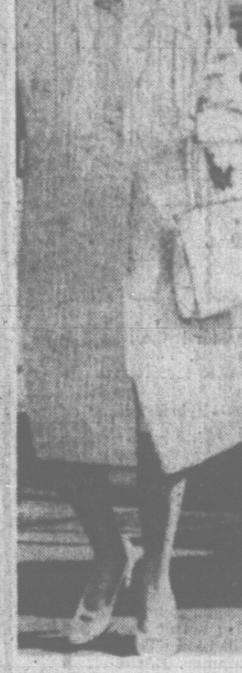
OTTAWA (CP)—A two-year study of the economic, political and educational needs of Canadian Indians was tabled in the Commons today recommending that Indians should not be assimilated into the white man's way of life.

The study, undertaken by the University of British Columbia in conjunction with scholars of other universities, was headed by H. B. Hawthorn and M. A. Tremblay.

"The research group do not think that the Indian should be required to assimilate, neither in order to receive what he now needs nor at any future time," the report said.

"Almost certainly some Indians will choose not to accept what we regard as the benefits of our society and will choose instead what they regard as the benefits of theirs."

The report dated last October was tabled by Veterans Minister Teillet who said Arthur Laing, minister of Indian affairs and northern development, is studying it but will not make a statement for some months.



WALKING to plane in London today for trip to New York, where she will be reunited with her husband, Lord Snowdon, is Princess Margaret. They will fly for 10-day holiday in the Bahamas.

PHAT MORE ACCEPTABLE

Cong Shuffle Aids Viet Peace Hopes

SAIGON (AP) — A change of leadership in the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front to smooth the way for direct peace talks with the United States was reported today by anti-Communist allied intelligence sources.

Huynh Tan Phat, deputy chairman of the Viet Cong's political arm, has replaced Nguyen Huu Tho as chairman, these sources said.

Reports of a change in the NLF's high command have circulated in Saigon government circles for more than a month, the sources said. Interrogation of Viet Cong prisoners and defectors and captured Communist documents appear to confirm the reports.

Replacement of Tho by Phat was "for the purpose of treating directly with the United States" in peace negotiations, the sources said. They added that the NLF plans no place at the table for Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's Saigon government.

KNOWN FIGURE

They said Phat might appear more acceptable to the Americans at the bargaining table. Tho is a widely-known Communist figure in South Vietnam with strong ties to Hanoi. Phat is known mostly to party intellectuals and is relatively unknown outside Communist circles.

Another possible reason, the sources said, is that Hanoi wants Phat to negotiate so he can be discarded as a scapegoat if talks break down. Tho would retain real power.

Phat now is believed to be at NLF headquarters in Viet Cong-controlled areas of South Vietnam or—more likely—in Cambodia.

Phat, 41, was born in My Tho in the Mekong Delta and was trained as an architect by the French in Hanoi. He was arrested in March, 1946, as a propagandist for the Communist Viet Minh.

U.S. Bombs Steel Plant

SAIGON (CP)—U.S. planes from bases in Thailand today struck at North Vietnam's industrial potential, bombing a steel plant, and shot down at least one North Vietnamese MiG fighter in an air battle, an American military spokesman said.

CONSUMER ACT

By JOHN MIKA
Legislative Reporter

Sharp teeth are included in legislation to protect consumers introduced Thursday in the Legislature by Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

The bill would require full disclosure of interest rates in dollars and percentage terms for all credit transactions, whether instalment purchases, mortgages or standard loans.

It also would clamp down on high-pressure tactics in door-to-door selling by providing a three-day "cooling off" period during which the purchaser could cancel the deal without giving any reason.

Penalties for violation of the requirements would go as high as one year in jail or a $2,000 fine for an individual and up to $25,000 for a corporation.

SECURITIES ACT

Mr. Bonner was expected to follow up with introduction of a new Securities Act bill today for tighter control of stock transactions and more disclosure of information to shareholders.

The consumer protection legislation would be implemented at the discretion of the cabinet by a proclamation and this can be expected about September, Mr. Bonner explained to reporters.

He said the delay is needed to give national companies time to make the necessary changes in their operating practices.

REPEALS OLD ACT

The bill also repeals the present Contracts Relief Act and reconstitutes broader provisions so that anyone can sue in court for re-opening of a signed contract to change or cancel harsh or unconscionable clauses including excessive borrowing charges.

"The whole bill is very much in line with other provinces, particularly Ontario and Nova Scotia," Mr. Bonner said.

He added it is not quite as tough as the legislation in other provinces because of the inclusion of the contracts relief provisions so persons can go to court.

"If people feel themselves hard done by and they don't act under that section, I don't know what can be done for them other than setting up a big-brother administration," said Mr. Bonner.

The attorney-general said the credit cost disclosure is intended to eliminate gimmickry in merchandising.

NEW MEANING

"It gives new meaning to the phrase 'let the buyer beware' by making credit as a commodity readily comparable anywhere in the province," he said.

Private persons lending sums for interest would have to abide by the requirement as well as companies.

But federally-chartered banks and finance companies will not have to comply with this provision although Mr. Bonner said he expected them to do so — as they have in Nova Scotia — for public relations reasons.

The bill would require all

Party Expels Von Thadden, Seven Officials

BREMEN (Reuters) — A power struggle in West Germany's extreme right-wing National Democratic party burst into the open today when eight leaders, including deputy party chairman Adolph von Thadden, were expelled only a few weeks before crucial state elections.

Party Chairman Fritz Thielen also expelled executive member Otto Hess, a former Nazi storm trooper, and six other prominent party members all closely associated with von Thadden.

The conflict was seen by political observers in Bonn as between moderate elements headed by Thielen and extremists.

Von Thadden, 44, son of an aristocratic Prussian family, was active in West German right-wing groups since the Second World War and was generally regarded as the party's intellectual driving force.

WAS NAZI COLONEL

Hess, 57, was a lieutenant-colonel in the Nazi storm troopers. He joined the Nazi party in 1930 and he was active as a district orator. He was still a powerful speaker on the hustings.

The National Democrats, who won seats in the Bavarian and Hesse State Parliaments last year, counted on improving their performance in polls in Schleswig - Holstein and Rhineland Palatinate April 23.

Thielen's decision to expel the eight politicians must be confirmed within 60 days by the federal executive.

The split in the leadership was triggered by a court ruling here this week that an election of von Thadden as party chief in Lower Saxony was invalid.

'There's Lots Of Seals'

OTTAWA (CP) — Fisheries Minister Robichaud maintained in the Commons today that there are no signs that the harp seal herds are being depleted by annual harvests.

He was replying to Opposition Leader Diefenbaker who urged him to get in touch with Russia, Sweden, Norway and other countries to bring about eventual cessation of seal killing.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Canada is getting a black eye throughout the world for the seal slaughter without deriving much material benefit from it. Other countries were taking 90 per cent of the seal hides.

MacMILLAN
. . . supplied match

Price Hike Phoney

The veteran mining promoter, for more than 20 years president of the Prospectors and Developers Association, was remanded by County Court Judge Garth Moore to March 17 for sentence.

She was freed on her own recognizance.

Maximum sentence upon conviction is five years.

Wash trading is a term used to describe stock transactions in which ownership does not actually change hands but which creates an impression of activity.

Judge Moore said the issue in the charges was Mrs. MacMillan's intentions in ordering transactions on the Toronto Stock Exchange in Consolidated Golden Arrow July 10, 1964.

WASN'T IN DOUBT

He said he had no doubt the shares were "artificially stimulated" by Mrs. MacMillan. Transactions involving more than 250,000 shares of the stock were carried out on Mrs. MacMillan's instructions that day, evidence during her four-day trial showed.

The price of the stock rose to 65 cents from 25 cents.

Judge Moore compared the situation that day with an open can of gasoline and a lighted match.

Mrs. MacMillan supplied the match, he said.

Mrs. MacMillan, wearing a blue suit and white hat, sat staring straight ahead as the conviction was read.

Her husband, George, also a well-known mining executive and promoter, sat quietly near the back of the courtroom. As the conviction was registered, he rested his head on his hand.

The MacMillans also are charged with fraud in connection with the stock market activity in July, 1964, of Windfall Oil and Mines Ltd. No date has been set for that hearing.

CONFUSION, ACRIMONY AND 'DOUBLECROSS'

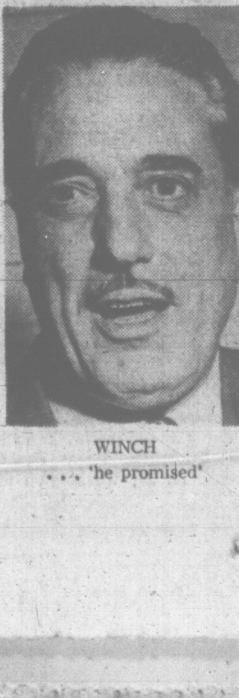
Forces Hearing Near Farce

OTTAWA (CP) — Cries of "lousy doublecross" and "closure" ended another acrimonious meeting of the Commons defence committee Thursday night.

The Liberals tried vainly for the second time to limit the number of witnesses appearing before the committee which began hearings Feb. 7 on the armed forces unification bill, and to fix a date—March 17—for reporting the bill back to the Commons.

Last Friday Joe Macaluso (L—Hamilton West) presented a motion that no further witnesses be heard except for Defence Minister Hellyer. It never came to a vote.

Mr. Macaluso withdrew his motion Thursday night and Robert Andras (L — Port Arthur) substituted another to hear Mr. Hellyer and three retired military officers and report the bill back to the Commons no later than March 17. The bill must still receive third and final reading by the Commons.



WINCH

Douglas Harkness, former Conservative defence minister, and Jack McIntosh (PC—Swift Current-Maple Creek) described Mr. Andras' motion as closure.

Mr. McIntosh and Donald MacInnis (PC — Cape Breton South) said the motion is a denial of Prime Minister Pearson's promise that all witnesses who wished to appear before the committee would be heard.

Harold Winch (NDP — Vancouver East) accused Mr. Andras of pulling a "lousy doublecross" on him. Both MPs are members of the committee's seven-man steering committee, which meets privately.

Mr. Winch said Mr. Andras had agreed at Thursday's steering committee meetings that Mr. Hellyer would testify Thurs-

Building Starts Still Down

OTTAWA (CP) — Building starts on single-detached homes fell to the lowest rate in several years during January, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation has reported.

Urban starts for the month totalled 2,254, a drop of 38.5 per cent from 3,664 a year earlier.

At an adjusted annual rate, January activity represented 31,500 units, compared with 36,900 units on the basis of December starts and 51,200 units in January, 1966.

Builders increased their starts on apartments and other multiple-dwelling structures, bringing January's over-all total of building starts to 7,482, compared with 7,878 a year earlier.

After seasonal adjustment, the annual rate for January was 98,000, compared with 95,200 in December and 141,300 in January, 1966.

Only Alberta, with a 3.5-per cent increase, reported higher starts in January than a year earlier.

Bank Charter Procedure Criticized

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons finance committee has asked Parliament to make it easier for banks to obtain charters.

In current practice, it may take years to get a charter and this has discouraged applicants.

A report by the committee to the Commons Thursday said House rules must be changed to solve this delay by allowing for prompt decision on applications after reasonable debate.

The two new chartered banks opening this year — the Bank of Western Canada and the Bank of British Columbia — both had two-year struggles on Parliament Hill before they won approval.

Each had to be sponsored by a single MP, whose bill had to wait its turn for debate in the Commons private members' hour, a low-priority period that occurs sporadically during parliamentary sessions.

CAN BE 'TALKED OUT'

A group of two or three MPs opposed to the bill can "talk it out" by extending debate past the hour, effectively killing the legislation.

The committee would like the government to get rid of this limitation, while retaining the custom of first sending the application to the comittee for detailed study in public hearings.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

CHICAGO (AP) — Grain futures were generally lightly traded but held their firmness throughout the session and closed the week on a mostly higher tone on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

Wheat was firm from the outset. An extended weather forecast for the winter wheat-producing area of the U.S. southwest indicated no moisture of any consequence.

WINNIPEG (CP) — A moderately active trade in oilseeds was featured today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Some light hedging sales proceeded in both flax and rapeseed and some export interest developed in both commodities.

Lakehead prices for Class Two, IWA and domestic wheat were all unchanged.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Record Buying at New York

Wall Street climbed on the heaviest buying of the year as it responded to President Johnson's request that the U.S. Congress restore the 7 per cent investment tax credit. Despite later profit-taking the market held a substantial gain.

First hour-volume at New York was a record 5,140,000 shares. The ticker tape was as much as 27 minutes behind floor transactions, a record for the new high-speed tape.

Prices reached their crest by the end of the first hour when the Dow Jones industrial average was up 13.70.

It was the heaviest buying since 1929.

AT TORONTO prices were trimmed in light trading as profit-takers cut into strong morning gains.

Interlisted issues paced the list as Chrysler gained 2⅛ to 42⅛, General Motors 1⅛ to 80⅝, Massey-Ferguson ⅝ to 24⅞ and Alcan ¼ to 33⅞.

Moore Corp., which showed a burst of strength in the morning after the company announced a sharp increase in 1966 earnings, was hit hard in profit-taking. The stock was up ⅝ to 96 7-8 after touching a high of 99.

Uranium issues continued to strengthen following an early-week statement by Federal Resources and Mines Minister Pepin that the outlook of sales of Canadian uranium in the near future are excellent.

Denison gained 1 1-4 to 58, Rio Algom 5-8 to 26 7-8, and Roman Corp., whose chief asset is Denison shares, ⅝ to 14¾.

AT NEW YORK Pan-American Airways opened on a delayed block of 76,000 shares, up 3⅞ at 73½; Schenley on 36,900 shares, up 2 at 57; Benguet, on 98,000 shares, unchanged at 4⅛.

Among Canadian issues, Granby Mining was up ⅞, Alcan and Massey-Ferguson ¾, Walker Gooderham ⅝, Canadian Pacific ½, International Nickel ¼. Hud-Dome Mines ¼.

AT MONTREAL active trading in Midepsa highlighted a rising market.

Midepsa went against the trend, dropping 50 cents to $3.75 on a turnover of 75,000 shares. It rose 25 cents at the opening but fell when large blocks of shares started to change hands.

AT LONDON the Labor government's by-election setback resulted in an initial spurt on today's stock market, but buyers failed to follow through and several of the leaders soon declined from their best advances.

One or two soft spots included Consolidated Paper and Massey-Ferguson, the latter shedding two points following lower quarterly profit figures. Other Canadian issues hardened.

AT VANCOUVER MacMillan Bloedel was strong in pre-noon trading and rose .62 to 29.75.

Elsewhere in the industrials, Woodward's was off .50 to 27.25 and Centennial Mortgage dipped .05 to a new low of 1.35.

In the mines, West Coast Resources lost .04 to .95 and Utica was off .05 to 2.12. Brenda was up .15 to 7.15 and Highmont was up .10 at 4.60.

The oil section saw Bata reach a new high of 2.30 before returning to 2.25, up .03 on the morning.

Royal American, however, lost .04 to a new low of .92.

VICTORIA, B.C., FRIDAY, MARCH 10, 1967—PAGE 21

Arthur Mayse

Now that there seems scant chance of winter clobbering timid spring, I am forced to admit that my rating as a weather prophet has dropped several notches lower.

In this corner a few months ago, I predicted a tough one, with plenty of cold and snow, and offered as evidence the extra-thick coats on various furred creatures.

Now, with early daffodils blooming and power mowers churning, hindsight reveals that those thick pelts were merely to shed the rain, of which no one can deny we were blessed with far more than our usual share.

Still, just for a few minutes early Thursday morning, the snow did come sifting down, a reminder that March can be treacherous.

The driveway blacktop was bare before the first out-bound car trailed its vapor-plume up to the road. Below on the beach trail, a thin white coating lingered.

Considering that the snow had lain there for no more than an hour or two, it had picked up a startling number of tracks. A pheasant had strutted it, also a large raccoon who was probably the winner in the territorial dispute I told you about a while ago.

We kept an eye out for signs of a meeting—a scuffed patch—feathers scattered about. But there were only the tracks, along with those of mouse, shrew and a larger print dainty enough for a squirrel.

★

We added our own tracks, and Lancer the Lab his. Down there, the new leaves of the wiry shrub we know as snowberry had unfurled enough to show central rib and veining. Some maple buds had also burst, and the wild cherries were flaunting their leaf-ringed blossoms. The alders were still playing at winter. Break a tight-furled leaf-bud, however, and the green showed plain.

It's a good time of the spring, this at the beginning, and the only one in which the annual drama of the seasonal change is unblurred.

Let the leafing-out swell from trickle to torrent, and the year seems to move in one smooth, unbroken flow, with no sharply-defined transitions to mark the advent of summer.

Above, where the earth-moving machines will soon be ripping out yet another tidy new subdivision, the work-day is tapping an impatient toe. But we refuse to be rushed through the one cigarette we truly enjoy, and let coal approach filter at an unhurried rate.

We talk about whatever comes to mind; but not loudly, since even these capsule woods impose a certain quiet. It is not the quiet of the wilderness, which the strayed, unaclimatized city man finds so terrible.

That is absolute. This is lighter, and gentler.

★

My wife and I are people of our century and our society, and since both suit us reasonably well are perhaps less inclined to question than we should be.

But down where the wild strip thins above the cove, we do sometimes attempt to puzzle out certain mysteries and contradictions.

It is right that Canadian young people should be warned away from LSD. But where's the morality when this same potential mind-crippler could be used as an agent of chemical warfare against boys and girls, men and women, of other populations?

Down south from whence our blessings flow, and where the car is adored with a zest that few of man's dieties can command, the car-bashing tournament is one of the more popular spectator sports. This deliberate breaking of idols is a syndrome . . . but what ill of the spirit lies behind it?

The woods have no answers for such questions as these. All they can offer is a sort of kindness. The answers—if such there are—lie in the world above, where the bulldozers of progress will soon be toppling trees that once bore good apples.

TWO graduate students from Victoria are doing research on X-ray crystallography—a highly-specialized field of chemistry—at the University of British Columbia. They are Ph.D. students Mrs. Carolyn Williston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McCammon, 1032 Craigdarroch, and daughter-in-law of forests minister Ray Williston; and Simon Whitlow, son of Christ Church Cathedral Dean and Mrs. Brian Whitlow. They are seen with Prof. James Trotter (left) examining part of the $70,000 worth of new research equipment he has just installed at the university.

Legal Argument Concluded In Police Promotion Fight

But B. W. Dysart, chairman of the three-man arbitration board investigating charges that the promotion was made in an unfair manner, says the board's written decision will not be ready for some time.

The three-day hearing had testimony from Constable Lorne Shandley, the policeman charging he was deliberately overlooked on the promotion list, and from senior police officers who claimed that normal procedure was followed.

POST AS SERGEANT

Lawyer Dermod Owen-Flood, representing Constable Shandley and the policemen's union, asked the board to order his client to be posted as sergeant or to declare all recent promotions illegal.

Mr. Owen-Flood said Chief J. F. Gregory and the police commission had clearly violated the existing union agreement in their promotion of four men to sergeant.

He said the chief and the commission had failed to "give proper weight" to Constable Shandley's 21 years on the city force.

"Promotions, so the union agreement states, are made on ability, merit, and all things being equal, seniority," he said.

ILLEGAL PROCEDURE

He said the little weight given seniority by the chief and the commission, constituted an illegal procedure and "was a unilateral act by the commission—the union was not consulted."

Police promotions are made on a points system with seniority worth 20 points out of 100.

Mr. Owen-Flood said of general promotion procedure "even King Solomon in all his glorious array would have failed the standards" set for promotion.

UNJUSTIFIED

He termed "not justified" the chief's statement that one reason for Constable Shandley's rejection was his lengthy sick leaves.

He called the sick leave "lawful."

"Is a man to be penalized for being sick and having to exercise his rights as an employee?"

Mr. Owen-Flood answered that even in the matter of health the chief and the commission had ignored and violated its own procedures.

"The official procedure states that before a promotion is made the candidates submit to a medical examination," he said. "There is no evidence that anyone in this case was given that examination.

"The commission needed a doctor's opinion but they got the chief's decision and I think even the chief will agree that he is not a doctor."

Advocate for the commission and Chief Gregory, E. E. Pearlman, last to address the board, said he could see no evidence that there had been a violation of the union agreement in "any shape or form".

He said the proceedings were confined to answering two questions: "Was the failure of the commission to promote Constable Shandley to a sergeant a violation of the collective agreement?" and "was the promotion procedure of the police commission promoting (another man) over Constable Shandley in violation of the agreement?"

"I would remind the board that the onus of establishing there had been violations rest on the union and Constable Shandley," said Mr. Pearlman.

He submitted that the promotion procedures as followed by the commission were "entirely complementary to, or in aid of, the agreement.

"And I would emphasize that

NO MISLEADING BY POLICE CHIEF

In the report in Thursday's Times on the police arbitration hearing it was stated a question had been raised by one of the board members as to whether or not the police commission had been misled by Police Chief John Gregory in his recommendation for a promotion to sergeant over the head of the complainant, Constable Lorne Shandley.

Police commissioner Gordon Carter replied to this by explaining that the commission, in its deliberations, appeared to be aware of the qualifications of the candidates and relied on the chief's recommendations.

By implication his answer refuted the suggestion that the police commission had been misled by the chief, but the Times report of the exchange between the board member, C. R. Maclean, and Mr. Carter did not make this clear.

The Times regrets if its report has cast any reflection on the integrity or reputation of the Chief of Police and tenders him an apology if any such interpretation is placed on the report.

He Fared Badly On City Farewell

A youth who tore plumbing fixtures from the wall of a downtown hotel washroom early today, was fined $25 for wilful damage when he appeared in central court.

Rudolph Sandness, 19, of Canadian Forces Base, Esquimalt, was also ordered to pay the $25 damage he caused. He pleaded guilty.

Court was told the youth was intoxicated, celebrating his departure to a Halifax posting today.

SHE'LL BE A WONDERLAND

$500,000 Facelift For Old Navy Ship

When the former repair ship Miggs next puts to sea it will be the only vessel of its kind on the west coast.

What's more it will boast a new name—the Marine Wonderland.

FOOT OF FORT

During the next few months, the Miggs will be tied up at a wharf at the foot of Fort St.

When the job is complete she will have a 500-seat undersea auditorium, a plush restaurant-cum-dance floor and an assortment of aquariums.

Bought for $60,000 by a group of Victoria businessmen, headed by lawyer David Hummel, she will be towed to Fisherman's Wharf, San Francisco.

There, she will go into business as the marine equivalent of Disneyland.

Workers set to with blow torches and hammers today on the conversion job.

COMPLETE CHANGE

Although Miggs' will outwardly remain the same, her inside will be changed completely.

Biggest job will be the installation of the large auditorium.

When finished, visitors will be able to sit on two sides of the aquarium and watch live shows put on by porpoises and a killer whale.

On deck will be a seal pond while smaller aquariums will be scattered about the ship's 289-foot length.

In addition to the restaurant, there will be a family-type cafeteria.

Said one of the principals of the project, marine architectural and engineering consultant John Case: "We are exporting Victoria's main industry, which is tourism."

The company operating the Marine Wonderland will be called Seaview Enterprises Ltd.

Three Sites Chosen For Convention Hall

Special Committee Lists Alternatives

City council will be asked to choose one.

The three:

- A city block bounded by Cormorant, Fisgard, Store and Government Streets.
- Land adjacent to Memorial Arena.
- Property next to the Crystal Garden which would include the CPR laundry, a bus repair depot and bowling green.

It was also disclosed at the meeting that private capital is interested in developing a convention centre.

"Several syndicates are working on plans for developments including hotel and convention centre," said Clyde Savage, chairman.

LEASE PLAN

In each instance, he explained, the city could lease and operate the convention centre in these complexes.

"These plans will be before us within a few weeks and I would ask the city council at that time to meet and discuss them with interested parties," he said.

Mr. Savage favored the Crystal Garden area over the two other sites.

"These are properties owned by the city in this vicinity, and as hotel accommodation is adequate nearby and also close to shopping, museum and legislative buildings, this location is highly recommended.

He felt that property in this area not owned by the city could be fairly easily acquired.

But the committee was not unanimous.

Nick North, manager of the Imperial Hotel, said he didn't see "everything has to hang on the Empress Hotel."

OBLIGATED

"If land is made easily available for the convention centre, is this going to obligate us to the CPR?" he said. "If it is, I have to resist."

Mr. North favored the Cormorant - Government Streets site.

"It is ideally situated near the civic centre and stores," he said. Parking facilities could be installed underground."

Mr Savage agreed with Mr. North's choice, but said the property is too expensive.

ROADBLOCKS SET TONIGHT

City police will operate road safety checks again tonight.

Two crews of 10 men each will set up the roadblocks at several locations about Victoria between 6 p.m. and 2 a.m. Saturday.

Development Fund Launched At Jubilee

A new organization to raise funds to provide equipment for the Royal Jubilee Hospital was launched this morning.

George Masters, administrator of Jubilee, will resign his hospital position to head the Royal Jubilee Development Fund.

Municipal leaders welcomed the new organization and said it should fill a vital need in the health services required in Greater Victoria.

Any funds raised will be used for equipment purchases only.

A. C. Wurtele, chairman of the hospital board, told a press conference that none of the money raised by public donation would be used for construction purposes.

NOT KEEPING PACE

"We have been disturbed for quite a few years that we were not keeping pace with our equipment requirements," he said. "This newly formed society marks a great step forward."

In a prepared press release Mr. Wurtele said the society has been formed "for the prime purpose of securing special funds broadening the relationship of the hospital in the community, increasing local interest in research and teaching and interpreting the needs of the hospital to the community."

The society will have a membership comprised of "persons interested in the health needs and hospital needs of the community and who have time to devote to this particular interest."

BEGIN MAY 1

Mr. Masters will assume his position as executive director of the society on May 1.

Mr. Wurtele said no replacement had yet been found for the administrators position. "We shall advertise for the position," he said.

In response to questions hospital board officials said they estimated that it would cost roughly 10 per cent of funds raised for administrative purposes.

An office will be established in the city and the total staff at first will be comprised of Mr. Masters and a secretary.

MOVE WELCOMED

Mayor Hugh Stephen said he welcomed the move but declined detailed comment until he knew more about the proposal.

Oak Bay Reeve Alan Cox said the raising of voluntary donations for hospital services was a "good way to counteract the prevalent attitude that the government should do everything."

Esquimalt Reeve Ray Bryant also endorsed the new society. "I am very pleased with the idea and I think we should be happy that we have a man with Mr. Masters' capabilities to head the operation."

Although no target figure has been set for the fund drive it was pointed out that more than $100,000 was already required to answer specific equipment requests.

Court Suspends Youth's Sentence For Car Theft

A Port Alberni boy who stole a car from a city lot a month ago was given a suspended sentence today.

Magistrate Byers ordered Lawrence Caharel, 18, to return to live with his father and take any medical treatment that is arranged for him.

The youth turned himself in to Port Alberni RCMP officers after he and a companion took the car from Telmac Motormarket Ltd., 848 Fort St., Feb. 9, and abandoned it after driving to Port Alberni.

Pay Up to $2,000 For Trustees Gets Warm Welcome

Proposed legislation that will allow school trustees to vote themselves a salary was welcomed today by Greater Victoria school board chairman Peter Bunn.

School trustees will for the first time be allowed a salary of up to $2,000 a year in some cases under a bill introduced in the legislature Thursday.

"I feel that some payment to school trustees is a good thing. They do put in a lot of time at quite a financial loss," Mr Bunn said.

But, he added, the decision on what payment should be made "will require some careful thought. We don't want to get ourselves in a situation where we have people running for school board just because it means $2,000 a year."

'LITTLE AFRAID'

"So far we have been fortunate in having a group of pretty dedicated people on our school boards.

"I wouldn't want to see it any other way and I'm just a little afraid that if the payments to trustees went too high we night see our boards filled with people who are more interested in the money than they are in education."

Mrs. Nora Lindsay, chairman of Saanich school board, and John Bartanus, chairman of Sooke school board, were not available for comment.

NO HELP

As with municipal council salaries, trustees would have to vote the money for themselves and it would come from local tax payers, not government grants.

Trustees in districts with up to 3,000 students will be able to receive an indemnity of up to $300; up to 5,000 students it will be $500; up to 7,000 students, $700; up to 11,000 students, $1,100; up to 15,000 students, $1,500, and more than 15,000 students would raise the maximum to $2,000.

Other changes proposed in the Public Schools Act will enable clergymen to serve as school trustees and require school boards to open their minutes to anyone asking to see them.

Any clergyman will be able to serve on a school board but only non-practising clergymen will be permitted to teach in public schools, serve a school superintendents or be eligible for the superintendent of education post.

Mr. Peterson said these changes are proposed as a result of consultations with all major religious faiths.

He also said the school board minutes will have to be disclosed by law because some cases have occurred of trustees refusing to open their books. But the change will permit the board to charge up to 50 cents for the viewing.

Trustees who become involved in legal actions through their positions will be reimbursed from the board for their costs.

In future, boards will be able to continue pay for teachers on leaves of absence but the cabinet must approve such pay for periods longer than six months.

Sea Victim Identified

A young sailor who drowned when he fell from the deck of his moored ship Wednesday night has been identified as James Kasdorf of Southbank near Burns Lake, B.C.

The 21-year-old crewman's body was found under a float near his ship, the federal fisheries vessel Otter Point, a few hours after he was missed by his shipmates.

Shoplifter Fined For Taking Tools

Erhard Lache, 32, of 822 Mann, was fined $50 when he appeared in central court today to be sentenced for theft.

He had been held a week in jail awaiting sentence after pleading guilty to shoplifting $36.75 worth of tools from Woodward's March 2.

Lecturer Resigns In Protest

A third member of the University of Victoria faculty has resigned in protest against the academic atmosphere at the university.

Jack Bush, a 28-year-old philosophy lecturer, said he is resigning because he is disappointed with the contrast between the officially espoused aims of the university and the way it operates.

He is protesting, among other things, the termination of the contracts of three controversial faculty members.

Dr. Charles Tarlton, of the political science department, and J. S. (Jerry) Schwartz and Alan Mackenzie, both of the English department, were told earlier they will not be re-hired at the end of theis year.

APPEALED

Dr. Tarlton has appealed his ouster to Canadian Association of University Teachers and Mr. Schwartz has asked a faculty appeal board to review his case.

Dr. Tony Steele and Richard Gravil, both of the English department, resigned earlier in protest against the decision to let the three go.

Mr. Bush, who holds a B.A. and M.A. in philosophy from the University of Washington, has taught at Uvic for three years.

The Paper Party

THE ESSENTIAL PROBLEM OF Mr. Robert Thompson, resigned Social Credit leader, lay in paradoxes. He was the national leader of a political party that is not national. The two provincial governments — Alberta and British Columbia—which Social Credit has long dominated, are Social Credit in name only. The basic tenets of the economic theory propounded by Major C. H. Douglas regarding surplus value in production have never been implemented. And the revolutionary movement which Social Credit was supposed to represent has never produced, except for an occasional unorthodox effort quickly ruled unconstitutional, anything but a resolutely conservative administration.

The only sizable extension of the Social Credit movement outside of the extreme west has been in Quebec, and here the name meant even less in the Major Douglas sense than it had in its province of origin. To this situation were soon added the tensions of the English-French dichotomy, and the party could not cope with them.

* * *

Of the 30 Social Credit members sent to Ottawa in 1962, 26 were French-speaking. The total was cut to 22 the following year, with 18 of them being from Quebec, and the delegation quickly split into two quarrelling factions — the Social Crediters led by Mr. Thompson and the Creditistes eventually led by Mr. Caouette. By the end of 1965 the national leader led only four supporters in the Commons, and neither politically nor geographically could claim national status for his party.

There is small wonder, then, that in resigning his leadership, Mr. Thompson complains of a lack of support from the provincial organizations. Inevitably they must think provincially and concentrate their efforts in the field in which they are strongest.

The crowning irony of the Social Credit position, of course, is the fact that while it cannot break out of the two western provinces to achieve national viability, its philosophy of economics and money management can be implemented only at the national level. The result has been that Social Credit in Canada is a name only, and neither a policy nor a program. Few members fully understand the fundamental concepts of the A plus B Theorem and the other Social Credit dogma; fewer still would support them if they did understand.

The only importance of the Social Credit corporal's guard in parliament today lies in its ability to help sustain the minority Liberal government on no-confidence votes or imperil it by siding with the opposition. As a provincial power it could possibly evolve into the party of the right to supplant the Conservative Party on the national level if the latter falters or collapses under the weight of its current internal schisms. But it will be from the provincial bases in Edmonton and Victoria that such a movement will come, not from the paper structure of the national organization.

Mr. Herbert Bruch, the legislative member for Esquimalt, is to be congratulated on his elevation to the national leadership of his party to replace Mr. Thompson and the also-resigned Mr. Martin Kelln, national president. But condolences might also be in order. The situation being what it is, Mr. Bruch is not likely to be trampled by a rush of would-be successors.

The Basic Ingredient

JUDGE HAROLD MEDINA AND his special committee of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, have released their findings in a three-year study of freedom of the press and fair trial with a firm recommendation against legislative action to curtail activities of the news media, lawyers or the police.

But the report does advocate action by the American Bar Association to strengthen its ruling on professional ethics to prevent lawyers, particularly prosecutors, from trying their cases in newspapers, over the radio or on television. This covers the practice of interviews with the legal figures concerned during the course of trials.

The Medina committeee also seeks a code of self-regulation for police and other law-enforcement agencies to bar release of all information other than a brief, general description of the crime and of the accused, "except where a clear and urgent law-enforcement purpose exists or where the probability of prejudice is remote or non-existent."

In other words, the committee seems to say: let the news media go about their work with the exercise of responsibility, but have the professional groups involved in police and court activities set rules which could curtail inflammatory trial publicity.

"We believe," the committee reported, "that as a matter of both constitutional law and policy, an approach through legislation or extension of the contempt power is neither feasible nor wise."

Liberal as the Medina committee seems to be in its concept of freedom of the press in trial matters, the findings draw criticism from spokesmen for two important news organizations, the Associated Press Managing Editors Association and the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

Freedom of the press, they point out, is strictly modified if the sources from which information may be obtained, the lawers or the police, are severely restricted in communication with newspapermen.

As the newspapermen see it, the effect of the Medina recommendations might be to give news media wide freedom to record silence.

Despite its labors and the distinction of its chairman, the committee seems to have failed to reconcile the conflict of press freedom and fair trial.

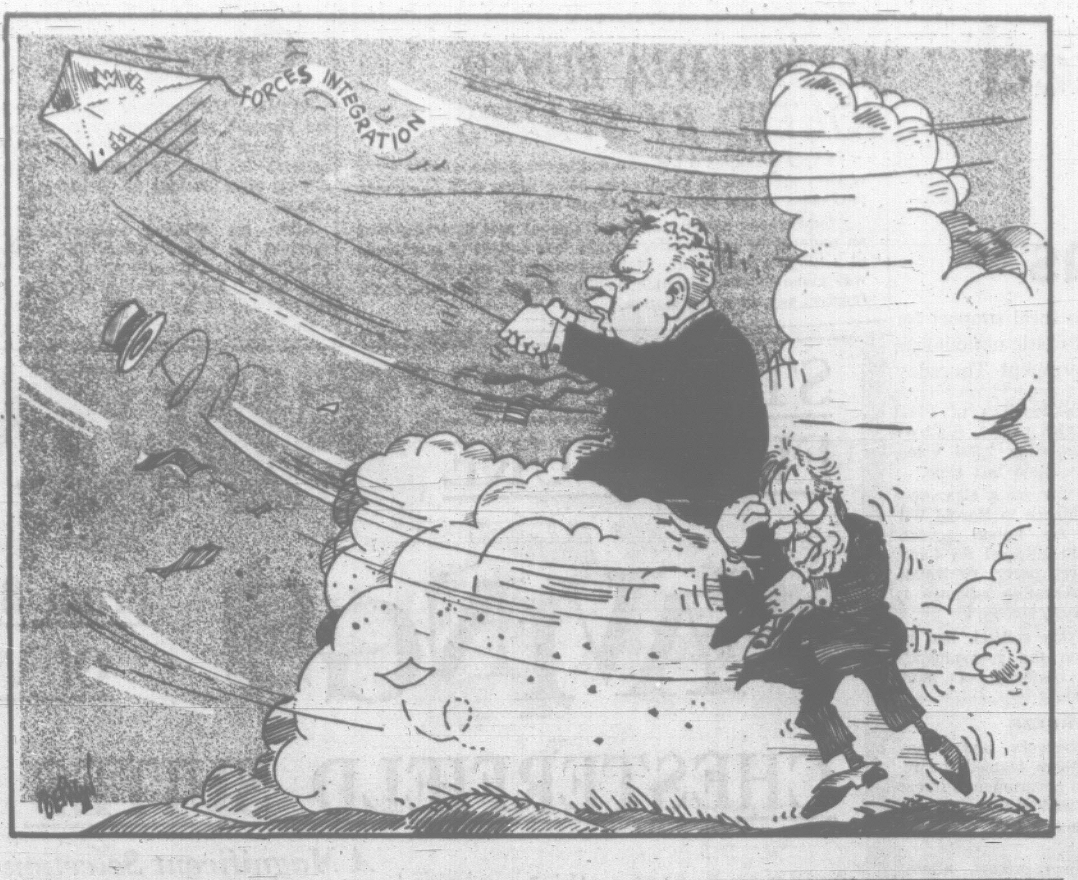
Regardless of legislation or the lack of it, that reconciliation must in the end depend on the adherence of law enforcement agencies to the law, and on the moral responsibility and sense of fair play of the men and women who report and process the news of their communities.

Voice in the Wilderness

TONGUE IN CHEEK, A CORrespondent suggests in a Toronto newspaper one way for the federal government to save nearly $2 millions a year: fire the Auditor-General.

Year after year the Auditor-General's office turns up scores of items where public funds have been wasted or misused or where budgeted estimates have been widely exceeded by actual costs. But so little action is taken on these reports that the Auditor-General and his staff must sometimes wonder if all the effort they expend on their meticulous sifting of records is really worthwhile.

There's a major flaw in the suggestion that this department be abolished, of course. If things are bad with this check on government spending, imagine how much worse they could be without it.



FROM VIENTIANE

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Justification for JFK's Laos Stand

BESIDES infiltrators in transit to South Vietnam, there are now close to 50,000 North Vietnames troops and troop-support personnel in Laos. Yet, under the Geneva accord signed in 1962, Hanoi promised early and complete withdrawal of North Vietnamese from Laos. Under the same accord, Laos was to have a three-cornered government of nationalists, neturalists and Communists. In fact the government of nationalists and neutralists, wisely and courageously led by Prince Souvanna Phouma, has been forced to carry on a permanent civil war against the Communist Pathet Lao.

Alsop

One might think then, that the Geneva accord, negotiated by Governor Averell Harriman at the direction of President Kennedy, had been an all-time diplomatic dead-bust. As anyone can see, this accord is most emphatically not what it has been claimed to be by some of the cronies of the late president's brother, Senator Robert Kennedy. Any Vietnamese settlement modelled on this accord about Laos will merely be a concealed surrender.

Yet President Kennedy, as previously related, by no means saw the Geneva accord as a true settlement of the affairs of Laos. He saw it, rather, as a kind of holding action, which would serve well enough until the future of this part of the world was determined in "the main theatre," as he described South Vietnam.

Viewed in this very special light, the results of the 1962 accord have amply proven President Kennedy's foresight. For the makeshift arrangements produced by the accord have permitted the Laotians to make very significant progress.

By far the most important of these arrangements was the elevation of the neturalist leader, Prince Souvanna Phouma, to the prime ministership. This wise head of the junior branch of the Laotian royal house has proved to be both national-minded and extremely practical.

At the outset, he no doubt believed that he could manage the kind of three-cornered government that was envisioned at Geneva. To this day, he still keeps ostentatiously open the cabinet places allotted to the Pathet Lao. But when the Lao Communists showed they regarded the three-cornered government as a mere instrument for a complete Communist takeover, Prince Souvanna squarely and promptly faced the facts.

Continuous Civil War

From that moment, civil war has been continuous in Laos, with the nationalists and neutralists united against the Communists. Nor has this been the unmitigated misfortune that you might suppose; for the Communist threat has by stages given birth to something like true national unity among all the non-Communists.

One important stage was the exile of the all-or-nothing nationalist leader, General Phoumi Nosavan. Another, more recent stage was the ejection from the country of the self-intoxicated neutralist military commander, General Kong Le (after a French secret service intrigue with incomparable elements of gaminess, including a rich dose of sex).

Before long, the nationalist and neutralist armed forces should be successfully merged in a single national army. Long since, meanwhile, the hold on the countryside of the Communist Pathet Lao, which resulted solely from terrorism, began to be broken throughout the 60 per cent of Laos controlled by Prince Souvanna's government.

In this main part of Laos, the Communists, who once ranged up to the outskirts of Vientiane, are now left with no more than tiny pockets in remote areas; and these pockets are being progressively liquidated. Real progress has also been made economically, administratively and in many other ways.

No serious attempt has been made, however, to break the Communist hold on their two main areas of full control — the part of southeastern Laos through which the Ho Chi Minh trail now runs and the most northerly provinces, including the Plain of Jars. These are too heavily occupied by North Vietnamese troops. (Without the North Vietnamese, the Pathet Lao could hardly hold their areas for more than a few months.)

Yet it is reasonable to hope that if and when the North Vietnamese are forced to withdraw from South Vietnam, the Laotians will also get back these lost parts of their country.

And if that happens, President Kennedy's foresight will be proven to the hilt.

Letters

Wants the Full Picture

Saanich council memories must be short-lived. When these "concerned" gentlemen decided to push ahead with the sports bylaw March 18, they forgot:

That at the time of setting the 1966 mill rate both reeve and councillors voiced concern for the high taxes shouldered by the majority of those on fixed incomes;

That the $2.4 million referendum passed in 1965 for McKenzie Ave. widening and purchase of MacRae estate has not yet been applied to the taxes,

That the two to four mill hospital levy is coming up next year or the year after.

That the school rate will increase.

That councillors have said rising costs will force council to increase, not lower, the municipal mill rate this year,

Reeve Curtis has on many occasions in the past two months voiced concern that taxes are too high now and the ratepayer is overburdened.

Taking all these points into consideration does a swimming pool and arena outweigh the pressing need for sewers, street lights, hospitals, schools, adequate police and fire protection?

Reeve Curtis and his council should, if they are to fulfil the trust we as ratepayers placed in them, show us the full picture (this year and next) and not just a narrow strip along the border.—Saanich Resident.

Publicity Criticized

Regarding the two-page spread you gave the other day to some youths of this city, a few of us Old Age Pensioners have been discussing this, and trying to justify the publicity you have given them.

It would be interesting to know who has paid for the university training for some of them — and do they consider their money an entire waste.

We seriously suggest you explain a few things — chiefly, how one of these people "exists" on a federal salary of $145 per month, while respectable Old Age Pensioners — many of whom have helped to build this country for over 50 years — are supposed to "exist" on the new pension of $105? — T. O. Miller, 1526 Pandora.

Financing Separate Schools

I wish to express my appreciation and admiration for the manner in which the two MLA's Mr. H. Cappozzi and Dr. P. L. McGeer have presented their plea for these thousands of parents in the province who send their children to separate schools and who do not receive one copper as financial support. At the same time these parents are taxed for the public school just the same. This is a very serious discrimination, because these parents don't feel it as a privilege to send their children to these schools but believe this to be their God-given reponsibility to select the education for their children. — S. Wolters, President of District No. 12 (British Columbia) of the National Union of Christian Schools.

FROM WASHINGTON

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

Decisive Days for Canada in Kennedy Round Talks

BEFORE the end of this month Canada should know whether its prosperity and all its plans for a still richer society are built on a solid foundation or on a quicksand. Such is the little-understood but vital question to be answered by the tariff negotiations of the Kennedy Round in Geneva. If they succeed Canada will be the largest beneficiary among the Western nations. If they fail it will be the worst victim.

Hutchison

Most Canadians understand that their jobs and living standards depend primarily on massive exports and imports. But many of them do not understand that this huge foreign trade depends on a world market governed by the rules of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. And not many realize that the existing structure of international commerce is in grave danger of disintegration if things go wrong in Geneva before the deadline of March 31.

At first sight this danger is not apparent. The layman naturally asks what difference it will make if the Kennedy Round does not reduce the present tariffs among the GATT partners. Canada, for example, is doing very well under these tariffs. If they remain unchanged surely it can continue to do just as well and expand both its exports and its prosperity?

No Immobility

Unfortunately the issue now approaching the final crunch at Geneva after four years' delay is not that simple. For if the present tariffs are not reduced they will not stand still. Almost certainly, in the judgment of the American government, they w'll rise, with grave effects everywhere and shattering effects on the Canadian economy.

All this makes no economic sense but it is virtually inevitable in the politics of the United States.

By one of his boldest initiatives the late President Kennedy persuaded a dubious Congress to allow him to reduce tariffs by 50 per cent across the board and to abolish some of them altogether, if other nations would do the same.

Many powerful industries protected by the tariff and backed by millions of voters at home resisted the president's grand design from the start. They are still resisting it and hoping for its failure. If the Kennedy Round collapses these great pressure groups will not be satisfied. They will insist that the whole concept of a freely-trading world was always sheer delusion, that the United States must return to the old, reliable protectionist policy known originally as the American System.

Thus President Johnson, inheriting his predecessor's policy and authority (which lapses at the end of June), must fight on two fronts. In Geneva he is fighting a European Common Market apparently willing to reduce industrial tariffs but unwilling to increase, or even to maintain its present imports of foodstuffs, as the United States demands. In Washington the president fights a strong and rising tide of economic isolationism.

Next to the Vietnam war, and other dangers to world peace, nothing worries him so much as the crisis at Geneva. By drawing the deadline of March 31 he has bluntly warned the Common Market that his government must have a quick answer, in principle at least, because Congress obviously will not renew his authority to reduce tariffs byond its lapsing date of midsummer.

If the Common Market's answer is in favor of reduced tariffs — a fifty-fifty chance at best — the three months of April, May and June will be needed to sort out the complex details of the bargain including, above all, a separate contract to cover exports and imports of grain.

The sticking point at Geneva is the grain deal which the United States considers so essential that it has lately rejected the Common Market's request for postponement while industrial tariffs are cut. Without an agreement on foodstuffs there can be no agreement on anything.

But if the grain deal cannot be negotiated the master politician in the White House will not abandon his struggle against the Congressional protectionists. He will make a fresh start and propose a drastic alternative to the Kennedy Round, even at the cost of undermining or perhaps destroying GATT. And in this alternative, if it is possible at all, Canada must play a leading part as one of the world's largest traders.

Admittedly the alternative of a new trade bloc under low, preferential tariffs and embracing the United States, Britain, Canada, Japan, Australia, New Zealand and other nations willing to join it is a poor second best to the multilateral, worldwide system of GATT.

It would further divide the world market which GATT has long sought to unite. It would run directly counter to the historic policies, almost the economic religion of the United States, Britain and Canada. Moreover, it is complicated for the time being by Britain's attempt to enter the Common Market. For if Britain wins entry it cannot join a transatlantic association, but in Washington another veto by President de Gaulle is generally expected.

Fall-Back Precautions

Despite all these difficulties, which many American and Canadian experts consider insuperable, the fall-back position after possible failure at Geneva already is being quietly prepared and the preparations of themselves may drive the Common Market into a tariff agreement at the eleventh hour.

Even an intransigent France cannot lightly dismiss the threat of a huge competitive trading zone led by the United States, while the other partners of the Common Market, Germany in particular, are appalled by this prospect, for political and military as well as economic reasons.

Nevertheless, as time runs out and the fateful end of March approaches, no one in Washington counts on the success of the Kennedy Round. No one pretends, either, that the alternative is satisfactory, that the Congress will necessarily accept it or that overseas nations like Japan will finally join it, though Canada's adherence is take for granted.

Yet unsatisfactory as it is, the alternative would be better, as the American government sees it, than a general retreat in panic to the old storm cellars of trade restriction, as favored by the irreconcilable high-tariff forces of the United States and Canada.

In any case, whether the Kennedy Round succeeds or fails, Canada will soon confront some wrenching decisions. Success must mean a sharp cut in Canadian tariffs, with drastic effects on business and party politics. Failure must present Canada with the necessity of reorienting its entire trade pattern as long built on GATT and the lucrative multilateral tariff contracts now in imminent peril. The next few weeks will show whether that economic and political nightmare can be avoided.

Looking Back

From The Times of March 10, 1907.

London—The bill to extend the right of suffrage to women was defeated in the House of Commons today, where it was talked to death without coming to a vote.

The debate was a repetition of the familiar arguments for and against female suffrage. The result was not surprising, even to the suffragists, as some of the strongest sympathizers with the women's cause realized that the question was not ripe for legislation.

Constable Shandley admitted on cross-examination that he could point to no evidence of bias, prejudice or mistreatment other than the fact he considered some of his marks should have been higher and that he alleged the chief constable told him he would recommend from the top of the list."

BEST QUALIFIED

"Constable Shandley also admitted that the three inspectors forming the rating committee were the best qualified to make assessments.

"And it is highly significant that Det. (Lorne) Johnson, a senior executive of the police union, sat on the promotion board.

"How can the union now come forward and say 'we don't like what you did'?"

"The evidence indicates the chief constable took into consideration not only marks but numerous other factors which, taken together, convinced him (the other man) was the better man."

"The chief constable," said Mr. Pearlman, "is a man of lengthy experience and the highest reputation. He is particularly experienced in promotion procedures and he had come to the conclusion without bias and without prejudice solely informed by his own judgment.

FULL RIGHTS

"I would point out that under the Municipal Act of B.C. the commission had full rights to make regulations as deemed expedient for the efficient operation of the police force."

Two board members and Mr. Pearlman were sharply critical of a report on Wednesday's evidence as published in the morning newspaper.

Mr. Maclean said when he saw the newspaper he was "horrified at the position the board now finds itself in."

Board chairman Dysart said he was extremely sorry the report had been published.

"I agree that it is bad reporting," he said.

SHOCKED

The strongest rebuke came from Mr. Pearlman.

"I was completely shocked," he said. "It is beyond my comprehension that a so-called responsible reporter could write and a so-called responsible newspaper could publish this. It can only leave the impression that the senior officers on the police force are against the union.

"The story is full of inaccuracies and reports on contemptible statement alleged made in the corridors of this building.

Uvic Students To Canvass For Red Cross

More than 50 University of Victoria students will canvass for the Red Cross in the Lansdowne, Mt. Tolmie, Cedar Hill and Mt. Douglas areas.

The students have volunteered to take time off from their studies to help with the campaign under captain Linde Baker, Uvic students council secretary. First volunteer at Uvic was students council president Stephen Bigsby.

Twenty-eight Victoria businessmen have also volunteered to captain the campaign's business, industrial and commerce divisions.

AT LEAST THREE YEARS

Board to Use Castle As Resource Centre

Greater Victoria School Board will not vacate Craigdarroch Castle for at least three years, says board chairman Peter Bunn.

"Until we have the funds to build another floor on the Paul Building we shall require every bit of space we can get," said Mr. Bunn. "When we take over the Paul Building (on the Lansdowne Campus of University of Victoria) we are just letting out our belt."

Mr. Bunn said the historic building would continue to serve education needs by becoming a resource centre for all district schools.

"It will become a library for books, films and slides and will offer district teachers something they have needed for along time—a place to go to prepare lessons and courses," he said.

FOR DENTISTS, DOCTORS

The Castle will also become the headquarters of school dentists, doctors, a speech therapist, and various other workers who at present have no offices of their own.

"Our speech therapist just doesn't have an office at present," Mr. Bunn said. "Not unless you call her car an office. Once some of us get moved out of Craigdarroch we hope to be able to find these people a place they can call their own."

The decision to hang on to the Castle until enough space can be found to bring all administrative groups under one roof has scotched for the time being a proposal that Craigdarroch become a conservatory of music.

Mr. Bunn said the board had never been officially approached on the conservatory idea, but there had been unofficial discussion.

WONDERFUL IDEA

"It's my personal opinion that it would be a natural," he said. "I think it's a wonderful idea and would certainly encourage it. Unfortunately we don't have the money to build larger accommodation and so have to hang on to Craigdarroch for at least three years."

He indicated that when the final move is made and the Castle vacated he would support the conservatory of music idea.

Victoria city officials are also interested in the ultimate fate of Craigdarroch.

It has been suggested that when the school board finally relinquishes all hold on the building, the first three floors could be devoted to a conservatory of music while the fourth floor could become the official archives of the city.

Vocational School Delay Criticized

They don't care where in the capital region it is built as long as it is built quickly.

Ross Regan, president of the Greater Victoria Industrial Education Teachers' Association, said his group was concerned over the delay. "While some groups are trying to establish blame for holding up plans, pupils who need the school are being forgotten."

SHOP TEACHERS

He said that shop teachers are faced with pupils who want to continue their education and in many cases find difficulty in enrolling in a regional school.

There are nine such schools in the province. The largest is in Burnaby and the nearest is at Nanaimo.

For more than a year the provincial government has talked of building on a site at Burnside and the Trans-Canada Highway.

SUITABLE PIECE

Part of this land is owned by B.C. Hydro which won't give up the property until it is assured of a suitable piece in return.

Alberta Bans Use of LSD

EDMONTON (CP)—The use of LSD and similar drugs, except for research purposes, would be illegal in Alberta under an amendment to the Public Health Act introduced for first reading Thursday in the legislature.

Premier Manning forecast the amendment earlier at the current session after being questioned about the growing use of the drug.

Christie Pt. Bids Called Soon—Bunn

Tenders will be called soon for the construction of Christie Point Junior Secondary School—without a gymnasium.

Greater Victoria School Board chairman Peter Bunn said today plans had been approved by the department of education and permission received to call tenders.

The first plans submitted provided for a gymnasium-auditorium. They were rejected by the department.

"I don't know how they expect a teaching staff to build up esprit de corps when they refuse to let us build what should be the cultural centre of the school," Mr. Bunn said.

"There's more to educating a child than just sitting him at a desk," he added.

"Where are these kids going to get together to enjoy a music festival? For that matter, where are they going to get together to sing 'O Canada'? They will have no place to go for their drama or large group activities.

"I am most perturbed about this, in fact I'm damn perturbed. A school needs an auditorium-gymnasium if it is to turn out well-rounded students."

FORMER Quebec revenue minister Eric W. Kierans will speak March 17 to the Canadian Club here on the topic "Canadian Unity: Where do we go from here?" Mr. Kierans, once a professor at the McGill School of Economics, is a former head of the Montreal and Canadian Stock Exchanges.

Last Two Climbers Rescued

TALKEETNA, Alaska (AP) — Two climbers, who had been unaccounted for since Sunday on 20,300-foot Mt. McKinley, and their rescuers were evacuated by U.S. Army helicopters Thursday. All were in good shape.

The two found Thursday in an ice shelter at a 10,200-foot camp were the last of the seven-man expedition still on the mountain.

The five others, including the three who fought their way to the summit at 7 p.m. March 1, were plucked off McKinley's flanks by army helicopter Wednesday.

Crewmen Douse Ship Blaze

Longshoremen were evacuated from the ship when the fire was discovered.

They returned to continue loading about an hour later.

Tahsis firemen, who were called to help, were not needed.

The fire is believed to have been caused by waste fuel oil.

SLAUGHTERHOUSE BEND

By TERRY IZZARD

Minutes later the car went out of control on a curve known locally as Slaughterhouse Bend, and smashed into a power pole.

"They were still inside the car when we arrived on the scene," said an RCMP officer. "The car had wrapped itself round the pole."

BROKEN PELVIS

He is in satisfactory condition with a broken pelvis.

Michael, 19, lived with his parents at Royston. His mother is a teacher at Comox RCAF school.

Said the boys' school principal today: "They were both studying science. They had a free period after lunch and decided to go for a coffee.

BOTH HAD CASR

"Both of them had cars. They were due back in half an hour (2 p.m.) for another class."

Michael had been a pupil at the school since 1963. Roger had been there just over a year.

WORKSHOP GUTTED

DUNCAN—An exploding gas tank in a car started a blaze this morning which gutted the workshop of Duncan City Service Garage.

Mechanic Art Jones had a lucky escape.

Just before the tank blew up he had been working under the car.

Another mechanic, Wally Hunt, said apparently there was a leak and a spot of water dropping on a bulb sparked the explosion.

The fire took a quick hold and in seconds flames were shooting out through the roof of the workshop.

Volunteer firemen were on the scene just after the outbreak at 8 a.m.

Quaife Resigns

He said he is going to concentrate his energies on his new job as district adviser to Vancouver Island Teen Clubs.

"I will spend the summer trying to organize Teen Towns in Parksville, Comox and Qualicum and advise in the running of existing clubs in the Victoria area."

'UNDEMOCRATIC MANNER' HIT

Petition Asks Vote on Hall

NORTH COWICHAN—A petition bearing 276 signatures has been fired at North Cowichan council protesting the building of a new municipal hall without reference to voters.

The petition was organized by South End Ratepayers' Association.

Tenders for the new hall, estimated to cost $250,000, will be opened at next week's council meeting.

A. E. Anderson, secretary of the association, said Thursday the petition represents a wide cross section of ratepayers in the south end of the municipality.

The petition says: "We protest the very undemocratic manner in which the proposed hall is being built; monies allocated; the site chosen without any reference to the ratepayers.

"We realize the council is not legally bound to go to the people on this issue, nevertheless the money being used is our money regardless how it has been accumulated.

"In the last municipal election South End ratepayers indicated their disapproval by voting heavily for two people who were against this project (George Whittaker and Joseph Haddock).

"Surely this should mean something to the council."

LONE CRITIC

Mr. Whittaker is the lone council member critic of the proposal to build the hall away from the centre of population.

Council has set aside a special hall building fund over the years, and Reeve Donald Morton has stated the project will not affect the rates.

Council has received the support of Chemainus and Crofton ratepayer groups in deciding to build a new hall in the municipality.

THAT FACE looks familiar. It should do, her husband is honorary chief of Cowichan Indian Band. And it's not Minnehaha. It's Mrs. Pearkes, wife of Lt.-Gov. George Pearkes. The blanket being draped over her by Louise Underwood, secretary of the Cowichan Band, wasn't to keep out the Duncan cold. Mrs. Pearkes, along with her husband, was taking part in Indian ceremonies to celebrate the beginning of a fund drive to build an Indian community and cultural hall. (Don Dingwall photo.)

$1,000 START FOR FUND

DUNCAN—Cowichan Indian Band's Centennial Committee campaign for $75,000 to build a recreation and cultural hall was given a handsome send-off Thursday.

INDIANS DON'T NEED WHITE WAYS

OTTAWA (CP)—A two-year study of the economic, political and educational needs of Canadian Indians was tabled in the Commons today recommending that Indians should not be assimilated into the white man's way of life.

The study, undertaken by the University of British Columbia in conjunction with scholars of other universities, was headed by H. B. Hawthorn and M. A. Tremblay.

"The research group do not think that the Indian should be required to assimilate, neither in order to receive what he now needs nor at any future time," the report said.

"Almost certainly some Indians will choose not to accept what we regard as the benefits of our society and will choose instead what they regard as the benefits of theirs."

The report dated last October was tabled by Veterans Minister Teillet who said Arthur Laing, minister of Indian affairs and northern development, is studying it but will not make a statement for some months.

Frank Howard (NDP—Skeena) suggested that copies of the report be made available free to all Indians in Canada. Industry Minister Drury said the government would consider the proposal.

The report said sponsorship and backing of the federal government's Indian affairs branch will be needed "for quite a long time."

Party Expels Von Thadden, Seven Officials

BREMEN (Reuters) — A power struggle in West Germany's extreme right-wing National Democratic party burst into the open today when eight leaders, including deputy party chairman Adolph von Thadden, were expelled only a few weeks before crucial state elections.

Party Chairman Fritz Thielen also expelled executive member Otto Hess, a former Nazi storm trooper, and six other prominent party members all closely associated with von Thadden.

The conflict was seen by political observers in Bonn as between moderate elements headed by Thielen and extremists.

Von Thadden, 44, son of an aristocratic Prussian family, was active in West German right-wing groups since the Second World War and was generally regarded as the party's intellectual driving force.

WAS NAZI COLONEL

Hess, 57, was a lieutenant-colonel in the Nazi storm troopers. He joined the Nazi party in 1930 and he was active as a district orator. He was still a powerful speaker on the hustings.

The National Democrats, who won seats in the Bavarian and Hesse State Parliaments last year, counted on improving their performance in polls in Schleswig - Holstein and Rhineland Palatinate April 23.

Thielen's decision to expel the eight politicians must be confirmed within 60 days by the federal executive.

The split in the leadership was triggered by a court ruling here this week that an election of von Thadden as party chief in Lower Saxony was invalid.

New Securities Bill Introduced

Attorney-General Robert Bonner this afternoon introduced a far-reaching bill to set up an entirely new Securities Act, which would, for the first time, compel companies and promoters to fully disclose financial affairs to shareholders and the stock market; set up procedures for take-over bids and proxy solicitation; restrict "insider trading" by company directors.

Mr. Bonner said the legislation was modelled on a new act just implemented in Ontario and being copied in Alberta as well.

Seal Hunt Inspector Chased

OTTAWA (CP)—The fisheries department's senior officer overseeing the annual seal hunt was ordered off the vessel North Star when he tried to enforce sealing regulations, Fisheries Minister Robichaud said today.

He said the incident occurred off the Magdalen Islands in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and resulted in the vessel's owners instructing the captain to observe regulations to the letter or be relieved from his command.

Sweden in Second Victory

STOCKHOLM (CP) — Sweden whipped Canada 2-1 here today in a tuneup exhibition match for the world hockey championship tournament beginning March 18 in Vienna.

It was the second straight win over Canada for the Swedish national team, which took a 4-2 decision Thursday.

Free Color TV Lists Demanded

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Leader Diefenbaker made another bid today for the names of CBC officials who have the use of free color television sets, and also asked whether the officials file reports on programs they watch.

CONSUMER ACT

'COOLING OFF' PERIOD SET IN NEW BILL

By JOHN MIKA
Legislative Reporter

Sharp teeth are included in legislation to protect consumers introduced Thursday in the Legislature by Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

The bill would require full disclosure of interest rates in dollars and percentage terms for all credit transactions, whether instalment purchases; mortgages or standard loans.

It also would clamp down on high-pressure tactics in door-to-door, selling by providing a three-day "cooling off" period during which the purchaser could cancel the deal without giving any reason.

Penalties for violation of the requirements would go as high as one year in jail or a $2,000 fine for an individual and up to $25,000 for a corporation.

SECURITIES ACT

Mr. Bonner was expected to follow up with introduction of a new Securities Act bill today for tighter control of stock transactions and more disclosure of information to shareholders.

The consumer protection legislation would be implemented at the discretion of the cabinet by a proclamation and this can be expected about September, Mr. Bonner explained to reporters.

He said the delay is needed to give national companies time to make the necessary changes in their operating practices.

REPEALS OLD ACT

The bill also repeals the present Contracts Relief Act and reconstitutes broader provisions so that anyone can sue in court for re-opening of a signed contract to change or cancel harsh or unconscionable clauses including excessive borrowing charges.

"The whole bill is very much in line with other provinces, particularly Ontario and Nova Scotia," Mr. Bonner said.

He added it is not quite as tough as the legislation in other provinces because of the inclusion of the contracts relief provisions so persons can go to court.

"If people feel themselves hard done by and they don't act under that section, I don't know what can be done for them other than setting up a big - brother administration," said Mr. Bonner.

The attorney-general said the credit cost disclosure is intended to eliminate gimmickry in merchandising.

"It gives new meaning to the phrase 'let the buyer beware' by making credit as a commodity readily comparable anywhere in the province," he said.

Private persons lending sums for interest would have to abide by the requirement as well as companies.

But federally-chartered banks and finance companies will not have to comply with this provision although Mr. Bonner said he expected them to do so — as they have in Nova Scotia — for public relations reasons.

The bill would require all

New Trial Ordered In Arsenic Slaying

EMBRACING his only daughter, Svetlana, is former Soviet dictator Joseph Stalin. The picture is believed to have been taken in 1936. Today a police official at Rome airport said Svetlana, 42, has defected from the Soviet Union and arrived recently in the Italian capital. (AP Wirephoto.)

Stalin's Daughter Seeks U.S. Refuge

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Svetlana Stalin, daughter of late Soviet dictator Joseph Stalin, defected to the West apparently after flying to New Delhi with the ashes of an Indian who may have been her husband, Russian sources said here today.

They said she went to India soon after Brijesh Singh, an Indian Communist, died at Moscow in December or January.

The sources said Miss Stalina was believed to have married Singh about two years ago but that there was no way of confirming the story.

The Soviet foreign ministry and American and Indian embassy spokesman declined comment on reports that Miss Stalina defected to the U.S. embassy in New Delhi and now was in Rome.

The sources said Miss Stalina, 42, had a long love affair with 59-year-old Singh, who worked as a translator with a Soviet publishing organization.

In New Delhi, informed sources said that Miss Stalina flew to Rome Wednesday after staying a month with Singh's family in the Indian capital.

SEEKING ASYLUM

They said Miss Stalina left New Delhi after telling the American embassy that she was seeking political asylum.

The Russian sources in Moscow said Singh, 59, originally came to Russia for medical treatment.

They said Singh died and was cremated in Moscow shortly before Miss Stalina obtained permission to visit his family in India.

They said it was unlikely she would have been given a travel passport unless she and Singh were legally married.

Other Moscow informants said Miss Stalina left behind two children by a former marriage, a son about 21 and a daughter about 15.

They were believed to be the children of Grigory Marozov, a student she married when she was 17 and was later forced by Stalin to divorce.

Miss Stalina was said to

Castellani Wins Appeal

VANCOUVER (CP) — Rene Castellani, a former Vancouver radio promotion man, was given a reprieve from the gallows today when the British Columbia Appeal Court granted him a new trial.

Castellani, convicted last November of the arsenic-poisoning of his 40-year-old wife Esther two years ago, was scheduled to hang March 28.

He will remain in custody until there is a new bail application, court was told. Date for a new trial has not been set.

The appeal court referred to trial Judge J. G. Ruttan's charge to the jury in which jurors were told they could consider Castellani to be the murderer because of his "bad immorality and general pattern of life."

Mr. Justice C. W. Tysoe said that portion of the charge left him with an "uncomfortable feeling." Mr. Justice H. A. Maclean referred to it as "disastrous" to the accused and Mr. Justice A. E. Branca called it "highly prejudicial".

Castellani, 41, has been in custody since he was arrested on the capital murder charge last April. He was unable to raise the $15,000 bail.

BODY EXHUMED

Castellani's arrest came more than 10 months after his wife's death and four months after a coroner's jury ruled her death homicide by person or persons unknown. They attributed death to arsenic poisoning while she was a patient in hospital. She was admitted to hospital May 24, 1965, and died July 11, 1965.

Her body later was exhumed on orders of Vancouver Coroner McDonald, and a subsequent medical examination revealed traces of arsenic in her body tissue.

Medical experts testified at an inquest that Mrs. Castellani must have been digesting arsenic at least six months, and possibly as long as 13 months prior to her death.

Woman, 63 Guilty In Stock Deal

The veteran mining promoter, for more than 20 years president of the Prospectors and Developers Association, was remanded by County Court Judge Garth Moore to March 17 for sentence.

She was freed on her own recognizance.

Maximum sentence upon conviction is five years.

Wash trading is a term used to describe stock transactions in which ownership does not actually change hands but which creates an impression of activity.

Judge Moore said the issue in the charges was Mrs. MacMillan's intentions in ordering transactions on the Toronto Stock Exchange in Consolidated Golden Arrow July 10, 1964.

WASN'T IN DOUBT

He said he had no doubt the shares were "artificially stimulated" by Mrs. MacMillan. Transactions involving more than 250,000 shares of the stock were carried out on Mrs. MacMillan's instructions that day, evidence during her four-day trial showed.

The price of the stock rose to 65 cents from 25 cents.

PHAT MORE ACCEPTABLE

Cong Shuffle Aids Viet Peace Hopes

SAIGON (AP) — A change of leadership in the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front to smooth the way for direct peace talks with the United States was reported today by anti-Communist allied intelligence sources.

Huynh Tan Phat, deputy chairman of the Viet Cong's political arm, has replaced Nguyen Huu Tho as chairman, these sources said.

Reports of a change in the NLF's high command have circulated in Saigon government circles for more than a month, the sources said. Interrogation of Viet Cong prisoners and defectors and captured Communist documents appear to confirm the reports.

Replacement of Tho by Phat was "for the purpose of dealing directly with the United States" in peace negotiations, the sources said. They added that the NLF plans no place at the table for Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's Saigon government.

'There's Lots Of Seals'

OTTAWA (CP) — Fisheries Minister Robichaud maintained in the Commons today that there are no signs that the harp seal herds are being depleted by annual harvests.

He was replying to Opposition Leader Diefenbaker who urged him to get in touch with Russia, Sweden, Norway and other countries to bring about eventual cessation of seal killing.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Canada is getting a black eye throughout the world for the seal slaughter without deriving much material benefit from it. Other countries were taking 90 per cent of the seal hides.

CONFUSION, ACRIMONY AND 'DOUBLECROSS'

Forces Hearing Near Farce

OTTAWA (CP) — Cries of "lousy doublecross" and "closure" ended another acrimonious meeting of the Commons defence committee Thursday night.

The Liberals tried vainly for the second time to limit the number of witnesses appearing before the committee which began hearings Feb. 7 on the armed forces unification bill, and to fix a date—March 17—for reporting the bill back to the Commons.

Last Friday Joe Macaluso (L—Hamilton West) presented a motion that no further witnesses be heard except for Defence Minister Hellyer. It never came to a vote.

Mr. Macaluso withdrew his motion Thursday night and Robert Andras (L — Port Arthur) substituted another to hear Mr. Hellyer and three retired military officers and report the bill back to the Commons no later than March 17. The bill must still receive third and final reading by the Commons.

WINCH

Douglas Harkness, former Conservative defence minister, and Jack McIntosh (PC—Swift Current-Maple Creek) described Mr. Andras' motion as closure.

Mr. McIntosh and Donald MacInnis (PC — Cape Breton South) said the motion is a denial of Prime Minister Pearson's promise that all witnesses who wished to appear before the committee would be heard.

Harold Winch (NDP — Vancouver East) accused Mr. Andras of pulling a "lousy doublecross" on him. Both MPs are members of the committee's seven-man steering committee, which meets privately.

Mr. Winch said Mr. Andras had agreed at Thursday's steering committee meetings that Mr. Hellyer would testify Thurs-

Caveat emptor is a lawyer's phrase meaning "let the buyer beware." There is no recourse in law if you get taken if you don't shop around.

For instance, this friend of ours dinged his car and he took it to the repair shop operated by the dealer for that model and the estimate was $86. Then he took it to two other car body shops. The first estimated the job at $60 and the second at $41. The difference in the highest and lowest figures is $45—more than 100 per cent.

Librarian Mary E. Edwards took us to task for erring last week in our mention of library closing hours, which is fair enough. But it makes our typewriter bristle when she says we were library-baiting. The library is an institution we use gratefully and depend upon. And as we pointed out we don't believe its hours should be extended beyond the 78 hours a week it is now open. Rather, patrons should schedule their visits within those periods to avoid tax increases.

Now will somebody please explain the new ruling governing use of the public washroom at the library. (We use the word "public" because that's who maintains it). A woman phoned us to say she was refused admittance because of a new rule that no adult may use it without being accompanied by a child.

We should be used to it, and perhaps we should automatically identify ourselves when we phone people—but there's an irritation in the phrase "Who's calling please?"

It suggests that our friend Joe plans to weigh us in the balance, decide whether we are worth his time or whether he will be "out." Or perhaps his secretary, who doesn't know us, is going to make the decision.

Naturally we are going to identify ourselves to Joe if we ever get to talk to him. And the rudeness of the preliminary screening won't make us more cordial. Someday we'll refuse just to see what happens.

Last week we mentioned the dangers involved in having several streets in the capital district with the same names. Mrs. C. H. Vincent writes that Greater Winnipeg had the same problem. It's a problem which can send police and fire emergency vehicles on wild goose chases while humans suffer. Winnipeg cured it. For example one of its two College Streets became Collegiate Street. Now when is our area going to move on this?

Her mother died in 1932. Some reports said she committed suicide; others said she was killed in reprisal by a political opponent of Stalin.

A police official at Rome airport reported that Miss Stalina arrived in Rome a few days ago, and that she probably was still in the Italian capital.

She has lived in obscurity since her father's death but was the subject of lively gossip while he lived. Reports had circulated in Moscow on numerous romances, and several of her lovers were reported jailed for incurring Stalin's displeasure.

One report said she had had four or five husbands since her first marriage.

Stalin doted on his daughter and Russians in the know said she was one of the few persons to whom he showed affection. In the last years of his life she spent much time with Stalin in his dacha, or country house, 20 miles west of Moscow.

The airport source would not say where Miss Stalina went after her arrival in Rome, but the official news agency Ansa said there were reports she was taken to the U.S. embassy to wait until she could go to the United States.

Another possible reason, the sources said, is that Hanoi wants Phat to negotiate so he can be discarded as a scapegoat if talks break down. Tho would retain real power.

Phat now is believed to be at NLF headquarters in Viet Cong-controlled areas of South Vietnam or—more likely—in Cambodia.

Phat, 41, was born in My Tho in the Mekong Delta and was trained as an architect by the French in Hanoi. He was arrested in March, 1946, as a propagandist for the Communist Viet Minh.

Pure, Rich 22-Carat Entertainment

By AUDREY JOHNSON

How does an evening with the poetry and prose of Dylan Thomas sound to you?

Like, esoteric? Like something on an upper level, tailored strictly for an in-crowd?

Or would you believe, pure, rich 22-carat entertainment?

Then you'd be right. The brawling, witty, pungently perceptive Welshman comes to us as the ace entertainer of our age in the University of Victoria English Department program, Return Journey.

First of three performances kept a capacity audience in the Education-Arts Building auditorium in an uninterrupted condition of charmed ears and tickled ribs.

DON'T BE LATE

The program will be repeated tonight and Saturday. It starts at 8 and don't be late. The kind of enthusiasm generated Thursday spreads like a contagion and shut-out crowds can be expected.

Unquestionably this must rank as one of the finest intimate programs the university or anyone else around here as dreamed up in a long while.

The dreamer who compiled the program is Reg Terry, and to him and to newcomer on the English faculty, Sean Virgo, must go a lion's share of credit for the fine selection and superb presentation.

These readings, chosen and arranged as a return by Thomas to the memories and impressions of his childhood and an exploration of his personality, have been directed by Mr. Virgo with simplicity, vitality and insight.

LUSTY HUMOR

The spare dramatic idiom he has used illuminates but never intrudes upon the material—the rich vocabulary, the marvellous observations, the lusty humor.

With never a word lost, with a broad range of vocal variety and vivid projections of character, Anthony Jenkins, Reg Terry, Sally McCahill and Trefor Williams read from Portrait of the Artist as a Young Dog, Quite Early One Morning, the Collected Poems, Adventures in the Skin Trade and other works.

Gifted actors all, they handle the shining prose and the singing vowels and cadences of the poems and prose as good actors do, with a savoring appreciation of their sensual quality but giving full value to their prime function of projecting sensations, experience, personality.

day night and that after that the committee would try to arrange its next move.

Mr. Andras said Mr. Winch's impression of what occurred in the steering committee was "quite erroneous."

The committee broke up in confusion without any vote taken on Mr. Andras' motion.

Grant Deachman (L—Vancouver Quadra), committee chairman who made a vain, last-minute appeal for a secret meeting today to work out an agreed order of procedure, told reporters the next sitting is not scheduled until 3:30 p.m. Monday.

The three retired officers proposed as witnesses by Mr. Andras are Vice-Admiral Herbert Rayner, former chief of naval staff, Lt. - Gen. Guy Simonds, former chief of army staff, and Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, former chief of air staff.

Mr. Winch said Mr. Andras had agreed in the steering committee that Air Chief Marshal Frank Miller, chief of defence staff until last July, be called as witness. But his motion made no mention of this, Mr. Winch added.

Mr. Harkness agreed with Mr. Winch that it was "essential" that Air Chief Marshal Miller be called, as well as Vice-Admiral Kenneth Dyer, retired chief of personnel.

Mrs. MacMillan supplied the match, he said.

Mrs. MacMillan, wearing a blue suit and white hat, sat staring straight ahead as the conviction was read.

Her husband, George, also a well-known mining executive and promoter, sat quietly near the back of the courtroom. As the conviction was registered, he rested his head on his hand.

The MacMillans also are charged with fraud in connection with the stock market activity in July, 1964, of Windfall Oil and Mines Ltd. No date has been set for that hearing.

credit transactions to disclose to the borrower or buyer "a clear statement in writing showing":

The dollar amount of the loan or price of the goods and the value of a trade-in;

"The cost of borrowing expressed as one sum in dollars and cents and also itemized;

"The percentage that the cost of borrowings bears to the sum . . . expressed as an annual rate applied to the unpaid balance of the obligation . . .

"The basis upon which additional charges are to be made in the event of default."

The bill also sets out disclosure requirements for "variable credit" conditions, return of a "proportionate allowance" of borrowing charges to both parties in event of a debt being paid up before schedule.

And advertisements of loans must disclose the full borrowing costs.

The cooling-off period on off-premises purchases applies to "executory contracts" described in the bill as sales over $50 for products not delivered or paid for in full when the contracts are signed.

Buyers will be able to rescind such contracts within three days by mail or otherwise without giving a reason.

Contracts can also be rescinded up to a year later if all goods in the contract are not supplied within 30 days of a specified delivery date or up to 120 days if a delivery date is not specified.

RETURN GOODS

When a buyer rescinds a contract he must return the goods and the seller has 15 days within which to refund any money paid.

The courts, under the contract relief section, also will be able to "relieve" against an inequitable exercise of legal rights by the seller or avoidable loss to either party."

Also given first reading was a bill to control collection agencies and their employees more stringently.

Called the Collection Agents Act, 1967, it would repeal the present Collection Agents' Licensing Act.

Among its innovations is appointment of an inspector of collection agencies who would report to the attorney-general.

Calder Invited To Presentation

DUNCAN — Frank Calder (NDP—Atlin) will be invited to make presentations of centennial pioneer medals in this district.

Reeve Donald Morton said 30 per cent of applications made to the municipal office for the medals are from Indians.

If you had a car that didn't break so often, you wouldn't be broke so often.

Volvos are built so strong they're driven an average of eleven years in Sweden where there are no speed limits on the highways and over 70,000 miles of unpaved roads.

Come in and drive a Volvo Canadian. You'll find it's more than just a strong car. Volvo out-accelerates every other compact in its class and still gets over 30 miles to the gallon, even with automatic transmission.

Bank Charter Procedure Criticized

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons finance committee has asked Parliament to make it easier for banks to obtain charters.

In current practice, it may take years to get a charter and this has discouraged applicants.

A report by the committee to the Commons Thursday said House rules must be changed to solve this delay by allowing for prompt decision on applications after reasonable debate.

The two new chartered banks opening this year — the Bank of Western Canada and the Bank of British Columbia — both had two-year struggles on Parliament Hill before they won approval.

Each had to be sponsored by a single MP, whose bill had to wait its turn for debate in the Commons private members' hour, a low-priority period that occurs sporadically during parliamentary sessions.

CAN BE 'TALKED OUT'

A group of two or three MPs opposed to the bill can "talk it out" by extending debate past the hour, effectively killing the legislation.

The committee would like the government to get rid of this limitation, while retaining the custom of first sending the application to the committee for detailed study in public hearings.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Record Buying at New York

Wall Street climbed on the heaviest buying of the year as it responded to President Johnson's request that the U.S. Congress restore the 7 per cent investment tax credit. Despite later profit-taking the market held a substantial gain.

First hour-volume at New York was a record 5,140,000 shares. The ticker tape was as much as 27 minutes behind floor transactions, a record for the new high-speed tape.

Prices reached their crest by the end of the first hour when the Dow Jones industrial average was up 13.70.

It was the heaviest buying since 1929.

AT TORONTO prices were trimmed in light trading as profit-takers cut into strong morning gains.

Interlisted issues paced the list as Chrysler gained 2⅛ to 42⅛, General Motors 1⅛ to 80⅝, Massey-Ferguson ⅝ to 24⅞ and Alcan ¼ to 33⅞.

Moore Corp., which showed a burst of strength in the morning after the company announced a sharp increase in 1966 earnings, was hit hard in profit-taking. The stock was up ⅜ to 96 7-8 after touching a high of 99.

Uranium issues continued to strengthen following an early-week statement by Federal Resources and Mines Minister Pepin that the outlook of sales of Canadian uranium in the near future are excellent.

Denison gained 1 1-4 to 58, Rio Algom 5-8 to 26 7-8, and Roman Corp., whose chief asset is Denison shares, ⅜ to 14¾.

AT NEW YORK Pan-American Airways opened on a delayed block of 76,000 shares, up 3⅞ at 73½; Schenley on 36,900 shares, up 2 at 57; Benguet, on 98,000 shares, unchanged at 4⅛.

Among Canadian issues, Granby Mining was up ⅞, Alcan and Massey-Ferguson ¾, Walker Gooderham ⅝, Canadian Pacific ½, International Nickel ¼. Hud-Dome Mines ¼.

AT MONTREAL active trading in Midepsa highlighted a rising market.

Midepsa went against the trend, dropping 50 cents to $3.75 on a turnover of 75,000 shares. It rose 25 cents at the opening but fell when large blocks of shares started to change hands.

AT LONDON the Labor government's by-election setback resulted in an initial spurt on today's stock market, but buyers failed to follow through and several of the leaders soon declined from their best advances.

One or two soft spots included Consolidated Paper and Massey-Ferguson, the latter shedding two points following lower quarterly profit figures. Other Canadian issues hardened.

AT VANCOUVER MacMillan Bloedel was strong in pre-noon trading and rose .62 to 29.75.

Elsewhere in the industrials, Woodward's was off .50 to 27.25 and Centennial Mortgage dipped .05 to a new low of 1.35.

In the mines, West Coast Resources lost .04 to .95 and Utica was off .05 to 2.12. Brenda was up .15 to 7.15 and Highmont was up .10 at 4.60.

The oil section saw Bata reach a new high of 2.30 before returning to 2.25, up .03 on the morning.

Royal American, however, lost .04 to a new low of .92.
